

SHARPS AND FLATS

AMONG THE MUSICIANS

The musicians really had a ball in Mason and Knox's Monday night. It looked like an old family reunion down there.

We hear there's a certain young man in the Dixie Rammers, who wears the brim of his hat down when he 'sports 'em up' and he wears it up when he goes calling in society. Now, we wonder who that could be?

The boys who went on the good will tour all say they really had a wonderful trip. Oh, Palmer house! We were glad to hear that their trip was a success, and by the way, William Lewis is still the manager of Desdunes' Band.

De Witt Mills has joined Lloyd Hunter and his Kats. De Bo has been running a pool room for the last eight months in Oklahoma City, but he says he could no longer resist the call of the Kats; so here he is back in the old game, and we're mighty glad to welcome him back.

Oh, swing! A certain musician was certainly carrying a torch Monday night, and how. Percy Walker told us he's been celebrating so much here of late because he's going to get married. Yes! Yes! Yes!

Gregg Williams says Sunday night is artists' night at Jessie's Tavern. So every Sunday night you can find the cats riffin' at Jessie's.

was a confirmed drunkard and a dope user and that she talked of suicide. Poison was found in her viscera and the husband was charged with having administered the poison. Some of the evidence was strongly presumptive, but all circumstantial.

The chief and most dangerous prosecuting witness was a woman of 29 years. The accused man fell in love with this woman when he became estranged from his wife and sometime before her suspicious death. He gave her expensive presents ranging from a canary bird to a motor car. She accepted these and used them. She admitted that she even received from him money under false pretense and "got all she could out of him."

Then this young woman took the witness stand and tried to send to death the man who loved her and made these rich presents. She did not know he killed his wife. But if she did and knew that he had done it because of love for her, it was rank treachery for her to seek his death. He gave love, adoration, devotion, and expensive presents and she repaid with treachery. This is unusual for a woman and it puts her in the class with Judas Iscariot, Brutus and Benedict Arnold. She deserves condemnation and ostracism. The world will ever hate treachery, no matter what the circumstances.

What Others Think!

A Colored Daily Newspaper or Tri-Weekly Newspaper would be a strong advertising feature heading from Washington, D. C. to Chicago, with subsidiaries west and south.

A Daily running instead of weeklies. A Daily Colored Newspaper Syndicate could add a million dollars a year income from advertising, over the present weekly newspapers, with a unit force from Washington to Chicago; having a strong political force demanding better rights and justice for Colored Citizens.

The time for a colored daily newspaper has arrived. News matter 3 to 10 days old re-written makes stale newsmatter. It is poor composition against caucasian dailies bringing forth fresh news matter every few hours.

With such weeklies as the Baltimore Afro-American, Baltimore, Md., Pittsburgh Courier, at Pittsburgh, Penn., The Chicago Defender, Chicago, Ill., The Kansas City Call, at Kansas City, Missouri, and the Amsterdam News, New York, would make a strong combination. With a coupling up of these strong weeklies, they could issue from each point a part of a daily paper which would be no more than the weekly publication, which each of them now put forth. For instance, the Chicago paper could come out on Sunday and Monday, the New York paper Tuesday and Wednesday, the Baltimore paper Thursday, Pittsburgh paper Friday and the Kansas City paper Saturday.

They could telegraph their daily matter over special wires going to each point, one establishment giving the news from their section from one quarter section, second, third and fourth quarter, completing a circuit of news each day. Since each of these newspaper publications have their own newspaper plants, this would make it easy, economical and profitable. It would cut down unnecessary expense. And give the daily paper better feature writers. The object in view would be obtained. The colored citizens' interest would be advanced in the United States and a colored daily would be competing with the caucasian dailies.

Advertising would be valuable to merchants in the industrial, commercial world, because of the important current news freely coming forth about the colored population in the United States. Many small weekly colored publications would be special correspondence because they would feed upon the news, as subsidiaries and would at the day of their publication have the main features in their

Dear friend Galloway: I want to tell you how much I enjoy reading the editorials in the Omaha Guide. I have noted with pleasure that you devote almost a full page to these editorials.

It is hoped that enough racial pride and educational interest will be exhibited by the Negroes of Omaha to infuse a spirit of collective efficiency, which seems to be waning among us.

Hollins Case Victory Means New Court Fight in Oklahoma

State Authorities Announce Plan to Try Him Again in June or July; Defense Fund Needed

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 23—Jess Hollins, twice snatched from death on the gallows by the N. A. C. P. and saved again by the United States supreme court in a decision handed down May 13, faces retrial almost immediately by Oklahoma courts.

State authorities announced here this week that they are rushing plans to try Hollins again, perhaps as early as June. The state branches of the N. A. C. P. and the national office in New York are going forward with plans for the Hollins defense, but are faced with the task of raising the money needed to carry on.

In its decision Monday the supreme court again struck at the practice of barring Negroes from service and declared the conviction of Hollins was unconstitutional because Oklahoma had refused to call Negroes as jurors.

The case was argued before the court April 29 by Dean Charles H. Huston, of the Howard University law school and a member of the national legal committee of the N. A. C. P. He was assisted in preparing the case by W. L. Houston and Edward P.

Loveitt. The state of Oklahoma was represented by its attorney general. Mr. Houston and his associates served without pay, but the incidental expenses were paid by the N. A. C. P. These were reduced somewhat by having Hollins appeal as a pauper.

Faced with a new trial in Oklahoma, new money must be raised. The previous trials of Hollins cost more than $500 and would have cost much more had not Editor Roscoe Dunjee and others given service without even charging expenses to the association. The N. A. C. P. is appealing for a Hollins defense fund of at least $1,000 as it is likely there will be additional expenses, no. in the first trial.

The Hollins case is one of the most dramatic ever handled by the N. A. C. P. Hollins was convicted in December, 1931 of criminal assault on a white girl in or near Sapulpa, Oklahoma, and sentenced to death. The L. L. D. took charge of the case. Nothing was done for some months and the death date was set for August 1, 1932. Leading colored citizens in Sapulpa, McAlester and Oklahoma City, seeing no effort was being made to save Hollins wired the N. A. C. P. on August 15th, and on August 17th, a stay of execution was secured for him to appeal to the supreme court.

The Oklahoma state supreme court immediately reversed the conviction and granted a new trial. In its decision it used some of the strongest language in years in condemning the lower court for its handling of the case. It declared Hollins had not been protected in his rights, that he had had no lawyer, that he had been tried in the basement of the jail, at night, with a howling mob outside and that the authorities had taken advantage of him.

In the new trial, testimony cast strong doubt upon the rape charge and revealed the young woman as one who mingled with Negroes. The jury also was brought out a conference will be called of the state branches on or before June 1 to push defense plans.

Charge NRA Officials Helped Intimidate Negro Workers

Washington, May 23.—The famous Maid-well Garment Company case crashed the news lanes again this week when John P. Davis, secretary of the Joint Committee on National Recovery, asked Sol A. Rosenblatt Complaince and Enforcement Director of the NRA to dismiss two of his Arkansas agents for violation of well-established NRA rule that name or identity of any complainant be not exposed to the persons or company complained against.

The two agents whose dismissal is asked for aiding in the intimidation of complaining Negro garment workers at Forest City, Arkansas are Brooks Hayes and C. M. Meusel of the Labor Compliance Personnel of Arkansas.

Mr. Davis's demand was accompanied by an affidavit signed by one of the Negro workers, Mrs. Letta Duncan, that the agents perjured their testimony to be taken in the presence of Ed Ash, representing the Maid-Well Company and Attorney S. H. Mann, his lawyer. Mrs. Duncan testified that other colored women, former employees of the company tried to avoid paying them the NRA wage scale, were also subjected to sharp questioning by the company's attorney and the NRA agents, in violation of the above mentioned rule.

"The case of Mrs. Duncan is but typical of the treatment accorded more than sixty-five other complainants by these NRA officials," Mr. Davis wrote Mr. Rosenblatt. "Further, affidavits furnished by me to the NRA have been made available to Messrs. Ash and Mann. With information secured from these affidavits, the respondent and their agents have sought to intimidate nearly all of the affiants into signing statements in repudiation of their affidavits. I have good reason to state that Messrs. Hayes and Meusel were well aware that such use would be made of these affidavits. They acted in total disregard of the fiduciary relationship they bore both to these workers and to NRA."

As duly authorized representatives of these workers and on behalf of the Joint Committee on National Recovery I wish to ask the immediate dismissal of Messrs. Hayes and Meusel.

Mr. Davis in addition demanded a hearing in Washington with the two Arkansas officials and four of the Negro garment workers present.

These Negro workers have been trying vainly to get back wages due them when they were fired in January 1933.

Recital By Madame Frances E. Motin

Kansas City, Kansas, May 17.—Magnificent, marvelous, incomparable are some of the terms used to describe the Grand Dramatic Recital at A. M. E. Church, Thursday night. The program ran the whole gamut from Dunbar's "Encouragement" to Shakespeare's Macbeth and Julius Caesar. The participants were "raw recruits" of only four weeks training by Madame Frances E. Motin, declared by the New Orleans Daily Times to be the best dramatic artist the Negro race has produced.

This woman pioneer and veteran in her line, reminds one of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the marvelous musical artist who is still an attraction in spite of advanced age. Madame Motin is the only Negro graduate of the Alberta Magnus University of Dramatic Art, of Los Angeles, from which school she has the much coveted degree of Bachelor of Histrionics. A product of Kansas, educated in the public schools of Topeka, Kansas and Kansas State Normal at Manhattan, this wonderful woman has taught dramatics in Tuskegee Institute; Western University, Kansas City; Lincoln Institute, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Madame Motin has conducted dramatic recitals in all of the leading cities of America, including Boston, New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Indianapolis and Los Angeles. She has received many medals of honor, one of the most highly prized being presented by the Y. M. C. A. of Indianapolis. A distinguished honor was her appointment to represent the states of Missouri and Kansas at the National Negro Educational Congress held in Denver, Colorado, a few years ago. All Kansas City is urging a repetition of this marvelous recital.
