SANDY CAMPBELL VISITS THE GUIDE OFFICE

Sandy Campbell, 76 year-old war hero, came in the office of the Omaha Guide accompanied by Mr. C. C. Galloway. The following is the story he had to tell.

Born a slave, April 19, 1861, in Whitehall, Carolina, Wayne county, he became a warrior of the road early in life. In 1918, while attempting to catch a B and O freight train, near Glenwood, Pa., his left leg was cut off and three toes of the right foot. Undaunted by this, after a sixteen months stay in a Baltimore hospital, he again answered the "call of the road."

Reminiscing, Mr. Campbell said that in 1882 he worked as a brakeman on the C. Y. and Y. V., now the A. C. L., receiving 12 1/2¢ per hour, the engineer receiving only 18¢ per hour.

Mr. Campbell has, according to his own story, traveled all over the United States and in five European countries. He arrived in Omaha Tuesday morning on the C. B. and Q. railroad, and expected to leave over the same road that night.

Adding a touch of humor to his story, our road friend advised us that "a rich democrat hates a poor democrat and a rich republican hates a poor republican—all of which makes a poor fight."

Admiring the articles of clothing given him by Mr. Galloway, Mr. Campbell said that all around were to be seen fellows "all dressed up, but had no where to go," while he would soon be all dressed up, with plenty of places to go.

MYERS OWN PALACE TRAILER

If you have ever dreamed of just the kind of a car trailer you would like to own, and would like to see it in reality, just inspect the new trailer of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Myers, 2416 No. 22nd St.

An inspection of this deluxe trailer reveals at one end what one would suppose a studio couch, which is in reality a double bed. On either side, at the other end, one finds a twin bed. The dining table unfolds between these twin beds, so that the diners may use the beds for chairs.

One sees a center light in the trailer and wall lights. Regardless of where the party is, it is assured of lights—the trailer has its own lighting system. Concealed ironing board, drawers for linen, kitchen cutlery and utensils, etc., are a part of this marvelous trailer. Dainty curtains adorn the windows, here is a heating stove, burning either coal or charcoal, a kitchen sink, a cook stove, running water, a clothes closet—really to appreciate this palace trailer in its entirety, one must see it.

Ford Questions Political Stand Of Jesse Owens

(Continued From Page 1) The noted Negro leader paid a high tribute to the Buckeye Bullet, warmly praising Owens' achievements at the Olympics. He questioned, however, whether the 22-year old track star, who will cast his first presidential vote this year was sufficiently conversant with the issues of the 1936 campaign, the most contentious since the Civil War, to warrant his coming out openly for Landon. In this connection, Ford cited Jesse's own admission that he was not acquainted with all the issues of the campaign.

In an interview at Republican eastern headquarters here, Jesse had told reporters: "He (Landon) does not promise a lot of things but what promises he makes I believe he will keep. I am just an athlete and I don't know all the figures and arguments, but I do know a sincere man when I read his record and speeches."

Displaying a warm regard for Owens throughout the discussion, Ford contended that Jesse was unwittingly doing his race a disservice by supporting Landon. The Communist candidate backed up his contentions with caustic references to Landon's record; his support of racial discrimination at the University of Kansas where Landon appointees have introduced discriminatory practices against Negro students; the Kansas governor's advocacy of $1.08 a week relief for a Kansas unemployed family of five; and his use of troops last year to defeat a strike of Kansas miners for better conditions.

One gathered from Ford's remarks that he had serious doubts that Jesse had given careful study to Landon's record. "Owens was unwise to support Landon, whose most notorious backer, William Randolph Hearst, has ideas identical with those of Hitler, who insulted Negroes all over the world by his treatment of Owens in Berlin," Ford asserted.

"Owens," he continued, "made a splendid record at the Olympics for himself and his race, but unknowingly he is doing his people a disservice by supporting Landon."

Hits Jim-Crow in Sports A former athlete himself, Ford remarked that he could appreciate what Jesse has been up against in sports by reason of jim-crow practices. He had played semi-professional baseball himself and knew of numerous qualified Negro players "who were kept out of the big leagues because of jim-crow club owners and sport officials."

Assailing Landon as a puppet of the reactionary Hearst-Liberty League-Black Legion combination Ford expressed the opinion that Jesse would have done better to adopt a non-partisan attitude if he did not want to join with the progressive forces seeking "to keep Hearst out of the White House." He thought Jesse could have done a great service to his people by throwing "all his energy and his world-wide prestige with those progressive forces which are building a Farmer-Labor party throughout the country and right in Owens' home state, Ohio."
