ENTERTAINS AT PARTY

Miss Lorene Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lewis, 2310 N. 24th Street, entertained at a lovely party given at the Lewis apartment.

The apartment was very beautifully decorated in gay fashions for the occasion. The evening was spent in dancing and games.

Guests were: Lavina Scott, Geraldine Rose, Virginia Dixon, Margaret Dickerson, Velma Rose, Christine Dixon, Mary Alice Willis, Marjorie Edwards, Edrose Willis, Gaitha Pegg, Julian McPherson, Gerald Phillips, Buster Phillips, Charles Dickerson, Russell Bryant, Paul Turner, Ralph Adams, Fred Dixon, Orville Jones and William Thomas.

ATTENDS OPERA

Sixteen girls went in a party to see the opera "Madam Butterfly", at the City Auditorium, Thursday night, November 21st. The girls were named: the Misses June Artison, Lorene Lewis, Nadyne Clark, Velma Rose, Christine Dixon, Geraldine Rose, Margaret Dickerson, Gertrude McCaw, Mary Ellen Dickerson, Evelyn Battles, Maudess Jackson, Julia Williams, Mesdames, Virginia Dixon, Lillian Dorsey, Juanita Artison and Rachel Lee.

After the opera, a cocktail party was given by Miss Julia Williams at the home of Mrs. Virginia Dixon.

Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Lillian Dorsey, first prize, and Miss Velma Rose, booby.

The young men present were: Messrs. Leonard Harrod, Fred Dixon, Julian McPherson, Burton Walker, James Calloway, Norvel Avant, and J. C. Harris.

A pre-Thanksgiving Tea was given by the Levi Tribe, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Petties, 1613 N. 22 street, November 17th. The rooms were beautifully decorated with burnt orange and pumpkin colors.

Serving at the beautifully decorated table were: Miss Ivory Moore, who wore a lovely black evening gown, and Miss Versie Thomas, in a smart green and black frock. Mrs. Charles Singleton, pretty, in green, and Miss Ivory Olberta, in old rose, relieved at the table later.

Miss Ruth Crain and Miss Amelia Thomas, both looking very attractive, received the guests at the door. Fifty guests were present. Mrs. A. B. Matthews, Captain.

Mrs. Ben Ellison, of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, Mr. Wade Taylor and nephew, of Los Angeles, California, were the guests of their cousin, Mr. Joe Thomas, better known as 'Ukelele Joe.'

A dinner was given in their honor by Miss Sallie Mae Davis, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moppins, 2915 N. 28th street, Tuesday, November 19. They left Wednesday morning, continuing their tour to California.

Miss Mable Moore, 1814 N. 26 street, returned Monday from Norfolk, Nebraska, where she visited her mother, Mrs. Mary Dean. Mrs. Dean returned with her daughter to spend Thanksgiving.

More leather is being used in Palestine at present than ever before.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

Chatting With Arden H. Duane (ANP)

Elizabeth Ross Haynes, recently elected co-leader of the Twenty-first election District in New York City, is sending a message to all women throughout her state and the whole nation. Said Mrs. Haynes, in an interview with an Amsterdam reporter, "I want to blaze a trail for the younger generation. I want to awaken colored women to the opportunities that are theirs. I want to encourage that type of social vision, which brings together white and colored mutual benefit and assistance, and which unites all members of our own group into a solidarity through which they may gain the strength to fight for their rights."

"I feel that in all walks of life we women should shoulder our own responsibilities and not wait for the men. We should stand defiantly side by side with the men and fight tirelessly for equal rights due our race. The trouble with so many of us now is that we are shy and afraid. We must conquer this fooling and push onward." I am firm in my belief that Negro women must soon awaken to the call of opportunity and put forth special efforts to push the race toward its goal.

Since the war Mrs. Haynes has become an authority on social and labor problems. She was the first national student secretary of the Y. W. C. A., and the first Negro on the national board of the association. While a member of the Board she travelled all through the South organizing hundreds of "Y" branches, many still carrying on. She built up the women's end of the Interracial Movement. During the World War she was a driving factor in organizing the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor. She is the author of two books, the "Unsung Heroes" and "Negroes in the Domestic Services in the United States."

But—it was during her last campaign for the job as co-leader of the Tammany forces in Harlem that gave her more pleasure and greater satisfaction than anything else she has accomplished.

Are you to be a Thanksgiving week ender? And do you want to take your hostess something inexpensive yet sorta personal? Then monograms will do the trick! It is quite the nicest gift! And too, your hostess will know that it isn't just any old thing that you have picked up on the "Run". She'll know at a glance that you have spent a little thought on her personal gift. Here's an idea of a few of the very monograms, bridge table covers, glass muddlers, country house notepaper, initialed soap. These and many more for less than a dollar.

"My Personal Secretary" is a little spiral notebook that the lady of the house will find she can't do without. It will actually think for her. It is really an appointment book, a miniature diary, address and telephone director on the small scale—well, it will tell you everything at a quick glance.

"Run R Stop"—a friendly gadget—we ladies can't do without. You know already that washing New stockings before we wear them strengthens the threads. How, I don't know! "Run R Stop" will help to prevent snags and runs and will increase longevity. And without a doubt it will put an end to your pet hosiery springing a run just when one must be at peace with the world.

Having spring steel ends that curve inward, a new book rack expands when additional books are placed in it.

MAXIE MILLER WRITES

Girl 15 Crazy About a Boy—Wants to Get Married—Mother Works Away from Home and Feels a Slip-up—Better Let Girl Get Married than to Risk Ruin.

(For advice, write Maxie Miller, care of Literary Service Bureau, 516 Minn. Ave., Kansas City, Kans. For personal reply send self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Maxie Miller: I am a mother. I do not know whether it is admissible to use the term adopted mother or not, but the girl I am writing about is an adopted daughter. She is 15 and crazy about a boy. She pleads to get married. She is too young to get married, but I am afraid something will happen. I have to go away from home to work and this girl is there by herself a good part of the time. This boy will not stay away, so you understand my problem. What do you advise? —Adopted Mother.

Adopted Mother: You write sensibly of your problem. It is a real problem. The danger of which you hint is a real danger, too. True, the girl is too young to get married, but if you are circumstanced so that you cannot protect her and cannot send her away to complete her education, my advice is that you allow her to marry, choosing that horn of the dilemma. Again I compliment your good sense.—Maxie Miller.

BROWN BOMBERS
The Brown Bombers were entertained by Miss Gonzella Allen, 2426 Erskine. There was no meeting due to a Thanksgiving party at the H & M Buffet. Prizes were won by Mrs. Helen Grey and Miss Sarah Smith. Refreshments were served.

REMINISCING

My loving wife, my bosom friend, the object of my love. The time has been good, I spent with thee
My sweet and harmless dove, you have often looked for me, And see me come.
I'll soon be where Jesus is, and you'll be left alone.
My children, near my heart, nature seems to bind
Oh! God, the father to them be, And keep them from all harm.

HEALTH, BEAUTY AND CHARM

Keep Young and Beautiful—If You Want to Be Loved

The short bob versus the long bob.

With the beginning of fall and winter we find so many women "letting their hair grow", as is commonly spoken. For some reason we associate short hair for summer and long hair for winter.

For some time there has been a gradual but very decided trend towards shorter hair, and the smart hair styles of this winter promise to be the shorter hair styles. Skirts are getting shorter and hats getting smaller and both these style trends demand shorter hair.

And too, short hair, contrary to popular opinion, lends itself more readily to a variation in style than a longer bob.

We recommend the short bob, because we know they will give satisfaction. When the hair is short and dressed along simple lines, it is very easy for the patron to care for her coiffure at home. She can comb and brush it as much as she pleases and it will still retain its wave and curl. Short hair can also be arranged in more elaborate styles for formal occasions.

ALTA VESTA FROM HER FATHER—No. 23

My dear Child: I see you are getting to be a very busy young lady, since you have to stop writing to your father to look after other matters, as you did in regard to your last letter. Well, that is all right, for I know you love your father first and most.

I am thinking of what you wrote concerning the colored girls and again I commend your spirit of fairness and I am pleased with the way you deal with these serious questions. Without waiting for further discussion by you, I would emphasize that people who are in more favorable circumstances are by duty obligated to encourage and help their less fortunate fellows. This certainly is true of the people called white people in their relationship to and their dealings with those who are called colored people.

Well, it is almost "Thanksgiving" now, and I shall have a nice present for you. I'll tell you about it, soon. Love to you and Aunt Cornelia.

Your loving father.

Mr. Rishard Harris, 2021 Charles street, is ill at a local hospital. He is much improved at present. He is being attended by Dr. Lennox.

Mr. J. C. Terry, 1207 1/2 Pierce, has been ill at home for the past two weeks, is able to be up and is very much improved at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Simpson, 2807 Seward street, entertained Monday evening, November 25, at an 8 o'clock dinner for Mrs. Benola Pearl in honor of her birthday. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Covers were laid for eight.

Everyone present enjoyed a delightful evening and departed declaring Mrs. Simpson a charming hostess.
