Today, the Republican Party has shifted its position from the advocacy of strong federal government to that of defender of states rights, unmindful of the incidental sacriice of the Negro by the exchange.

The exchange of position of the two great parties on the issue of Federal authority versus state sovereignity is the most puzzling phenomenon in our political history. By this exchange the Grand Old Party not only surrenders the basis of its historical greatness and granduer, but suddenly reverses its historic attitude on human rights in favor of economic exploitation.
