DRAPE BRIDAL VEIL IN MANY NEW WAYS

New ways of draping the bridal veil are offered the girl who is planning an early fall wedding. While in general these may be said to derive from the Russian tiara effects, they should more properly be credited to the Renaissance period.

One of the most charming of these diadem effects was recently constructed by Worth. Of tulle and old lace, over a stiffened wire foundation, it gains in width clear to the ears and is softened by incised draperies at the top in crenellated fashion.

Chanel has made a bridal head-dress which starts with a cap of tulle, embroidered in crosslines of dull silver. This silver note is recalled in the torsade which divides the upturning and downturning sections of the slightly circular-cut aureole, diminishing to nothing at the back of the head and giving full sweep to the simple tulle veil.

Great Shawl Affairs Will Appear on Coats for Fall

Bruyere shows new collar treatments on fall coats—great shawl affairs, high at the back, tapering down to the waist in front. These come in bi-color effects. One beige coat has a double shawl collar, half black and half beige, used crosswise.

Chanel, in her advance fall coats, features tippet collars with fur edgings.

Wooden-Bead Collars New cowl collars are made of colored wooden beads.

The Croquinole Marcel Wave

No wave, perhaps with the exception of the finger wave, has been welcomed with more enthusiasm than the croquinole wave. Mr. Condos, beautician of Chicago and an authority on waving says, "the great popularity enjoyed by the croquinole wave is due largely to the fact that once the hair has been curled it can be dressed in so many different styles."

The same wave may be arranged into three or four different coiffure styles for as many different occasions. For instance suppose you are attending a football game in the afternoon, well you would not want too many curls and no wave at all; so you could comb the hair straight back with three or four rolls in the back of the head held in place with ribbons or a bando.

At night you may wave a formal dance engagement. You can not have too many curls for this occasion. You simply take the comb and brush and brush the hair over the fingers into soft ringlets. Be sure that the curls are well off of the neck. Ringlet curls for bangs are very good.

Perhaps you are a working girl, then you do not want to go to work with a hair dress too conspicuous because of too many curls. A more tailored effect is desired. With the comb you may arrange one shadow wave on each side of the head and a row or two of curls in the back.

This is the original croquinole wave. So you may see how very practical it is. If you have trouble in arranging your hair we are too glad to assist you.

Dr. J. H. Hutten Honored at Party

One of the prettiest fall affairs of the season was the large breakfast party given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Lewis, honoring Dr. J. H. Hutten, who is one of Omaha's leading physicians, who left the city October 15th, for Los Angeles, California, for an indefinite stay.

Dr. Hutten ranks as one of the race's outstanding members professionally, financially and socially. It was most fitting for this occasion that our leading mortician, Mr. Joseph D. Lewis, who is one of our city's most successful business men of ability assisted by his amiable charming wife, Mrs. J. D. Lewis, noted orator and prominent throughout the west, foremost in fraternal circles, being past Grand Matron of the Eastern Star of Nebraska, distinguished in church and social activities, so honored Dr. Hutten. There were 15 guests present in their beautiful, spacious apartment.

The breakfast began promptly at 10 o'clock. The table was elaborately laid, the center piece was of chrysanthemums and pom-poms, place cards marked each guest place.

Mrs. Lewis is a most affable hostess. A three course menu was served with utmost skill by expert waiters.

The guests were: Elder J. E. Greenfield, Mrs. Alphonso Wilson, Mrs. Martha Taylor Smith, Rev. J. S. Williams, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Hawkins, Mrs. Alton Goode, Mrs. Wm. Bell, Mrs. S. Bell, Mrs. Wilbur Allen, Mrs. I. S. McPherson, Mr. Wilbur Allen, the host and hostess, and the guest of honor, Dr. Hutten.

The guests enjoyed themselves immensely and bade Dr. Hutten 'happy landing' to California, and safe return to Omaha.
