Waites, Mr. Boyd Galloway and Mr. S. W. Waites. It was agreed that Mr. Ollie Lewis would be asked to become Mr. Carey's campaign manager. Some of the high spots in Mr. Carey's platform are: Employment in every commercial house of any magnitude in Omaha; teachers in the public schools and a re-alignment of our economic needs in turn for the $2,000 per day spent by us.

Grinder's Swing Hudson's hands to carry on. Cab Calloway will broadcast it as soon as it is done. To retain the standard song form of thirty-two bars, each contributor is to do two bars with the efforts of the first four writers repeated. Then eight more bars will be written and then the first melody will again be repeated. Nick Kenny has been picked to do the lyrics.

Considerable interest has been created over this unique song and already two publishers are angling for the rights. The plan is said to be excitedly curious to see the results of this fascinating musical adventure.

One of the most unusual song compositions ever to ride the airways will soon be broadcast. The number, as yet unnamed, is in the act of being composed cooperatively by eight famous band leaders including Duke Ellington, Will Hudson, Cab Calloway, Jan Rubin, Ina Ray Hutton, Mit Britton, Yascha Bunick and Lucky Millinder.

This interesting musical experiment is the brain of Milton Berle, radio comedian, and it grew out of a casual chat with his friend, Duke Ellington. Since a song reflects the personality of its writer, queried Berle, why wouldn't a number composed by several outstanding and colorful figures possess dazzling qualities? Duke's fancy was immediately captured. Together they picked the leaders to participate, looking for varied talents and personalities. Ellington, genuinely excited over the possibilities of the novel stunt, has already written the first two bars of the song and it has been placed in Will (Organ

BEAUTY AND ROMANCE by Marie Downing. DIRECTOR, L'ARIEUSE BEAUTY FOUNDATION. An award of $50.00 is made each year by the Foundation to the Negro or any Negro group for the best paper submitted on an improved method of beauty culture.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Before giving you a few useful beauty hints for making your eyes more alluring, let me remind you that my contest will close December 10.

I am going to give $50 to the one who sends me the best beauty suggestion. Just write a 250-word letter about some beauty hint you have found useful, and mail it to me at 511 Locust street, St. Louis. Duplicate awards will be made in case of ties, and the decision of the judges will be final.

Your eyes are by far your most important feature. If they are full of life and sparkle, they lend an indefinable charm to your face. But if the eyes are dull and lifeless, with straggling eyebrows above them and drooping lines of fatigue below them, the whole appearance is spoiled.

We must follow the plain, common-sense rules of health—plenty of sleep, wholesome foods, some time spent out-of-doors, and a little exercise,—if we wish our eyes to remain clear and attractive. The woman who stays up late night after night, "burning the candle at both ends," will sooner or later show the marks of fatigue in her face, and the first traces will appear in her eyes. Instead of being clear and sparkling, the whites of her eyes will be dull and grayish.

Even for those of us who lead a fairly normal life, there are a few little precautions we can take to help keep our eyes attractive.

If you keep your eyes fixed on one point for a long time, the tiny muscles that hold them in place will become cramped just as any other muscle of the body can become stiff. This results in eye-fatigue, and makes you feel tired at the end of the day.

If your work requires that you concentrate on an object near you, as in reading, sewing or typing, try this experiment: every few minutes, look up from your work and fix your eyes on some point in the distance for a few moments. This changes the focus of the eyes and allows the little muscles to rest. It is a great help in avoiding eye-strain and fatigue.

If your eyes are tired after the day's work, and you want them to look fresh and bright in the evening, try lying down for a few minutes with your eyes closed and placing little pads, soaked in cold water or witch hazel, over the lids. You'll find that this refreshes your eyes considerably. If you have to work in a dusty or smoky atmosphere, it's a good idea to wash your eyes in the evening, using a little eye-cup that will cost only a few cents. A good eye-wash can be made by dissolving one-half teaspoon of clean table salt in a cup of lukewarm water. Fill the eye-cup with this solution, then lean over and place the cup against the eye. Throw your head back until the eye-cup is upside-down, holding it against your eye so the solution can't spill. Keep your eye open and look from side to side in order to wash out the corners of your eyes. But be sure the eye-cup is perfectly clean before you use it, or your washing may do more harm than good.
