

Racial Discrimination Church Conventions Denounced

World Needs Religion of Jesus Rather Than A Religion about Jesus, Says Denver Clergyman.

(By the Continental Press) Denver, Colorado, April 30—"The world's great need today is the application of the religion of Jesus rather than so much talk about, while possessing so little of, the religion of, the religion of Jesus," said Dr. Edgar M. Wahlberg, scholarly minister of the nationally known and liberal Grace Community church of this city, in an address Monday afternoon before the Denver Interdenominational Alliance in its regular session at the Glenarm Branch Y. M. C. A., 2800 Glenarm Place.

Speaking on the subject, "The Religion of Jesus," Dr. Wahlberg insisted, "We need a Lenten period which has the Religion of Jesus rather than the religion about Jesus. Not only should we have the Religion of Jesus dominate our lives in the Lenten period rather than a religion 'about' Jesus, but in all other periods of our lives."

The scholarly and eloquent White minister pointed out that there are approximately three hundred million church adherents but the majority by far "are concerned about the Religion 'about' Jesus so much so that they do not stop long enough to consider the Religion 'of' Jesus."

"Furthermore," Dr. Wahlberg continued, "we are too much concerned about the Religion 'about' Jesus to stop to consider what is the religion 'of' Jesus. We are concerned about creeds, institutions and certain formalities which only intensify our prejudices. We have dug narrow channels of Nationalism, of economic injustice, of Race prejudice."

"The church should act to end the economic injustice of the present day and we should learn that the material resources of the world are for use in making mankind happy and not for profit. The church should help in preparing for the 'abundant life.'"

The eminent and liberal Dr. Wahlberg created national and international attention by his recent stand in refusing to attend a Cincinnati conference on "The Racial Ministry" when the announcements stipulated that Negro ministers would be segregated from white ministers, certain hotels having been designated for white ministers and others and the Y. M. C. A. for Negro ministers.

Considerable criticism was heaped upon Dr. Wahlberg by some of his white ministerial colleagues, but his answer was that he did not wish to be party to a program under the auspices of the supposedly 'Christian church' which set up such racial barriers that were incompatible with the principles of Jesus Christ. Some held that the Negro delegates accepted the discrimination themselves. Dr. Wahlberg held, "Even if they did, that fact did not necessarily make it right nor tolerable to a Christian man."

"The religion of Jesus stands for Love, Justice, Brotherhood—the hard way no doubt, but it is the only way that can gain the expression and have the influence intended by its Founder, Christ Jesus."

The Grace Community Church, of which Dr. Wahlberg is pastor, is of the Methodist Episcopal faith, is most unique among American churches. It is called a great laboratory working day and night on the principles of Human Relations, that is, Race Relations, Capital and Labor, Old Age and Health Insurance, Relief, et cetera. Dr. Wahlberg risks unpopularity and frequently alienates many who otherwise would be joined to him, but he ever stands foursquare for equality of opportunity and even handed Justice for everybody.

Mr. Fred Glaser Says Citizens' Eat 14,400,000 Frankfurters a Year

Residents of Omaha annually consume nearly 4,000,000 pounds of sausage, including enough frankfurters (or wieners) to reach from Omaha to Philadelphia, it was estimated today by Fred Glaser, Omaha meat packer and member of the National Organization of Sausage Manufacturers.

"Frankfurters," he said, "represent approximately 30 per cent of all the sausage eaten in this city. On this basis, Omaha annually consumes 1,200,000 pounds of Frankfurters. There are about 12 frankfurters of the average size to the pound, thus making 14,400,000 individual frankfurters eaten annually in Omaha. At an average length of five inches, we find that it would require about 1,135 miles of frankfurters to satisfy Omaha's appetite each year."

Mr. Glaser explained that frankfurters are the most popular of all sausages. In some sections of the United States, he said, they are known as "wieners," and in other sections as "Coney Islands," and in still other sections as "half smokes". The most universal name for them is "red hots". Following frankfurters in popularity comes bologna, which represents 17 per cent of all sausages consumed; pork sausage, 15 per cent; dry sausages (including salami, cervelat, etc.) 13 per cent; summer specialties (such as smoked tongue, veal loaf, etc.) 13 per cent; and miscellaneous types, 12 per cent.

"In all, there are more than 100 distinct types of sausage and prepared meat specialties," he said. "Sausage prepared in this country to meet special specific racial preferences has proved a never-ending source of amazement to the people of many European countries who have come to the United States. Varieties popular in Vienna, Stockholm, Berlin, Rome, Athens, Madrid, and almost any other European capital may be purchased across the counter in Keokuk, Iowa; Wahoo, Nebraska; or Omaha."

South Repudiates the Filibuster

(Continued from Page 1) played in mining, iron and steel, meat packing, and railroad work. It appeared from this report that, though Negroes in these industries had suffered some ill effects from the NRA, the net result had been to their advantage.

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, of Fisk University, who has directed an intensive study of the Negro in agriculture, painted a gloomy picture of the status of farm tenants, white and colored. This condition, he thought, could be remedied only by an extensive federal land ownership possible on easy terms. The commission approved the Bankhead farm tenant bill, now pending in the United States, which provides for the beginning of such a program. The results of these surveys, which were conducted under the Commission's auspices, are to be summarized and made public.

Dr. E. McNeill Poter, Jr., of Raleigh, N. C., was reelected president of the Commission. Doctors John Hope and Ashby Jones were elected honorary presidents, and Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, of Daytona Beach, Fla., first vice president. Dr. Will W. Alexander was reelected to direct the work of the commission. The anti-lynching statement, which was given to the press and sent immediately to all the Southern senators, was as follows:

"Hitherto the Commission on Inter-racial Cooperation has taken no opposition relative to federal anti-lynching legislation. We were agreed that the primary responsibility for the prevention and punishment of lynching rested upon state officials and courts, and that, in last analysis, public opinion was largely the determining factor. Consequently, the Commission from its inception has worked continuously along these lines, seeking anti-lynching legislation in a number of states, urging vigorous preventive measures, asking effective court action against the members of mobs, and at the same time seeking through all possible avenues of publicity and education to build up a public opinion that would no longer tolerate crimes of this character."

"Lynching records of the last fifteen years indicate progress along the line of prevention. Officers generally are more vigilant than formerly in the protection of prisoners, thereby reducing the lynching toll. Meantime intelligent public opinion is practically unanimous in condemnation of mob violence."

"On the contrary, with rare exceptions, attempts at prosecution in lynching cases continue to be futile. In nearly every case the community hysteria which gives rise to a lynching makes impossible and effective court action against the perpetrators of the crime. Consequently, in not one case in ten is an effective effort made by the authorities to identify and prosecute the members of lynching mobs. Even in the rare cases in which such efforts have been made, indications have very seldom been obtained, and convictions have usually proved impossible."

"Disappointed by this record of impotence on the part of state and local officials, the Commission has reluctantly been forced to the conclusion that little is to be expected from this source, at least in the immediate future, and that an appeal to the federal

Shorts for Sports

"A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!" Whether there's a pony in this fashion picture or not, the polo shirt and shorts are bound to be a hobby this summer with her royal highness, the American 8 to 16 year old. Capricious fashion, in the person of the exclusive M child-garment designer, was never more sensible than when she created this sports style for active young ladies. The shorts, smartly turned out in the style of the divided skirt which has lately returned to grown-up riding habit vogue, are fashioned with knit inner panties. The mesh polo shirt is closed with talon fastener—and is nobly man-tailored down to the last neat detail.

"The Commission favors, therefore the enactment of federal legislation to this end, in the hope that federal agents and courts would be in a better position to act fearlessly and effectively in the prosecution of participants in the crime of lynching."

Relief Discrimination Against Negroes

Washington, D. C.—CNA—Statistics released here by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, white, throws further light on the rank discrimination against Negroes in the distribution of relief.

Hearings Reveals of Barring of Negroes

New York—CNA—A bombshell was thrown into the Mayor's committee hearings last Saturday day when James W. Ford, vice president of the L. N. S. R., raised the question of exclusion of Negroes from grand jury service in New York County.

Defend Lynching in Senate Speeches

Washington, D. C.—CNA—Anti-lynching bills are "reflections on the South" declared Southern senators in Congress last week. This, in essence, was the broadside launched by the Southern senators against the Costigan-Wagner measure.

Senator Smith of South Carolina and Senator George of Georgia led the attack on anti-lynch bills, declaring that they were unconstitutional and a "reflection on the south."

Smith openly allied himself with the lynch elements. He delivered an impassioned and claptrap oration upon the necessity of protecting the "virtue of Southern white womanhood" against rapist, assumedly "Negro-rapists." "Certain acts committed; lynching of negroes," he declared, "are beyond the reach of any court or jury in the opinion of any right-minded man or woman."

Hence, any anti-lynching bill, according to Senator Smith is an "open reflection on the South" and fur her that "no one shall violate the pudity" of Southern white womanhood "without paying the just penalty."

C. C. C. Enrollees to be Selected by State Directors; Fechner Special to The Omaha Guide

Robert Fechner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, today announced new basic state quotas establishing the number of men each state is authorized to enroll in the Civilian Conservation Corps under the program expanding the CCC to 600,000 men. The new quotas, carrying increases for virtually all states, were computed on a basis that weighted population 50 per cent and relief needs 50 per cent in each state. The young men enrolled by the War Department in the CCC will be selected by the Department of Labor through state directors of selection. The Veterans' Administration will select the veterans. Of the total number of 600,000 to be enrolled in the camps, 545,000 will be juniors and 55,000 veterans.

The selection and enrollment of men to bring the corps to 600,000 men will begin on June 15. Completion of enrollment is scheduled for August 31. It is estimated that during the enrollment period approximately 350,000 men, including replacements for men who drop out prior to July 1, will be sent to the camps. Enrollment in the CCC is limited to young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-eight years, war veterans and a small number of experienced men selected from the localities where camps are situated. The present authorized strength of the CCC is 353,000. Included in the 353,000 are 50,000 drought relief enrollees from the cities of twenty-two drought states.

slow. Do you think I will marry the one I have in mind? Ans.—The girls you run around with are not too slow. It's just that you are so fast that they appear that way to you, and I advise you to slow up a bit. The boy you are in love with thinks a great deal of you but if you expect to win him, you'll have to slow up to a pace that he can keep up with you.

Ans.—Since you have already been married once, I advise you to be sure the man you are planning to marry is the right one for you. I don't believe you will be disappointed in him, however, for he is already thinking seriously of buying a nice FIVE ROOM HOUSE—However, it will be at least four or five years before he can finish paying for it.

Ans.—Will you please tell me what is the matter with me and advise me just what to do? Ans.—Don't get the idea into your head that you are DUMB, for you are not. It is just that it is harder for some people to learn in school than others, and in some cases PRIVATE INSTRUCTIONS are necessary. Since you have already been in the eighth grade for two years, I feel sure that you could make a lot more headway with your education in a PRIVATE SCHOOL.

H. P. R.—Should I start making plans for the future, and do you think I could have any success? Ans.—You certainly should start making plans for the future, and don't think that you are too old to do anything worth while. Even though you are near forty, you still have a chance to adjust yourself to the idea of supporting yourself—DRESS MAKING should prove a most excellent way for you to make an honest living.

J. R. D.—Will you kindly tell me where my husband went Saturday night? Ans.—Before you and your husband went on the trip last week, he naturally had to make some reservations for it, and that appears to be what he did Saturday night when he left you at his sister's house. If you wouldn't be so suspicious of every move your husband made, you could enjoy a lot of trips with him similar to the one you took to the mountains last week.

H. M. B.—Is my husband still flogging around with the woman I have in mind? Ans.—The woman you have in mind has been afraid to be seen in the company of your husband since you caught them together, even though she does still like him. He seen to have taken a fancy to another girl now, and she appears to be none other than this woman's daughter.

T. H.—I am down and out and would like for you to advise me what to do about my financial condition? Ans.—There is no reason whatsoever for you to be in such bad circumstances, with all the property you own, and you should consider yourself lucky that you have been fortunate enough to keep it. The farm you haven't doing you a bit of good as it is—it would help you out considerably to sell it for it is worth a big price.

O. C.—Please tell me if a financial way will open soon for me to do what I wish? Ans.—You have chosen a very good way to meet new friends and not only will you have a good time at BOARDING SCHOOL, but you will get some good training for both the business and social world—By the time the fall term begins, it appears that your family will be in a position financially to let you enter a boarding school.

F. S.—Do you think my job will turn out to be a steady one? Ans.—You seem to be highly respected where you work but even though you have won a good reputation, your job will not prove to be a permanent one—For detailed information I suggest that you see note attached to this column and write to me for a PRIVATE REPLY.

L. B.—I believe in having a good time but the girls around here are too
