G. W. W.—Will I get to continue on in school? I am so very anxious to find out this important question.

Ans: You have nothing what ever to worry about this year and if you will find a job through the summer months and buy your clothing for next year, you will also be able to go back in the fall. It, of course will be necessary for you to help pay your own way thru school.

A. G. E.—Please tell me does this man care anything for me and is he going to do what he has told me about? I hope that I am not disappointed but I feel that I am going to be.

Ans: So do. The man does mean just as much as he tells you. In fact he is in love with you. Although his pocket book will not permit him to do the many things that he has told you about so you will be disappointed to some degree.

YWCA Notes

the Y. W. C. A., but after marriage, her father in law asked her to give it up. She didn't give it up and remained in the Y. W. C. A. and became a person of some size. She also became president of the Richmond Association, and she suddenly realized that she wasn't president of a white association, but she was president of the entire Association and so he got ready to make a speech. She had to talk to Negroes. It was a pretty hard task, and she prepared it with a great deal of care. In this particular household, there was a good Negro woman, who had been working and living with this family practically all her life. That night, when the president visited the Branch, who should be sitting in the front row, as Chairman of the Committee of Management, but Ella Thompson, and she met her as Mrs. Ella Thompson, instead of Ella Thompson. She finally got used to being president of all this. Without realizing it, she was going to make a speech at the Branch and eat with Negro women. This was a new field for her, she was faced with the proposition what shall I do? The general secretary went and took her own seat and left her to solve her own problem. She finally decided to take a seat at the far end of the table away from the rest of the women, because she said that she had a cold and didn't want to give it to everyone at this banquet. Finally, she decided to sit next to me and struck up a conversation. There wasn't enough plates to go around, and she looked at her plate and said, 'I want my sandwich and my pickle, but someone can have the rest.' A little while later, she said, 'Oh, I am so embarrassed.' The spirit of God was working.

Another incident I will relate: Mrs. Jones was president of the Association, and was southern white. She got after us about lynching and said that we must do something about lynching, but the Nation Staff said that it is no time yet. But she went around and got enough women in a resolution to present it over the head of the National Staff and said that the Y. W. C. A. should stand against lynching. Mrs. Jones finally went home. The Clyde Drew lynching was about to occur. She got on the phone and got the governor, but he didn't listen to her. She didn't know what to do about this matter. After this another lynching occurred, Mrs. Jones heard of this lynching and hurried to the scene. She took the names and addresses of those who were involved in the lynching. I told her that I must give this to the NAACP, and she said send them everything and I will get them something more. Mrs. Jones felt that she must do something. That was her service.

After the conclusion of this wonderful address, the Quack club rendered the selection, "Trees." A social hour followed this most complete Annual Meeting prepared by Mrs. Addie Seals and Mrs. Vasie Harrold.

Don't forget the Trojan Inter Club Banquet to be held on January 27, at Pilgrim Baptist church. Reservation should be in the Y. W. C. A. office by Saturday of this week. Reservation will be fifty cents per plate.
