Man Choking His Wife Says He Was Giving Some Loving Advice

Birmingham, Oct. 11 (ANP)—Testifying in police court this week as to why they had arrested DeWitt Harris, Officers J. H. Cousins and M. C. Robbins said that while driving in the police car the previous night near Harris' home they flashed their light and saw Harris in the street choking his wife with one hand and with the other about to hit her on the head with a brick. The police said that as they drove up, Harris quickly dropped the brick and began showering his wife with kisses and loving caresses.

Facing the court, Harris denied the officers' charges. Judge Henry J. Martin then asked: "Well, what were you doing?" Harris' quick response was "Just giving her some loving advice, your honor." "Well let this be some advice to you," replied the judge and he fined Harris $13.

RECIPROCITY

By R. A. Adams (For the Literary Service Bureau)

If I were you, and should aspire To things worthwhile, I would desire That you should help me to attain The things which I would strive to gain.

If I were you and would advance Against opposing circumstance, I would desire most earnestly Your good will and your sympathy.

If I were you, and you could be A friend and helper true, to me, 'Twould be my earnest prayer that you Such service unto me should do.

So I'm resolved, the best I can, To help and serve my fellow-man, And thus store up as worthy meed Goodwill, and help in time of need.

THE HEARTLESS RICH

By R. A. Adams (For the Literary Service Bureau)

The shameless extravagances of many of the rich people of the country merits the severest condemnation of the world. Doubtless this terrible waste is responsible for much of the industrial unrest and the spirit of rebellion against the systems which make it possible.

A case in point is that of the child, Gloria Vanderbilt who has an allowance of $48,000 a year for her living. To the court which granted this allowance there was made the contention that this child should have, in addition, $154.18 for ginger ale, $125 for care of her pet cat, and th these the cost of 26 cartons of cigarettes.

Could there be anything more heartless, more sordidly selfish, more inhuman? And especially amid this terrible era of human suffering when many are unable to secure the plain necessities of life; and when thousands of people are on the dole!

Just such extravagance, such contemptible indifference to the needs and rights and sufferings of others, fan the fires of communism and give encouragement to revolution. It seems reasonable to predict that the next war in the country will be caused by this inhuman attitude of the rich toward those who labor and suffer to make the very perpetuity of the nation possible.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 3—(C)—Joseph Cassidy, 22, was jailed Wednesday for taking a pair of gloves from Sears Roebuck store valued at 85 cents.

As soon as the season starts, our young girls want to get into sweaters and skirts. We find pleated skirts and classic sweaters to harmonize with them are the preferred formula. Include a few culottes this season, recommending them for bicycling and other active sports. Two-piece knitted dresses are always a strong factor of the back-to-school demands.

Skirts are growing shorter by the minute. Gay-colored shoes are embracing the curves of the foot; and elaborately-worked hems dramatize the well-turned calf and slender ankle.

Broadcloth is expected to be a special favorite for dinner and evening dresses.

HATS

Hats are going back on the head or, of they do follow a forward line they perch up so high that they do full justice to both sides of one's profile, curl and all.
