BEAUTY AND ROMANCE by Marie Downing
DIRECTOR, LARUE BEAUTY FOUNDATION
An award of $50.00 is made each year by the Foundation to the Negro or any Negro group for the best paper submitted on an improved method of beauty culture.
For the woman whose cheeks and forehead. Then, with the fingertips, make short strokes upward and slightly outward, gradually moving the hands toward the side of the face. Then, with the hands in the same position, describe small circles with the fingertips as the hands gradually moved outward, but be sure that the upward strokes of the circles are about three times as heavy as the downward strokes, which should be gentle. Next place the thumbs under the chin with the fingers of both hands meeting on the point of the chin, and push the fingertips upward and outward to the hairline at the top of the ears. After repeating this motion about ten times, allow the fingertips to describe little circles along the same path, again being careful to make the downward stroke light. To reduce the neck, massage upward from the base of the neck toward the ears, and from the throat to the tip of the chin. If the fingers become tired, you may alternate with the thumbs on this massage. Then wipe the excess cold cream off the face. The effect of the massage will be enhanced if with hazel or some similar astringent lotion is applied to the face to complete the treatment.
