S. T. R.—I have been very upset over matters and would like to know if my husband will ever quit his ways?

Ans: Your husband's ways were brought on through your carelessness and it seems that he is so used to seeing you throw away money on foolishness that he doesn't care whether or not he saves anything. Why don't you co-operate with your husband and try to make your allowance go farther? I feel sure if you do this, he'll take more interest in SAVING and making a HOME.

S. M. D.—I would like to know where my lost brother is?

Ans: It appears that your brother was caught for a very serious offense and is now serving a term in the state prison in the city where you last heard from him—you can get in touch with him by writing to him at this prison.

H. D.—I wonder if there is anything in life for me and I would like for you to tell me so?

Ans: What you get out of life in the future will be up to you. Forget about letting your husband go his way and you go yours. Forgive each other for your past mistakes and stick together for you know that you both were meant for each other—you can get a lot of happiness out of your marriage if you put your heart into it.

C. M. S.—Did my sweetheart and I part for good last week?

Ans: It appears that when you flared up last week about your sweetheart being untrue to you, that caused you to part, and it will be for good. He has been going with another girl for about two months and is apparently very fond of her—The way you acted last week was just a good chance for him to break away from you.

M. S.—I want you to tell me when I will be called to work?

Ans: The results you will get from the applications you put in for work will prove very satisfactory, for it appears that you will be called to work before the end of MAY—This position appears to be as a NURSE in a large institution in your city.

N. N.—Will the man I care for ever mean anything in my life?

Gives $20,000 to Rosenwald Fund
 Chicago, Ill., July 11, (ANP)—Twenty-thousand dollars over and above the regular appropriation for improvement of schools for both white and colored in the South will be spent by the Julius Rosenwald Fund as a result of an unusual bequest received from the estate of Theodore Max Troy of Jacksonville, Fla.
 Mr. Troy, who died May 1, 1934, unmarried and survived by any near kin, made the Fund one of the residuary legatees of his estate, but expressed no directions or suggestions as to the use of the gift.
 Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, announced that it is almost unheard of for a foundation established by a single individual to receive gifts or bequests from others. It is the more remarkable in this case, since Mr. Troy never communicated with anyone in the Fund.
 "We assume this gift was made because Mr. Troy knew and approved of our southern school work," Mr. Embree said. "In recognition of his unusual expression of confidence we will expand and enrich the program which we believe attracted his interest."

Birmingham Home Dynamited
 Bessemer, Ala., July 11, (ANP)—A second bombing following in the wake of the return of workers at Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, occurred here Tuesday night when the home of Tom Williams, one of the workers, was dynamited by unknown parties. The Williams home was almost demolished by the explosion, but no one was injured.
 A third dynamiting was frustrated Monday night when James Stallings, another employee of the Harbison-Walker Company, discovered the bomb on his porch and hurled it out in the yard where it exploded. James and Charles Acker were arrested, charged with this attempted bombing.

Northern Baptists Close Meeting
 Colorado Springs, Col., July 11, (ANP)—Twenty-two hundred Baptists, representing both racial groups and 32 states gathered here last week in attendance upon the annual meeting of the Northern Baptist Convention, at which reports rendered showed the growth of the denomination and the efforts being put forth to promote education.

Funeral Directors Elect Pratt President
 Oklahoma City, Okla., July 11, (ANP)—Although the sessions of the 10th annual convention of the Independent National Funeral Directors' Association, held in this city last week, were marked by the most spectacular and bitter fight within the official family in the history of the organization, the 196 delegates from 28 different states, carved their way out of confusion and charted a path for co-operative effort which they believe will lead to the furthest advance ever made by a group of Negro business men in this country.

Lawton L. Pratt of Jacksonville, Fla., was elected president, succeeding Benjamin J. McFall, Detroit.
 As expected, the two biggest jobs before the delegates involved the settlement of the quarrel within the official family and the adoption of a program, based upon the studied needs of the industry and the lessons learned in experience with the NRA code authority.

The official family quarrels re-

Ans: Even though you have been knowing this doctor for TEN YEARS, you should know that if you meant anything to him personally he surely would have let you know about it before now—you might as well quit waiting for him, for the only way he will ever mean anything to you will be PROFESSIONALLY.

J. L.—My brother went away and I want to know who he took with him?

Ans: It appears that your brother was called out of town on a job as a PAINTER and he took HIS WIFE with him. It will be several weeks before they will return, for it appears that they are making plans to make their future home in the city they are in now.

B. L.—Please tell me where my pocket book went?

Ans: The girl that admitted taking your money appears to be the one that took your pocket book also, but she is ashamed to tell you about it. She was nice enough to give you back your money when you asked her for it, and if you ask her for the pocket book too, she'll return it without any hesitation.

J. K.—My husband is away from home and I want to know if he is doing the right thing?

Ans: Your husband has been working hard during the few weeks he has been away, but he hasn't been doing exactly the right thing. For detailed information see note attached to this column and write to me for a PRIVATE REPLY.

W. M.—Will I ever accomplish anything in life?

Ans: You are very fortunate to be able to get as much education as you have. After you finish your college degree at ALLEN UNIVERSITY, it appears that you will do many worth while and profitable things—Your education will enable you to accomplish your aim in the EDUCATIONAL FIELD.

Women Smokers Are Condemned
 Champaign, Ill., July 11, (ANP)—Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the General Baptist Convention of Illinois at the recent meeting here, went on record to condemn the growing indulgence of youth, women in particular, in the use of narcotics, cigarettes and intoxicating liquors. Women who make a public practice of smoking in restaurants, barber shops and public carriers, were especially criticised for destroying the public respect due to womanhood.

The Auxiliary petitioned public officials to condemn the evils.

olved around the heads of three men Charles Crook, Chicago, chairman of the executive committee; Benjamin J. McFall, Detroit, president, and R. R. Reed, Chicago, executive secretary.

The policy of the Association places most of the responsibility for the work of the organization on the shoulders of the executive secretary. Reed founded the organization 10 years ago, but has steadfastly refrained from accepting titular leadership. There have been three presidents: G. William Saffell, Shelbyville, Ky., from 1926 to 1932; T. M. Fletcher, Akron, Ohio, from 1932 to 1934, and Benjamin McFall. The first two presidents recognized the obligation of the Association to Reed as its founder and organizing genius. McFall is reported to have found it difficult to recognize Reed's peculiar relationship to the organization and to have set about with Crook, chairman of the executive committee, to seize the active leadership.

In so doing, they ran counter to the executive secretary and the organization was split into two camps. Reed's strength had been built up through years of active contact with the leaders of the industry and by personal sacrifice to insure the success of the organization. McFall and Crook lacked these advantages demonstrated sacrifice and usefulness to the organization.

Early this year, McFall and Crook are reported to have attempted to call a special meeting of funeral directors in Atlanta, Ga. Reed opposed the action, circularized the directors invited and found that they supported his position. As a result the meeting was not held and Reed was victor in the first tilt with the president and the executive committee chairman.

The issue came to a head when officers were to be elected at the convention here. No president prior to McFall had served less than two years. McFall had been in office only 10 months when the convention was held last week. He was a candidate to succeed himself. The minority report of the nominating committee offered the name of Lawton Pratt, sponsored by the anti-McFall supporters of Reed.

After considerable sniping on the part of McFall adherents, led by John Blackwell of Chicago, who was blasted by G. William Saffell, former president, L. H. Latson, Taylor, Texas, in an eloquent and dramatic appeal, moved the adoption and acceptance of the minority report. The temper of the delegates was so clearly visible that McFall, sensing defeat, declined to be a candidate for re-election, and the presidency went to Pratt uncontested.

Reed was thus left in the saddle. In the discussion centering around the organization program, it was disclosed that Reed's leadership is not that of a dictator, but a trust placed in him by the directors themselves because of his past performance. He is not only responsible for the existence of the organization, but he also, in the reorganization of American industry under the NRA codes, succeeded in winning a place for Negro undertakers as an integral part of the code setup. Negro undertakers were the only group of racial business men to win this official recognition.

Under the old codes, Negro undertakers, through their Associations, lined up with the white organizations in the industry, and became a functioning part of the code authority. T. M. Fletcher was elected as one of the 15 members of the board of directors of the code authority and Reed was chosen as assistant executive secretary. Offices were set up in Chicago by Reed with a paid staff to function for the Independent National Funeral Directors' Association to obtain the benefits of code regulation.

The benefits of this regulation were so great that now, despite the outlawing of the NRA codes through Supreme Court mandate, the vast majority of undertakers, white and colored, desire to effect a system of voluntary regulation containing many features of the code authority and some improvements.

Delegates at the convention here went on record as desiring to co-operate with white leaders in the industry for the working out and setting up of this voluntary code. A committee to represent the Independent National Funeral Directors' Association in the formulation of the voluntary code was appointed, consisting of the following men: G. William Saffell, Shelbyville, Ky.; John T. Hall, Gulpport, Miss.; Mm. H. Johnson, Lancaster, Ky.; William J. Morsell, Chicago, Ill.; T. M. Fletcher, Akron, Ohio; St. Julian Renfro, Cincinnati, Ohio; R. R. Reed, Chicago, Ill., and Lawton L. Pratt, Jacksonville, Fla.

A conference on these matters is being held with the code authority leaders in Cincinnati this week.

Among the highlights of the convention in this city was the series of early morning scientific lectures given by Isaac Levy Murray of Jersey City, N. J., in the demonstration chamber of the Oklahoma Casket company. In these classes actual cadavers were used in the demonstrations which were so perfected that those who attended the classes were qualified under the Oklahoma state rule which requires that licensed em-

Flaming youth—A stubborn Adolescent—A Worried Father—Father Right—Smoking, Coarse Slang and Late Hours All Wrong—Be Tactful, Father—Rashness Means Ruin.
 (For advice, write to Maxie Miller, care of Literary Service Bureau, 516 Minnesota Ave. Kansas City Kans. For personal reply send self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Maxie Miller: I am a father. May-be you'll say I am of the old school. But I think I am right. I object to my daughter's conduct. She uses the coarsest kind of slang, smokes in public and stays out late at night. She is only 16 years old and she laughs and tells me I am behind the time. What do you think about it? Are you a modern? If you are I'll get little comfort from you. But I am ricking it.—Worried Father.

Worried Father: Here's a surprise for you. I agree with you. I am modern in some things, but I consider it unique and injurious to smoke. I condemn "coarse slang" as out of good taste; and I condemn late hours if you mean after midnight. But you are dealing with the most difficult creature in the world—an adolescent girl; so be tactful in your methods. Let us hope that this girl will come to her senses.—Maxie Miller.

New Methods of Meeting Our Crime Problems

Abstract of address by Carl E. Milliken, Secretary, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., at annual meeting of International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Atlantic City, July 11.—A new public attitude that should do much to aid the anti-crime crusade which the nation is conducting and uphold the interests of law enforcement, is reflected in the new emphasis which the press and the screen are placing upon current crime problems, according to Carl E. Milliken, former governor of Maine and secretary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

Public interest in shifting from the gun-toting desperado to the police and trained investigators who are cracking down on one by one the aggregations of criminals operating in various parts of the country, he declared in an address here today at the annual meeting of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"The press and screen of the nation have made good," he said, "in their promise to cooperate to the utmost in focusing public attention upon the problems of crime detection and law enforcement. The apprehension of the criminal has come to have news value equal to the commission of the crime. And the public which admires true courage, has come to sense the vast difference between this quality, and the acts of desperation and false courage of the machine-gun gangster.

"We have passed a period," he pointed out, "when the criminal seemingly held the stage, when crime was committed with apparent impunity to the offender—an impunity often due to lack of public co-operation with those charged with the enforcement of law and order. Today the news of a crime wreths public expectations of the apprehension of the criminal or criminal, and the public heroes are those who untangle the tortuous skeins woven by the alleged master minds of crime and who destroy or deliver these criminals to justice, at the risk of their own lives.

"By bringing the achievements of the police and the federal crime detection agencies into sharp relief, the press and screen reflect and foster a renewed interest on the part of the public and especially the youth of the country in the heroes of the law. This should mean much to the maintenance of our national morale in dealing with the crime problem."

"The country has become conscious," Mr. Milliken asserted, "of the wide sweep taken by the anti-crime crusade and the continuing education necessary to meet the issue. Due recognition at last has been given to the fact that the causes of crime are many and complex," he said, "criminals may be street-made, school-made, prison-made, or even home-made. Poverty and the consequences of poverty, poor home environment, disruption of family life, inadequate spiritual training, undirected street play, dotting mothers, excessive use of alcoholic beverages, drugs, all these and many others are admitted to be important components of the crime problem. The mobilization of all existing community agencies towards effective crime prevention promises much in the interest of law enforcement in the United States."

Horses and Heredity

By R. A. Adams (For the Literary Service Bureau)

I was reading a press dispatch. It was a report of the victory of a race horse named Omaha. He had won the famous Kentucky Derby, and more recently another celebrated race. The report said that Omaha had won both of these races, "as did his father, Gallant Fox," and that he had beaten the time of his father.

In this report, between the lines, there was confirmation of the science of heredity, and of the old saying, "If the mare paces the colt will pace." It confirms also, the other axiom emphasizing heredity, i. e., "The blood will tell."

People are not so slow to believe and, in a measure, understand the workings of heredity in horses, in cattle, in chickens, in all of the lower animals, yet many are skeptical in regard to heredity in the higher order of animals—men. Because of lack of knowledge in this respect, and sometimes because of unmitigated recklessness, persons are united in marriage with those of vicious ancestry and of bad character, and thus they curse their own posterity. Yes, heredity is a fact; its workings are inexorable, and this is true in regard to men as to horses. To improve the human race in various ways, heredity must be recognized and considered. That is dealing with causes, and is the only means of correcting effects.

The Rochdale Branch of the Guild passed a resolution at its last meeting, calling for the freedom of the nine youths.

Police Attack Anti-Jim Crow Picket Line

Chicago, Ill., July 11, (CNA)—Weilding clubs and blackjacks, the police rushed a picket line in front of Jim Crow Greenland Cafe, 51st and Cotton Grove, arresting four laborers and seriously injuring a bystander.

For over an hour, the pickets had marched in front of the restaurant with placards demanding an end to discrimination against Negroes while police wagons stood by menacingly. When the constantly growing crowd expressed its sympathy with the pickets, the police squad charged, bowling over both spectators and pickets. The police squad was composed of Negro and white members. The picketing action was initiated by the Young Communist League when Archie Angelopus, white, proprietor of the Greenland Cafe, refused to serve Clement Hester.

ALTA VESTA A GIRL'S PROBLEMS

By Videtta Ish
 (For the Literary Service Bureau)
 To Alta Vesta fro Her Father—No. 13
 Dear Alta Vesta: Again I must compliment my little girl on her thoughtfulness. You state the case well. Children of bad parents are to be pitied, and it is wrong to blame them for what their parents have done. But while that is true, and we should sympathize with them that doesn't mean we should associate with them.

You see, my child, we sympathize with sick people but we don't go stay in the sick room and risk our own health. We sympathize with people in prison, but we do not go in to stay with them. And we are not required to associate with bad people. If they are bad, and we remain at a distance and be good there is hope to help them to be good. But if we associate too closely with them we are apt to become bad, Then we could not help them and could not save ourselves.

Scottsboro Hearings Scheduled This Week

New York, July 11, (CNA)—Hearings in the juvenile court for Roy Wright and Eugene Williams, youngest of the Scottsboro boys, will be held in a few days in Decatur, Alabama, the International Labor Defense announced.

Simultaneously, in the same city, bail hearings will take place before Judge "Speed" Callahan for Olen Montgomery and Willie Robeson, two of the Scottsboro boys who have never had retrials.

Both hearings will be in the nature of trials. Witnesses will be brought in and evidence presented. The legal defense will be conducted by Osmond K. Fraenkel and C. B. Powell, attorneys retained by the International Labor Defense.

Funds to defray the huge cost of the legal expenses and the mass campaign to safeguard the Scottsboro boys are needed, the I. L. D. stated. It requested that contributions be sent immediately to the I. L. D. at 80 East 11 street, New York City.

Randolph's Union Wins Porters Fight

Washington, July 11, (ANP)—After 10 years of struggle, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters became a fact last Monday when the National mediation board announced that the A. F. of L., ailiated union organized by A. Philip Randolph, had won the fight for recognition by a vote of 5,931 as against 1,422 for the company union, known as the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association.

Dining Car Waiters Push Fight

Chicago, July 12, (ANP)—H. A. Johnson (white), Secretary of the National Railroad Adjustment Board here, notified C. G. Sibley, Assistant General Manager Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, last week to file on or prior to July 26th, 15 copies of his reply to the ex parte submission made to the Board by Rienzi B. Lemus, grand president Brotherhood of Dining Car Employees, against that Railroad, which Mr. Lemus avers has repeatedly breached the contract of the organization governing wages and 240-hour work month of its dining car cooks and waiters.

The contract is 10 years old, still in effect, despite which the Atlantic Coast Line management has insisted upon arbitrarily modifying its terms at will. The National Railroad Adjustment Board is the agency set up by Congress in the amendments of June, 1934, to the Railway Labor Act to finally determine any dispute involving contract breaches on the part of the management or rail employee unions upon either joint or ex parte submission. The Atlantic Coast Line declined to join the brotherhood in submitting their dispute, so the organization made the submission; hence, Mr. Johnson's call on the Railway company for its response.
