THREE MAJOR CHANGES IN RULES TO BRING HIGHER GRID SCORES

According to some of the country's best coaches and sports authorities on football last year said that something must be done to football rules. They declared, "It's getting harder for a team to score." And believe you me, that is sure it. And so three changes were made—none of them almost revolutionizes the game.

Last season a weakness in football which sent up a big howl from everyone, first the players began then the spectators howled. It was the biggest since the game came into being.

From all parts of the country came scoreless ties. In the East, Colgate; West Southern California, Oregon State; North Notre Dame, Chicago; and in the South, Mississippi, Lafayette—everywhere teams found it tangled up with a scoreless tie.

An eastern newspaper is quoted as having listed 187 games one November Saturday and 118 of them were either scoreless ties or either team could only get across the goal line once.

As offensive football appeared to be developed to its zenith—barring some radical use of the lateral pass—it was declared the offense should be aided and the defense handicapped through legislation. Otherwise those unsatisfactory scoreless ties would never end. Lately there has been no surprise, no puzzling new offense in football.

The game has been a test of one man against another and it is this rivalry that has produced those disgusting scoreless ties and low-scoring games. So the men in charge of rules decided to get busy and mandate that first forward pass grounded behind the opponents goal line is no longer a touch back. It will be counted as any other down, as any ordinary incomplete pass between the uprights. The second pass ruled incomplete behind the goal line will be a touch back as formerly. And readily we are able to see how that ruling on the first pass will be a big aid to scoring.

Last year time and time again teams have driven down the field to the opponents goal only to lose the ball on a pass over the line. And what will happen this year the team has a hundred to one chance to score. Because now the first forward pass grounded over the goal line during any series of four downs does not mean loss of the ball unless thrown on the fourth down.

Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach says, "That means an offensive team may pass, and the defensive backs must guard against that possibility by remaining away from the line of scrimmage; so three fewer men are available to stop running plays quickly within the twenty-yard line. "And that means more scores." The old penalty of five yards in-

THE ANSWER IS EASY

A hard-headed California editor who publishes the Oakland Leader, wants to know who is going to pay the California taxes when the politicians put the existing power companies out of business, with duplicate, tax-exempt, publicity-subsidized plants.

He asks the question after noting that one gas and electric company alone, in his state, pays into the state tax coffers $847 an hour, or $7,427, 678-64 a year.

There is only one answer: Those taxes, plus the additional taxes required to finance unnecessary tax-exempt competing plants, would be added to any remaining taxable property.

T. J. SCORES SECOND WIN

Yellowjackets Hold On Four-yard Line to Win From Glenwood, Iowa

Thomas Jefferson defeated Glenwood, Iowa to raise their victories to two. After the visitors had fumbled twice and Tee Jay taking advantage of them to score the 13 to 6 win on the Bluffs grid iron.

The Tee Jay eleven scored first in the second period when the visitors fumbled on the five yard line after stopping the Yellowjackets' sustained drive. The slippery ice in the form of Don Framein just two plays squeezed across for the tally. Shannon's kick was blocked.

Hueber Stars for Glenwood Otto Hueber did most of the dirty work for Glenwood. He broke away in the third period for a 20-yard run and came back later in the period with a 15-yard run to put the ball on the one yard line. Tee Jay held for a couple of downs but Hueber finally plowed through for the touch-down. His kick failed.

In the closing quarter, Hueber let a pass from center get away from him and then kicked the ball backward in trying to pick it up and Glenwood recovered on the 4-yard line and Hueber's punt from the end zone got only out to the 16-yard line when he was rushed fast and forced to kick high.

Mr. Frame then went to work again. He lugged the ball time and time again which resulted in another touch-down. Shannon ran across the line for the extra point.

The Tee Jay defense stopped all that Glenwood could offer. The time when they reached the four yard line in the first period was the only other time when the visitors threatened to score. Shannon took all the defensive honors for the day.

HOMING BIRDS

By Paul Jay They're coming back, back from their vacations spent in the great cities, the mountains, by the lakes. And we have stayed at home—so many of us. Maybe home-keeping hearts are happier, but just the same, we've felt cheated. It's hard to see why, when every one else was going to the Fair, we couldn't go—and yet—I wonder if we're looking at the thing just right.

Why shouldn't we see through our friends' eyes all the wonderful things they have enjoyed? If we try, I'm sure we can get the wayfarers to tell us of many of their experiences. Their conversation will probably be like this, "The Fair," Oh, there was so had a wonderful time." Not very explicit, I'll admit, but if we keep at it, I'm sure we'll eventually get a report more like this:

"The aFair," Oh, there was so much to see I hardly know what I liked best, but I believe if I had to make a choice, it would be the horticultural building. The gardens there are exquisite and there are so many different varieties. The Japanese Tea Rose Garden, the Colonial, the early American, but what I liked best of all was the old fashioned garden containing the flowers I knew and loved.

The exhibits in the Science building filled me with wonder and admiration. It made me feel proud when I realized that we had in our country, master minds able to conceive and develop the marvelous inventive achievements displayed there. This year the different villages are particularly interesting. It's almost like taking a trip to Europe to wander through the Belgian, the Irish and Scotch villages and see how life is lived in merry England. The Grand Entrance to the Exposition with its avenue of flags is a colorful, so vibrant with life that it fills one with a keen expectancy for the pleasures that lie ahead.

I thought before I went to the Fair that I would get a real thrill out of taking a sky ride or enjoying a trip on the speed boats that flash up and down Lake Michigan, but these in no way compared with the sensation I experienced one day when I happened to be downtown. As it was Farmer's week at the Fair, there had been a special feature planned for the celebration. It was a radio broadcast which was being given at the corner of State and Madison Streets, from an outdoor station that had been erected there. As you may imagine, this drew a tremendous throng. The photographers who were making news reels of the affair, told us there were at least five thousand people in the crowd. Governor McLaughlin and Mayor Kelly were among the number. Just when the program was at its height the shrill, rasping crechees of a fire siren sent the crowd into a panic. There was a fire in the Loop. I was so frightened I couldn't move. It seemed to me I couldn't breathe. As far as I could see in every direction, there were people, people, crowded as close as

INJURED MARQUETTE LADS REJOIN SQUAD

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25—Heavy offensive scrimmage in mud and rain marked completion of the Marquette football practice for the first week. DIZZY DEAN THE FIRST CARDINAL CAPTURING MORE THAN 26 TILTS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 24—Jerome H. "Dizzy" Dean is the first Cardinal pitcher ever to win more than 26 games in one season.

His twenty-seventh victory of the year was a shutout at Brooklyn last Friday surpassing the record of Denton "Cy" Young one of baseball's immortals, who pitched 26 victories for the Cardinals in 1899.

IT IS CERTAIN THAT SCHOOLBOY ROWE WILL START ON THE MOUND FOR WORLD SERIES CLASH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 26—Figuring that his Detroit Tigers are "in" the American league pennant race, Manager Mckey Cochrane said definitely Saturday he would start Lynam "Schoolboy" Rowe in the first game of the world series.

"That's easy—Rowe," fiery Mickey said when asked as to his selection. "I don't care who he had bridge, but it's good baseball to lead your ace and that's what I'm going to do."

"If the Giants win, they'll use Hubbell, won't they? If the Cardinals should lose the Giants out they'll use Dizzy Dean, won't they? That's sound judgment, so we'll use Rowe. Why if we used any but our best against their best, we'd be in the position of conceding the game and the Tigers aren't conceding anybody anything."

"And," Mickey continued, "they might just as well know the makeup of the rest of them too. The outfield will have Goslin in left, White in center and Fox in right and I'll be the catcher."

"Of course, Greenberg, Gehring, Rogell and Owens will compose the infield."

remind us of our vacation, outside of a few souvenirs and a depleted savings account, are our dreams. We'll cherish them, but now with the rain gently falling and new hope springing up, we feel a real burst of pride in our own home town, set in the midst of this vast prairie empire and with all of our hearts we say that "East or West, Home's Best."

Most heartily I am sure we will all agree with our friend's decision in the matter.

Pullman Porters' Union Invades Pittsburgh District

Sunday afternoon in the Central Baptist Church, The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters staged a monster mass meeting to present to the pullman porters the facts about the adoption of the amendments to the Railway Labor Act and the Pension Law by the last Congress.

A Philip Randolph, National President told the story of the long, hard and bitter struggle the porters have passed through in order to build the Brotherhood.

He explained how the security of the job of the pullman porter in particular, and the railway worker in general, was definitely linked with a national labor organization. He indicated, also, that despite the existence of the Pension Law, no pullman porter had any certainty of securing benefits therefrom unless he was a part of a national labor organization which could give him protection and support to the end of making his job secure. The hours of work of the porters were discussed, and Mr. Randolph howed how some three or more thousand porters had been furloughed or put on the extra board because of the chain-ganging of runs and the inhumanly long hours porters put in. The remedy for this, he contended, consisted in the securing of the 240 work month through the instrumentality of a national labor organization, such as the Brotherhood, as provided by the new rail law.

A sensational and remarkable expose of the existing contract under which porters work, was made by Mr. M. P. Webster, First Vice President of the Brotherhood. He read the actual contract itself to the vast audience, to the utter amazement and surprise of the porters and public. It aroused the porters and audience so profoundly that Dr. Ward, pastor of the church, got up and made the public inquiry as to who had signed such a notorious document.

Mr. Webster also discussed the new fake porter organization known as the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association. He styled it as a mere smoke-screen for the old company union known as the Plan of Employee Representation. He said that the same old crowd who had deceived the porters under the old plan was behind this new scheme.

The chairman of the meeting was Mr. Bennie Smith, Second Vice President of the Porters Union.

A musical program was rendered on the occasion. Monday and Tuesday in the afternoon and evening, meetings were held in the Y. M. C. A., and the porters made a remarkable showing in joining the organization.

From Pittsburgh, Messrs. Randolph and Webster will return to Chicago, and from there they will go to San Francisco to attend the convention as delegates of the American Federation of Labor.

MUNITIONS DISCLOSURES BECOME TOO HOT FOR COMFORT IN HIGH PLACES

WASHINGTON—(EP)—Increasing pressure to clamp down on the disclosures made by the Senate munitions committee became evident on Sept. 14, when Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Commerce Roper conferred with the committee. Some of the evidence produced has struck uncomfortably close to home, with its revelations of close government connections with the munitions barons.

Hull is believed in this private conference to have complained to the committee that the State Dept. was being swamped with protests from foreign governments, which have also been involved in the disclosures of the international munitions racket. Roper is understood to have intimated that American business in foreign countries would suffer, if the lid were not clamped down.

That the German Nazis, when they seized power in 1933, were armed with United States guns was indicated in some of the correspondence of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company, which was placed on the record. It intimated that the Nazis used small arms shipped from the United States and smuggled across the German border from Holland.

Bribes, or so-called "commissions," paid to high Chinese military officials by a Du Pont agent in 1932 were revealed at the hearings. But following the conference of the committee with Hull and Roper, the names of the officials were withheld from the record. Negotiations of the Du Pont company for selling the rights to a secret process to the big Mitsui company of Japan, in the same year, also figured in the hearings.

Rumors that nationalization of munitions manufacture might be an outcome of the investigation have been heavily discounted in informed quarters in Washington. State Dept. officials told Federated Press that they would be absolutely astounded if Pres. Roosevelt took any action in this direction, since it would be contrary to the whole policy which the government has consistently followed for some time. This policy is for supervision and control of arms manufacture by international action, through licensing and other similar means, and is being worked out at successive Geneva arms conferences.
