Why Not Build Manhood

Mr. Carl Rabe, proprietor of Rabe's Buffet, 24th and Lake Streets, says he believes the government should help fathers and mothers of today with the youth of our country. The following is a suggestion Mr. Rabe made to the Acting Editor of the Omaha Guide. Mr. Rabe says if there were some way for the United States to take full charge of our youth between the ages of 18 and 21 years, and place them under proper discipline in a position where they could be of some service to our government and at the same time be taught discipline, obedience, politeness and the value of good health and how to build a muscular body, we would dispose of the criminal inclinations in the youth of today. Mr. Rabe says that every youth of the country should be forced to accept this training at least eighteen months of his life. He makes the statement from experience.

Mr. Rabe is a native of Germany, and when he was eighteen years old, he voluntarily entered the army. He spent eighteen months in training and says that the foundation of his future life was built during that eighteen months. First he was taught discipline, next, physical endurance, then obedience, and on the whole, came out physically and mentally fit to face the world as a citizen. Mr. Rabe says that not part of his life was spent to so great an advantage in bulding his future as the eighteen months he spent in the army.

The youth of our country at eighteen, as a rule, are turned loose, due to the fact that at this age they become restless, mentally disturbed and uncontrollable by their parents and neighbors, and their environment is not strong enough to hold them in check, and prevent their becoming dregdes on society, either, by physical defects or criminal inclination of the mind.

Mr. Rabe takes off his hat to President Roosevelt's C. C. C. Camp, and says that his only regret is that it isn't compulsory. He says that he thinksevery youth should be forced to sign an agreement for at least eighteen months, as this would be one large step in building manhood in our youths.
