

METCALFE AND CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE ENTHUSED OVER PROSPECTS

With only ten days remaining before election Theodore W. (Ted) Metcalfe, Republican candidate for governor, is continuing his campaign in various sections of the state in a final effort to build up the victorious majority which he confidently believes will be his.

In the last three months, Metcalfe has visited in most of the counties of the state made many speeches both on the street and before the microphone and has shaken the hands of countless thousands of men and women.

Metcalfe and his campaign committee are enthused over the prospects. They point to the fact that thousands of unsolicited letters have been received at the state headquarters praising Metcalfe for his outspoken stand on all important issues in the campaign and pledging him their support.

What generally is regarded as a definite indication of the trend of the Republican governor's race is to be found in the poll being conducted by two radio stations. Since the first poll was announced Metcalfe has held a commanding lead over his nearest opponent. This poll covers the entire state and reflects the opinion of the farmers and residents of the smaller communities, it was pointed out.

Metcalfe has done little active campaigning in Omaha because he feels certain he will be given a tremendous vote where he has lived since boyhood. Thousands of men and women here are active in his behalf.

"If Ted gets anything like the vote in Omaha that he is entitled to, the race will be one sided with his two opponents far in the rear," said one of his leading supporters. "This is Omaha's chance to elect a governor and every loyal Omahan should flock to the Metcalfe banner. The primary election is of particular importance to Omaha because if Metcalfe is nominated he can be elected."

As frankly stated in his platform Metcalfe stands for repeal of the state bond dry law; favors establishment of a non-partisan highway commission; will reorganize the state banking department so that depositors in failed banks will have direct control of their money instead of outside lawyers and agents; adequate to support the public school system; repeal of the law which compels merchants, professional men and women, beauty parlors, barbers and those engaged in many other lines of work to pay a tax on their credit accounts; favors a retail sales tax to substitute for the state property tax in order to relieve the home owner of his present excessive tax load; oppose any new tax which will not be a replacement of a present tax and which will not insure a reduction of the tax burden.

"KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES"

"REVEALING" your PAST, PRESENT and FUTURE.. BY ABBE WALLACE

E. H.—A coworker on my job wants me to exchange jobs with him and I am undecided about it? Is it advisable?

Ans: You should consult your foreman about this matter for he is the one who should decide whether or not you should change. You should consider this seriously before going into it, for it is an out door job and it is very disagreeable in cold weather.

A. J. R.—What should I do in my fix? Will my health ever be any better and when will there be an improvement?

Ans: Why don't you go to your BROTHER IN LAWS and live until you have regained your health. He would make it very comfortable for you there and would welcome you with open arms. Your health will improve as you will be well in a few months.

I. M. C.—My little dog died and I am worried if he died from natural dog diseases or was it natural? Should I get another pte?

Ans: Me was not harmed in any way. He died from OLD AGE and his death was natural. Get you another dog of this same species if you want a pet dog.

E. S.—I want to lead a professional life and I wonder if I will be able to accomplish my aim?

Ans: Not until you are much older will you become a professional VIOLINIST. Is latter you will travel over the country and play in many large theatres.

O. B.—Is there a cure for my condition and if not, should I think of getting married?

Ans: You should not think of living your life alone just because you are a bit ashamed of your STAMMERING. The man you will marry will think none the less of you so try to overcome your self conscious attitude.

F. J. T.—What is wrong with my wife? She seems to get angry when I got in her sight?

Ans: Your wife cannot be satisfied unless she has something to occupy her mind. You have given her a nice home, car, and pretty clothes but still she is not satisfied. She needs to keep regular hours and find some kind of work for her to do that she likes.

B. P.—What was the man's idea for coming on my lot and making a hole in my tree? Did he leave any thing there?

Ans: His idea was to leave some things that he wanted to hide there, but he knew that you saw him and he closed the hole up and left. He made a hole in another tree a few miles down the road and left his valuables.

A. L.—I had a girl and I loved her and I got into some trouble and had to leave and now I am back and I want her but her parents object. What should I do about her?

Ans: Leave her alone and try to stay out of her sight or her parents will make some trouble for you. She married while you were away and you should not try to interfere with her happiness for her husband gives her a good living and she is contented with him.

V. E. W.—Can you tell me what kind of man my father is? He married one of the sweetest girls in the world.

Ans: Your mother is an exceptionally good woman but she has not been able to influence your father any however. He will always chase around after every girl he sees and spend all of his money on them and you and the eleven other children should try to make up to your mother what he failed to give her.

M. J.—Will I take the trip that I am planning on making this summer?

Ans: No for you won't get the money that you now think you will get. The PREACHER you hoped would give you the money won't be able to. You will take a trip next year but don't depend on anyone financing you.

ing sponsored by the Omaha Urban League, the following took place: The secretary from Kansas City was present—sprawled out on a seat with the secretary from Lincoln and two or three other intellectuals waiting for the arrival of the Reverend Arthur Wetherby of Lincoln. The conversation drifted from one common thing to another, and finally the Reverend came in. He was introduced. Then I was discovered and introduced to Mr. Wetherby. Reverend Wetherby wanted to know who I was and was told that I was just one of the common herd who had come in to learn the rudiments of race relations or something to that effect. I misunderstood the name and could not get a chance to ask until Reverend Burkhardt, pastor of Christ Temple, came in and told me. After listening to one of those race relations conversations by the secretary from Kansas City, I left.
