

Joe Louis Signs Contract for Hollywood Picture. . .

UPPER LEFT

Introducing Champion Joe Louis to Hollywood, Clarence Muse oversees signing of the fighter's film contract for a picture built around his life, "Spirit of Youth", an independent production. Edw. Shanberg, president of the company formed to do six all colored flickers, stands by.

LOWER LEFT

Martin Finkelstein, Kansas City theatre man, vice president and general sales manager of the new film company reads over the story to Joe for his approval before casting starts.

UPPER RIGHT

Joe Louis and his movie director, Harry Frazer, shown in the Hollywood offices of L. Golder reading lines together. Joe may even sing in the new opus. One thing is certain, he will have to talk.

LOWER RIGHT

Clarence Muse, old timer in movies, acting as Louis' mentor for his debut in films, says Louis will prove box from the start. He wears clothes like Clarke Gable alrady, he says as Joseph (Barrymore) Louis takes his first instructions.

INSET

Shows Louis in his first try out before the movie camera. 'Still men' declare him a 'very unusual find.'

In Police Court

By Helen E. Childs

Monday morning was my first experience covering the Municipal Police Court, and what an exciting experience it turned out to be.

At approximately 8:35 I arrived at the court and proceeded immediately upstairs where that calm and collected judiciary, Judge Holmes presides.

Stopping momentarily at the door I glanced around the room. Very few people were there. Some were talking to friends, others sat alone and quiet, sort of wondering just what the outcome of the court proceedings of that day would bring to them, relative, or friend.

After a short wait I introduced myself as the official representative of the Omaha Guide. A great deal of courtesy was shown me by everyone, the Judge, City Prosecutor, as well as the reporters from the Omaha World Herald.

As each case came up, some were amusing, some interesting, and some just plain silly. But Judge Holmes knew his job and efficiently handled each case.

There were only three Negroes brought before the Judge: Charlie Meuhle, was arrested at 1402 Capital, is place of employment. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and the charge was dismissed.

The second was a lady who claimed to be Francis Anderson, who was arrested Saturday at 22nd and Cuming street. She pleaded guilty of the charge of being drunk on the street, but insisted:

"Please Judge, if my husband had not been beating me, I would not have been arrested."

Two months ago she was arrested on a similar charge, but she put up a very convincing plea to the Judge.

"Judge, if you don't put me in jail this time it will never happen again."

Her plea at least did the trick and was a very amusing affair to the entire court. So Judge Holmes dismissed the case with the understanding that should she again be arrested, she would be "jailed." would be "jailed."

The other case was Mrs. Luella Nicholson, who was fined $5.00 and the suspension of her driver's license for three months for speeding at 24th and Grant streets, at the rate of 40 miles per hour. She was driving her car when the officer arrested her at 10:15 p. m.
