L. H. M.—I am the mother of ten children, all quite musical and the four oldest of whom are known throughout this state for their talent. What is the best for me to help put my children on the top?

Ans: Arrange for an audition on an AMATEUR PROGRAM for your four oldest children. It is my impression that they will be given an opportunity to prove their talent on such a program. Give these four the benefit of your time until they are situated and they will help the other children later on.

M. W. C.—There are two men who seem interested in me. One gives me the rush act and the other one takes things slow. Which one of these men should I take seriously?

Ans: The young man who is trying to rush you off your feet already has a WIFE, but the other one is sincere in everything that he tells you. He is not trying to

STUFFING FOR HOLIDAY

By Hildegard Johnson

No matter what some women will continue to follow the old tradition of preparing their own stuffing for the holiday bird.

Others will favor and take advantage of the new prepared stuffing of bread crumbs, vegetables and spices. Just moisten this preparation for use. If you like a particular taste for your dressing why not add mushrooms or raisins or nuts or giblets.

Allow one cup of stuffing for every pound of poultry.

Not Stuffing

One onion, two tablespoons butter, two and one-half cups soft crumbs, two-thirds cup chopped walnuts, one-eighth teaspoon thyme, one-fourth cup boiling water, one-half teaspoon salt, few grains pepper.

Fry onion in butter until delicate brown. Add crumbs, walnuts, thyme, water salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly.

Corn and Green Pepper Stuffing

Three-fourth cup minced onion, one-half cup chopped celery, two No. 2 cans corn, one half teaspoon sage, one-eighth teaspoon thyme, three and one-half cups stale bread crumbs, one and one half teaspoons salt, one eighth teaspoon pepper.

Saute the onions, green pepper and celery in a little of the melted shortening until soft but not browned. Combine all the ingredients and mix well.

Bread Stuffing DeLuxe

Soak eight slices of bread in cold water. Squeeze and dry and crumble in small bits. Cook a large minced onion in two tablespoons shortening till a pale gold color. Add bread crumbs and stir till all the shortening has been absorbed. Then add one-quarter cup cracker crumbs, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one cup rich milk and cream, salt pepper and celery salt to taste. Stir over the fire till the dressing is the consistency of thick batter. Add one quarter pound finely chopped liver and cook till the liver turns brown. Remove from the fire, add well-beaten eggs and a tablespoon each of chopped parsley and chopped archives if available.

Apricot Dressing

One cup dried apricots, one half teaspoon sage, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon melted butter or butter alternate, four cups soft bread crumbs, one fourth teaspoon salt, four tablespoons chopped parsley, one egg well beaten.

Wash apricots. Cover with water. Cover. Boil two minutes. Drain. Cool cut in slices. Add remaining ingredients. Add sufficient water to moisten dressing.

ROOSEVELT—THE TRIBUTE OF THE PEOPLE

Roosevelt has been re-elected with a supplementary and complimentary vote which has been accorded to no American since George Washington. No doubt exists that he is the choice of the American people as their leader. In 1932 he was given an unprecedented majority both in popular vote and in the electoral college. During the first two years of his administration, he elaborated the program of the New Deal that he had proclaimed only in outline during the preceding campaign. This program and its author and promoter were endorsed by still a more complimentary majority in both the House and the Senate in the by-election of 1934. In the meantime, the New Deal incurred the hostile and caustic criticism of political adversaries. The Supreme Court upset several of its essential provisions. This gave its enemies new inspiration and courage. The new hopes of the moribund Republican Party were based upon the basis of these adverse decisions of the Supreme Court. The campaign of 1936 was waged on the basis of these adverse decisions. Go to, they said, let us now bury the New Deal in a grave too deep for resurrection, and let us place the Constitution and the Supreme Court as tombstones at the head and nomenclated the president with a foot.

The campaign orators de-volvement of vituperation and abuse which has fallen on the head of no chief executive since Abraham Lincoln. But the people will not have it so. The chorus of "We Want Roosevelt" drowned the volume of abuse, denunciation and vilification. On Nov. 3, they gave him a vote of confidence surpassing the original endorsement in 1932 and the mid-term approval in 1934.

Democracy means rulership of the people. The voice of the people is the voice of God. The people have spoken. The people may be swept from their moorings for the moment by a hasty appeal or hysterical emotion, but when they affirm a deliberate preference by three separate elections, there is no further ground for hesitation.

There is nothing left for any loyal and patriotic citizen to do but fall in behind President Roosevelt as he carries out the will of the sovereign people as expressed at the polls. The triumphant reelection of President Roosevelt wipes out all sectional lines. It can no longer be said that the Democratic Party is controlled by the Solid South, for 46 out of 48 states and 523 out of 531 electors unite in this decision. The North, South, East and the West, are blended in one common purpose under the leadership of President Roosevelt. Indeed, the triumph of President Roosevelt can be called a "Democratic" victory only when that term is spelled with a small "d" instead of a capital "D". In the strictly partisan sense, it is a victory of liberalism over reaction.

The victory is so sweeping and one-sided that the Negro vote wholly lost its significance as a racial entity. Although this group gave Roosevelt a vote of at least three to one, nevertheless this tribute of the people would have seeped into the White House had every Negro in the land voted against him. This is as it should be. The President becomes the choice of the people without regard to race or color, religion or creed, sex or section. They all become part and parcel of the New Deal with solicitude for all and discrimination against none.

PRESIDENT WHITTAKER PRAISES CONSERVATION

Orangeburg, N. C., Nov. 21 (C)—President M. F. Whittaker of State College here says: "Next to conserving human resources, it is important that we conserve the soil. So many of our people here in the south depend upon the soil for their living." Dr. Whittaker was endorsing the Federal soil conservation program.

The word "reformer," in everyday conversation has acquired a significance which is not fair or just, and which does harm to the general idea of reform itself. A reformer is sometimes thought of as a busybody, mingling in every other person's affairs and endeavoring to create a general disturbance for his own advantage. This has been brought about by the heat of political controversy, and largely by the fact that some men who devote themselves honestly to the public welfare and become intensely interested in one particular line of thought, do not understand why others with less information do not instantly follow their lead. This is due not to a lack of knowledge of the conditions sought to be reformed but of the elements of human nature incident to the controversy. It does not aid reform for a reformer to assert that the man who opposes him is an obstructionist inimical to the morals and of unclean motive. This is as improper as it is for others in their controversy with the reformer to dodge the real issues and oppose the proposed reform because they do not happen to like the proposed reform's advocate. On account of the multitude of human activities and the variety of interests in community reforms, as a rule, come singly and are the natural evolution of experience.

Man alleged reform that later proves to be insufficient has been put upon the books through honest but unwise advocacy of men whose characters stood the test of sincerity.

SLEEPING WITH DOGS

While the adage "If you sleep with dogs you will get fleas on you" is literally true, it is figuratively true, also, as applied to associations. There are people who are canine in disposition, in greediness, in viciousness, in uncleanness, in dishonesty, in treachery, in being meddlesome and in other characteristics. In these cases the fleas are the evil habits of such persons which habits will doubtless influence the conduct of those who may be weak enough to associate with them. This is in line with Paul's contention that "Evil communications corrupt good manners."
