Owens in the Theatre

Larry Snyder, coach at Ohio State university, has announced that Jesse Owens, the Olympic hero, will begin chasing the gold behind the footlights of the stage Snyder further states that Owens will go to N. Y. to study dancing under the tutelage and guidance of Bill Robinson, the famous tap dancer.

In answer to the question as to whether or not Owens' amateur standing will be affected, Snyder stated: "Jesse will sing and dance on the stage and will not lose his amateur standing simply because he will not appear in any capacity as an athlete."

The danger in the whole situation lies in the billing of Owens. Should he be billed as Jesse Owens, Olympic Hero, or should any reference be made to his athletic prowess, you can bet your boots that the AAU bigwigs are not too kindly towards Owens since his famous "run-out" in Europe, and the boys would like to see Owens make the move which would give them the opportunity to call him a professional.

For the life of me, I can't see why there should be all this concern about amateur standing, etc. Owens certainly has done a good job for Ohio State and the United States. For the past three years he personally, has made the Ohio State track team front page copy. He "made" the 1936 Olympics as for as the American viewpoint is concerned. What else can the boy do.

Ho has all the track records tucked in his pockets. He has won all the track championships that are available—you can tell me what's Owens going to gain by retaining his amateur standing?

When you look down the line and try to find a Negro athlete that has cashed in on his college fame, you find it difficult to find one—they just don't exist. Take Drew Tolan, Cooke, Brice, Taylor; Ward the case of Wesley Fesler, their and all the rest, and not one of them have made any money thru their athletic ability. The boys have had to turn to law, medicine, social service and whatnots to eke out the things that we need in making a living.

If Owens was a white boy, he would have no worries for Ohio State would probably call him back to help coach the track teams. They did that in the case of Wesley Fesler, heir all-American football star. But Owens will have to realize that this is a land of inequalities, a land of limited opportunities for gentlemen of color, and that black is black, white is white and though the twain may meet in the distant future that day is not yet. Jesse will find that when all the smoke has cleared away he will have to turn to teaching, the law, medicine, the ministry or perhaps business—that's what all the rest of the boys had to do.

If Owens can earn $10,000 in the next year, even if it means he will have to sacrifice his amateur standing, he will be making a big mistake if he doesn't snatch the opportunity. That's more money than he will make in a lifetime in the old professions. Weigh this against amateur standing, and I'll bet the old gold will outweigh all the rest.

I know of a chap who was one of the greatest football players at one time of the colleges in New England some ten years ago. They were crazy about this boy, his classmates termed him the "best same fellow is on home relief in athlete in college." Today, this New York City.

IFAME IS FICKLE—Chase the gold, Jesse and let the amateur standing go.

National Catholic Inter-Racial Group

Cincinnati, Sept. 26 (By James T. Whitney for ANP)—The cry of the angles on the first Christmas, "Peace on earth to men of goodwill," was cherished by those in whose minds the National Catholic Interracial Federation was born. George W. B. Conrad, Cincinnati attorney, president of the federation, said in his annual address at the concluding session of the 10th annual convention in Holy Trinity auditorium.

"The new social order calls for men of integrity and honor, men who have an unselfish desire to serve humanity in all its aspects," Mr. Conrad said. "This new better social order must be built from an acknowledgement of the Fatherhood of God and Brotherhood of Man."

Mr. Conrad said aims of the federation were to advance its religion and the Negro race, and also inspired by the basic elements of Catholicism, to promote the welfare of the country and of mankind. He said:

"The Negro must not permit men with selfish and ulterior motives to undermine and destroy his faith in the American white man. He should ever cling to him, believing that his interests are so linked with one common objective that the success of one means the success of the other. "He must strive to emulate the white man's virtue and not his vices. The Negro must stop whining about his condition and redouble his efforts to contribute something toward alleviating his economic and social condition. He must devote less time to social diversion and strive to win praise and respect through laudable achievements."

Mr. Conrad was reelected to the presidency. Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, first, John C. Dempsey, white, Cincinnati attorney and member of the Community Social center, a Catholic Negro welfare organization; Mrs. Cora Riley, Indianapolis; Melvin McNairy, business man, Chicago; Albert Grahl, white, St. Louis; Sidney B. Thompson, Cleveland; treasurer, M. C. Whitler, St. Louis, reelected; executive secretary, Charles L. Rawlings, Detroit.

Resolutions deploring the trouble in Spain, declaring against Communism and Fascism, praying for the canonization of Blessed Martin de Porres, Peruvian Negro Dominican, deploring injustices to the Negro, especially lynching, and expressing appreciation to the clergy and the laity of the diocese for their hospitality were adopted.

Rev. Francis G. Wade, S. V. D., Lafayette, La., Negro priest, celebrated memorial mass at Holy Trinity church. The morning was devoted to a business session at which Rev. John LaFarge, S. J., associate editor of America, and Rawlings were the principal speakers. Speakers in the afternoon were McNairy who said in his talk on "Education and Racial Adjustment" that impairment of relations between the races is due to ignorance, and that frequent contacts between racial groups are needed; Rev. Leo M. Walsh, S. J., James church, Wyoming, Ohio, whose talk on "The Federation and its Objectives" was in a vein similar to McNairy's, and Thompson, who said on "The Negro's Achievements in the Olympics," that interracial goodwill come through such young men as Jesse Owens and Ralph Metcalfe, who serve as ambassadors of goodwill. The convention ended with a reception and dance at Holy Trinity auditorium.

Carver Experiments On Cassareep

Georgetown, British Guiana, Sept. 26—(By G. A. Boyea for A. N. P.)—Prof. G. W. Carver, seasoned Negro scientist of Tuskegee fame, is presently engaged in performing an experiment with cassareep sent him by the Negro Progress Convention. This information was revealed in a letter dispatched to convention by Messrs. G. Hodge and Ashmore McKenzie, British Guianese students at Tuskegee.

Cassareep is a teacup made from cassava, a vegetable produce grown in West Indian and tropical countries. Locally it is used for seasoning sauces and forms part of the popular dish known as "pepper pot." It may be stated that Dr. Carver has already successfully tackled other B. G. products and years back created a sensation by making paint and confectionery from sorrel. Sorrel is mainly used in British Guiana as a drink and considered an antidote for hot weather days.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 3—It was demonstrated here Saturday that 11 good men can beat one superstar at football when Northwestern's Wildcats won the opening Big Ten game by beating Iowa—mostly Oze Simmons—by a score of 18 to 7.

The Hawkeyes were outplayed all the way. The Wildcats took the lead with two touchdowns in the second quarter, were held scoreless in the third but added a safety in the final period. Iowa's only score came in the fourth quarter when Simmons took a lateral pass from Eicherly, and with no blocking support, ran 29 yards over the goal line.

Much of Simmons' failure to go places was due to a hard charging sure tackling Northwestern line. Operating behind that forward wall, Coach Waldorf exhibited a galaxy of fleet footed and shifty-hipped backs.
