

PAPERS PROPAGANDIZE T B SURVEY HERE

Survey Committee's Report Proves Disease Can Be Placed Directly At Door of City Health Department and Heartless Landlords.

"Eight percent of Negro population victims of dread white plague here"—Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.
"Tuberculosis kills six negroes for every white"—Pittsburgh Press.
"Tuberculosis takes heavy toll among colored folk"—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

These were the glaring headlines which caught the eye and attention of thousands of readers of the three daily Pittsburgh newspapers Wednesday, as they capitalized on the report of the Tuberculosis Survey Committee, and made subtle, but nonetheless deadly propaganda of human misery and suffering.

The headlines, supported in only a minor degree by the articles which followed, have aroused the public indignation of thousands of colored citizens in the city, who see in the way the articles are played, a reaction which is bound to be harmful.

Many people, while not disputing the authenticity of the findings of the Negro Health Survey, conducted under the supervision of Dr. C. Howard Marcy of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, with Miss Alice Stewart and Nurse Elsie Witchen assisting, feel that publication of the findings of the committee will go a long way to thwart the real purpose of the survey.

The White Man's Burden

Interesting among the things brought out by the survey, which included but 8,385 people, and those mostly in the poorer and more congested neighborhoods, is the fact that this continues to be the "white man's problem."

The survey brought forth the fact that tuberculosis is NOT an inherited racial disease. Place whites in the same conditions and under the same circumstances as those which prevailed among the Negroes who were examined, and it is believed that the percentage would be as high, if not higher.

The burden for the appalling figures disclosed in the survey has placed the blame for the condition directly at the door of the white race.

What is wrong with a City Health Department which allows realtors to rent properties which should be razed? What is wrong with a City Health Department that allows six people to live in ONE room in tumble-down hovels, worse than pigpens, and forced to share common faucets, cups, toilets and beds?

What is wrong with a City Health Department that knows and "winks" at the fact that ONE WATER HYDRANT must supply 24 FAMILIES? What is wrong with a City Health Department that allows an aged couple (and still they fight the pension bill) to cover in a tin garage without water or toilet?

What is wrong with a City Health Department which doesn't know (or refuses to know) that a mother, father, eight children, and the baby of a 16-year-old unwed girl were forced to be herded into TWO ROOMS, as their only protection against wintry blasts?

What is wrong with a City Health Department which allows a summery spring, choked with offal, used as an open sewage drain, to flow through the back yard of another tenement?

The White Man's Burden

Certainly, it's the white man's burden. We are living in the United States of America, A. D. 1935. It's a white man's world, white-controlled! It is his love for the Almighty Dollar—His God—which permits of such conditions.

He feels that he can afford to wink at these conditions. Perhaps he can. But he must realize that tuberculosis is confined to no race or color!

Certainly, Negroes admit that the death rate is high, but under the conditions, exaggerated by social and economic disadvantages and fighting a bare-handed, one-sided fight, it's only by a miracle of superb health-background, that the condition is not far worse.

"T. B." Not Hereditary

We wonder why the daily newspapers did not search through the report and bring out public attention that tuberculosis is not hereditary?

We wonder why these same daily newspapers did not play up the fact that there are only three overworked field nurses to care for the patients?

We wonder why these same daily newspapers did not look deep into the survey and bring into bold display the fact that Leech Farm admits ONLY ONE NEGRO out of 20 PATIENTS, when THEY KNOW that the death rate among Negroes from tuberculosis is six times that of whites?

We wonder why these same city editors and rewrite men, who allowed their puny personalities to be reflected in their headlines, didn't bring out the fact that the average length of hospitalization for a Negro patient at Leech Farm was THREE MONTHS—a period of time which would do no good in treating the ailment.

What Army Record Show
We wonder if the city editors of these same daily newspapers can remember back to the World War, when General Enoch H. Crowder, in charge of the selective draft, made the public statement that records in his office showed that of the 400,000 eligible Negro soldiers, their health rating, relatively speaking, was higher than that of the whites.

The survey revealed clearly that the ferocity of the "white plague's" attack on the city's colored population is due "not so much as to the inherited racial tendencies" as to inadequate housing.

Summarizing its 142-page report, the survey committee states that "the control of tuberculosis among the Negroes of Pittsburgh depends upon the provision of adequate facilities for active cases and for the prevention of the spread of the infection."

To accomplish this, it recommends that the city health department establish a separate bureau of tuberculosis control, operating six clinics in the city; maintain a bureau of public health nursing to supervise and carry out the entire nursing program, and enlarge the capacity of Leech Farm by 200 beds, to be apportioned among colored persons in the ratio of colored deaths from tuberculosis.

FANTASTIC

A NEW BRIGHT SPOT WILL TWINKLE ALONG 24th St.

The "Fantastic" luncheon and bar, located on the southwest corner of 24th and Charles Street, will be one of the most brilliantly decorated spots in the city.

A beautiful silver chrome and black glass decorative scheme in the luncheon room is the first thing that strikes the eye upon entering the "Fantastic". A large counter done in black glass occupies most of the space here, with comfortable wicker stools, insuring roomy convenience for the diners.

Along the north wall are several cozy tables. The lighting in the luncheon room comes from dozens of bright lamps concealed in the upper walls behind heavy panes of frosted glass.

The tap room is at a lower level and is reached by a small stairway at the back of the luncheon room. Here the same silver chrome and black glass are used in the decorations, but the feature of this room is a 25-foot bar covered with a single solid slab of Honduras Mahogany, the only bar covering of this type in Omaha.

Comfort of the patrons has been the main consideration of the builders, and the latest modern inventions have been installed to insure comfort in the "Fantastic." Several electric fans and air outlets have been provided, and the ceilings are of a special type through which the bad air and smoke are forced outside. A modern air blower and several wire-glass air filters will keep a steady stream of pure cool air flowing through the place.

A special beer storage room has been built underground with thick cork and concrete walls to keep the beverages cool. The temperature is kept at 40 degrees here, and the beer is pumped underground to the luncheon and bar rooms, where sanitary Temprites, instantaneous cooling devices, regulate the beer temperature and guarantee a cool drink regardless of the outside temperature.

The kitchen, filled with new sanitary equipment, is located between the luncheon and bar rooms.

The "Fantastic" promises to be one of the most popular spots in this section of the city, offering as it does a complete line of tasty, well-cooked foods and a wide choice of drinks.

PROTEST BILL TO INCREASE COST OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Washington, D. C., April 5.—Analyzing various phases of the Rayburn bill which he termed "drastic," S. R. Inch, President of the Electric Bond and Share Company called to the attention of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee that no plan has been presented as a substitute for the present locally-regulated, privately-operated public utility system.

"Certainly nothing so drastic as this bill should be enacted into law, unless and until those who would destroy what now exists have prepared and submitted a definite and workable plan of procedure," Mr. Inch said.

Effects of the Rayburn bill would ultimately increase the costs of electric and gas service to the consumer and by demoralizing local companies would impair service, Mr. Inch also stated.

"A large number of operating companies receiverships would inevitably follow the passage of this bill because necessary financing now obtained from holding companies, would not be forthcoming," said Mr. Inch.

"This would result in general demoralization and would increase costs to electric and gas users for the simple reason that it would increase the cost of money necessary for continuance and expansion of the utility business."

Mr. Inch brought out that the electric and gas industries, if accorded fair treatment and cooperation from government, could be great leaders in the drive for business recovery.

"The way back to prosperity is through the re-establishment of business confidence which will permit private tax-paying capital to go to work again," he said.

"Then the next five years, instead of seeing the demoralization and destruction of these great industries as private enterprises under this bill would see them again engaged in constructive expansion."

"The same five years instead of bringing about the ruin of millions of investors would bring recovery to their investments and the restoration of their income, from which new taxes would accrue to government."

Mr. Inch brought out that in 1930 these two industries spent more than a billion dollars on construction alone in an effort to help stem the depression.

"Our own associated companies are now spending $25,000,000 a year for construction," said Mr. Inch. "In normal years they spend a hundred million dollars a year. This is just an indication of what these industries mean in the drive for business recovery."

"During the depression years the Electric Bond and Share Company and its associated holding companies invested $144,000,000 in building and unifying two natural gas systems. This created employment for thousands, with benefits to their communities and protected investors who would have suffered severe losses unless we had come to their aid."

"These developments represent real and outstanding contributions to social stability and business recovery during the worst years of the depression and they could not have been carried out and put into successful operation without the financial assistance of our company."

Mr. Inch said that the money they put into these projects is still in them and he said, "the reward now offered to our stockholders is that their property shall be taken from them without compensation."

The same can be said of their efforts to develop the foreign market, Mr. Inch said.

"If this bill becomes a law, we must sacrifice $250,000,000 we have invested in foreign countries," he said. "Our government which now would force us to get rid of our foreign holdings, urged us to enter the foreign utility field as a means of creating closer ties between the United States and various foreign countries and as a means of creating new markets for American made goods."

Mr. Inch warned that if his company was forced to give up their foreign investments, it would be acquired by foreign interests, closing these important markets to American people.

Mr. Inch branded as false, claims that owners of public utility securities will lose nothing if this bill passes. He said these statements are incorrect and misleading to the security owners.

Mr. Inch championed diversity in business. He said diversity is the principle upon which most kinds of successful business is based. He used insurance companies as an example.

The results of diversity as one of the principal contributions of the utility industries to social progress he brought out by showing how metropolitan utility service was brought to village, hamlet and farm.

"The Electric Bond and Share Company is not a 'paper' organization," Mr. Inch said. "We furnish our client companies with necessary expert service at a charge which represents less than one-fortieth of one cent per kilowatt hour sold. The advent of our company has always brought about improved service and lower rates. The customers of our associated companies have been saved over $84,000,000 in rate reduction since 1929."

Discussing write-ups, he said that write-ups of their properties have never increased rates.

Write-ups are merely reflected in book values at a particular time, Mr. Inch brought out. He said rates are not based on book values but on the set principle of a fair return on a fair valuation of the actual property used and useful in public service.

"Write-ups or write-downs can have no effect on rates," he said. In connection with our associated companies rate reductions invariably followed, in many cases immediately, and in all cases at an early date."

Since service has been good and rates reasonable, how can the present demand for the abolition of the holding company and the drastic federal regulation of local operating companies be for the well-being of the public utility user, Mr. Inch brought out.

SHARECROPPERS ACCUSE ASSOCIATED PRESS OF EVADING LYNCHING

Sladen, Miss.—CNA—Charges of intentional distortion and conscious of suppression of facts, relevant to the lynching of Abraham Young here last week, was leveled at the Associated Press by indignant sharecroppers here.

Mackie Drew Gun First. Sharecroppers and eye witnesses to the shooting of Mackie state that important facts have been omitted and distorted. The witnesses declare that contrary to the Associa ed Press reports that Mackie had attempted to prevent Young from shooting him, it was Mackie himself who first whipped out a pistol to kill Young. In self defense, Young drew his gun and shot Mackie.

Sharecroppers declare that Young was lynched by the landowners after Mackie, a hiring of the land owners, had failed to kill him.

A sharecropper organizer Young was hated and feared by the landowners because he organized sharecroppers into a union to fight against the brutal exploitation. When the landowners refused to distribute the Agricultural Adjustment Administration compensations for the cotton crops and number of hogs that the sharecroppers were forced to curtail, Young helped organize a mass campaign of protest. The landowners then decided to get rid of Young.

A secret meeting, they hired Hardy Mackie, local hoodlum and bully, to kill Young. Mackie fortunately failed, Young having shot him in self-defense. The landowners utilized Mackie's death as an excuse to lynch Young themselves.

The Associated Press evidently "overlooked" these "details," the sharecroppers charge.
