INTERNATIONAL LABOR DEFENSE LEADS TRADE UNION PROEST

International Labor Defense Leads Trade Union Protest Delegation to Washington Protesting Discrimination and Arrest of Textile Workers Following Strike Sell-Out.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Shifted around from Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to Director of Conciliation Kerwin and from him to newly appointed chairman of the new National Textile Labor Relations Board, Judge Walter P. Stacey, the International Labor Defense led a delegation of representatives from the Trade Union Unity League, the Needle Trades Workers Industrial Union, United Shoe and Leather Workers Union, Marine orkers Industrial Union, Taxi Drivers Union, Committee of the Protection of Foreign Born, the legal staff of the I. L. D., in protest against the wholesale discrimination of militant textile workers and continued arrests in the textile areas, particularly in Georgia and North Carolina.

The delegation was greeted with a series of evasive promises of investigation into the matter and categorical statements from Judge Walter P. Stacey, a native son of North Carolina that nobody was arrested in North Carolina except "for breaking the law."

"Madame Secretary: This labor delegation representing several hundred thousand workers organized into trade unions, was brought here by the International Labor Defense, itself representing 200,000 members and affiliates, to protest against the wholesale discrimination and blacklisting practised against over 80,000 textile strikers all over the country and especially in the South.

The strike was called off on the basis of the Winant Board Report, which was hailed by yourself and President Roosevelt as a 'sweeping victory' for the textile workers. This 'victory' in reality has been the most complete betrayal and defeat of the textile strikers who face starvation, unemployment after thirteen weeks of militant strike struggle against the most brutal array of military, machine guns, armed thugs, force and violence ever seen in this country.

Sixteen murdered, the last victim, 18-year-old Leo Roulette, died in Woonsocket, R. I., last Monday. Over a hundred were driven into a concentration camp in Georgia. Hundreds were arrested. Nine states had Nat'l Guard out against the textile strikers. Fifteen thousand troops were on active duty, arrayed in federal U. S. Army equipment, against the textile strikers who demanded living wages, decent hours, an end to the brutal stretchout system and recognition of their union.

"The International Labor Defense, which offered defense of all arrested textile strikers to the national strike committee in Washington as well as to all local and district strike committees, from the first day of the strike protested against the use of armed forces, military and mercenary, against strikers who were exercising their constitutional rights—the right to organize, strike and picket.

"We propose for your immediate attention and action the following demands which we feel are in the interests of the textile strikers: 1. That your department immediately take steps to end the blacklisting and discrimination on the basis of union membership against militant textile workers who were exercising their legal right to organize, strike, and picket.

"2. Complete withdrawal of all armed forces, police, special deputies, thugs, used against textile workers.

"3. Provision made for the unrestricted right of textile workers to organize into unions of their own choosing.

"4. Arrest and punishment of all those responsible for the 16 murder during the three weeks of the strike.

"5. Release of all those arrested, including Sylvia Crouch and Belle Weaver, in Gastonia, N. C., all those still held in Rhode Island under Governor Green's

PROF. LOGAN FORSEES STRUGGLE OVER CONTROL OF HAITIAN FINANCES

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 9.—Special Next step in the struggle of Haiti for self control will involve the management of the government finances, Rayford W. Logan, professor of history at Atlanta University, who spent his summer in the Haitian Republic, declared in a talk this week at Moorehouse College. Mr. Logan was an eye witness to the withdrawal of the United States Marines after a stay of 9 years on the island, and had opportunity to talk at length with President Stenice Vincent, regarding the situation in Haiti.

The coming struggle involves four factors: the National City Company of New York, which the government of Haiti owes $11,000,000; the Bank of Haiti, which is now owned and controlled by the National City Company; the President and people of Haiti, and, finally, the United States Government, which still maintains an American financial representative there in the person of Mr. DeLarne, a resident of Louisiana.

It is now proposed, Prof. Logan explained, that the United States relinquish its financial control, and that this control be placed in the hands of the Bank of Haiti, which under the plan would be sold by the National City Company to the government of Haiti. The bank under this plan would be governed by a board of six, two Haitians appointed by the President of Haiti, two Americans selected by the President from a panel of five persons to be submitted by the National City Company, and two to be selected by the President from a panel submitted by the foreign bondholders' protective council.

Mr. Logan contends that control by the American government is less objectionable than control by representatives of private individuals. He believes with many other friends of Haiti in the United States that they can present these views to the American State Department and get favorable attention.

Mr. Logan devoted his summer to research in Haiti and the United States on the subject of Haitian-American relations in preparation for the writing of a dissertation on the subject, which is to be offered as a requirement for his Ph D. at Harvard University.

"How do I account for the change," he asked. Answering his own question, he stated: "In 1926 the officers in command of the island were largely Southern white men. Today officers are largely men who have come from the Northern and Western States. The Southern officers made the mistake of supposing the Haitians would be as docile as the Southern Negro. They forgot that Haiti had fought for 13 years to win their independence, and through their own efforts had brought forth the one republic in the Western hemisphere where the black man was to be free."

The two men who more than any others brought conditions in Haiti to the attention of the outside world were men whose names would be forever associated with Atlanta University—James Weldon Johnson of the class of 1894, who through his articles in the Nation first reported on oppression of the Haitians under American control, and Professor W. E. B. Dubois, who by his writings in the Crisis focused the attention of the American Negroes and their friends on the conditions in the island republic.

1ST RESOLUTIONS REPORTED OUT AT A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO—(FP)—One resolution was adopted outright, two referred to the Executive Council, one referred back to the Committee on organization and one hamstrung amendment at the fifth day's session of the American Federation of Labor Convention.

The adopted resolution, which carried without a dissenting vote, was introduced by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union calling upon the Executive Council to confer with the Executive Boards of affiliated national and international unions to seek eradication of all discriminations against colored workers.

The two resolutions referred to the Executive Council had to do with organization of migratory and timber workers. A resolution aimed at some of the delegates in the convention for patronizing non-union restaurants went back to the Organizing Committee for amendment. A resolution seeking expulsion of internationals for discrimination against Negroes was amended until it called only for an investigating committee to study the subject of race discrimination in the unions and report back at the next annual convention.

ALABAMA SUPREME COURT TURNS DOWN SCOTTSBORO RE-HEARING

Death Date Set for December 7 Pollak Will Handle Legal Appeal to U. S. Supreme Court Second Time.

(Special to The Omaha Guide)

NEW YORK — Announcement that an immediate appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court will be taken in the Scottsboro case, was made by the International Labor Defense October 4, when the State Supreme Court of Alabama rejected a motion for re-hearing of the appeals in the case of Heywood Patterson and Clarence Norris.

The state supreme court, in refusing to grant the re-hearing, set the date for the execution of Patterson and Norris for December 7. Walter H. Pollak, who brilliantly defended the case of the Scottsboro boys in the legal appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court in 1932, when that body was forced by world-wide pressure to grant the boys a new trial, will be associated in the new appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court with Osmond K. Fraenkel, who has been in charge of the legal work connected with the appeals since the Deatur trial, it was announced by the International Labor Defense.

The Best Talent

In engaging Pollak, the International Labor Defense is following its policy of providing the best available legal talent for every step in the Scottsboro case. The retaining of Samuel S. Liebowitz, one of the most able trial lawyers in the country, for the Deatur trials, was an earlier evidence of this policy.

Walter H. Pollak is considered the most expert constitutional attorney in the country, and the man therefore best fitted to prepare the appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, which will be taken on grounds of denial of constitutional rights to the Scottsboro boys in their trial, one of the most basic points to be raised being the systematic exclusion of Negroes from Alabama juries. Mr. Liebowitz has never conducted such an appeal.

It was after Mr Liebowitz had been informed of the decision to retain Mr. Pollak in the appeals, a spokesman for the International Labor Defense said, that Liebowitz made his announcement, last week, that he was withdrawing from the case—an announcement coupled with a vicious and unwarranted attack upon the defender of the Scottsboro boys, the International Labor Defense.

Mrs. Liebowitz was informed of the decision on Monday, Oct. 1, and made his announcement of withdrawal Oct. 3, almost simultaneously with the announcement of the third lynch-decision of the Alabama Supreme Court in the case, setting the execution date for December 7.

CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION ATTACKS GREEN

SAN FRANCISCO—(FP)—The Northern California Committee of the American Civil Liberties Union, with headquarters in San Francisco, is after the scalp of Pres. William Green.

Green in a report to President Roosevelt on subversive activities included the union among Communist-controlled organizations. In a challenge asking Green to appoint a committee to investigate its organization, the Union points out:

"Our organization has rendered frequent and consistent service to organized labor. We have stood firm against anti-labor injunctions, infringements on the right to picket peacefully, to strike and to organize."

"This report of yours carries libelous implications involving respected Americans who constitute the National Committee of our organization. To name a few: Felix Frankfurter, Richard C. Cabot, Frederic C. Howe, Henry T. Hunt, Norman Hapgood, Judge Charles Amidon, Amos Pinchot, Charles Board, John Dewey and Susan Brandeis.

"You know that the American Civil Liberties Union is constantly attacked by Communists."

ROSENBLATT TRIES TO STEM NRA CRITICISM

SAN FRANCISCO—(FP)—Sol A. Rosenblatt, division administrator of the NRA tried to head off some of the criticism to which the Roosevelt Administration is being subjected at the A. F. of L. convention in an address delivered at the morning session, Oct. 5.

"Last October, when addressing you in Washington," Rosenblatt declared, "I said that the National Recovery Administration is the greatest experiment in practical idealism ever conceived in the minds of human beings. Nothing that has transpired since then has caused me to change my mind."

Rosenblatt said that great gains had been made and that the act and the codes presented truly scientific approach to the solution of industrial problems. A faint ripple of applause greeted some of his remarks. Principal among these was the point at which he spoke of competition and appealed to organized labor not to let it be "competition based upon the debasement of labor," or "competition to see who can make toil more hopeless and unbearable for the wage-earner."

CONSERVATIVES AND PROGRESSIVES CLASH ON NEGRO ISSUE

SAN FRANCISCO—(FP)—The first skirmish between progressive and conservative forces on the floor of the A. F. of L. convention took place in the morning session of the fifth day, Oct. 5. Neither side emerged victorious, but it may be said that the progressives drew first blood.

Centering on a resolution introduced by Delegate Philip Randolph of the Sleeping Car Porters advocating expulsion of "any union which violates the constitution of the American Federation of Labor by maintaining the color bar" and which called for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate the whole status of Negro workers in relation to the A. F. of L., the issue precipitated a sharp division among the delegates.

The Committee on Organization recommended non-concurrence in the resolution. Randolph then took the floor and urged its passage in a restrained but eloquent plea that was followed by one of the longest bursts of applause yet heard in the convention. When an oral vote was taken on the acceptance of the Organization Committee recommendation, a thunderous "no" echoed through the hall. Sparring for delay, before a show of hands could be taken, W. L. Hutcheson of the Carpenters offered on amendment to the effect that President Green appoint an investigating committee to report on the whole matter at next year's convention. Announced.
