While Mrs. Myers engaged the honored guest in conversation, the members quietly arose from their bridge tables and gathered around her; then suddenly a large silver tray was placed before her, filled with daintily tied packages. She was truly surprised, and touched to tears. On opening her packages, she found many beautiful handkerchief and greeting cards. The box cover of one gift was then passed around and the names and addresses of all the members were written on it with shot original verses and autographs. Mrs. Hawkins, the gracious bridge instructor for the club, was present as an honorary member and guest.
