PEACE! AT WHAT PRICE

We are taking a sigh of relief after the hair raising expectation of war that faced us this time last week. On lookers, such as we are, stand in perplexity as to what to believe or what course to take. However, we are thankful to God for the postponement of war, but we cannot be satisfied or feel perfectly safe, because we are not able to know how long this peace will last.

Truly as Paul said, "In the last days perilous times shall come.—For men shall be lovers of their own selves. Covetous, truce breakers, traitors, etc. II Timothy 3:1-5.

In many instances, we are led to believe the "dictators" to be "trucebreakers" while the "democracies" are styled as "traitors". Part of this may be true and only goes to show that the Bible evidently is the "Inspired Word of God", because it is so accurate in its prophecies.

We have peace—for how long? We know not. But it was at the expense of a people (nation) that had no voice in its destiny. It was truly a "puppet state", for it had no definite power to determine its beginning nor (now) its probable end.

The ideals of "liberty" and "sovereignty" seemingly are fading away. Wars and rumors of war are on all sides.

There is no state or nation that we can guarantee absolute trust. It is now that men should realize the "power" and privileges of the "Kingdom of God." Real Peace is not to be assured from conference tables,—experience has confirmed this.

Instead men trying to legislate peace or wait for Christ to return to establish a literal government. Why not accept His way of life, and all else will be given. He has rightly admonished us to: "Seek Ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things will be added unto you."—Matt. 6:33.

Maybe this hasn't happened to you lately. If not—did you ever wonder why? Maybe it's because your hair has prematurely lost its color... is dull, lifeless, peppered with gray... makes you look unromantic. If that is what's holding you back, you can easily correct it. Just do this...

"ALEXANDER'S RAGTIME BAND"

By Irving Berlin

"ALEXANDER'S RAGTIME BAND" was written twenty-seven years ago as an instrumental number, and failed. The young composer tried his hand at lyrics, and turned the song into a two million copy success.

Irving Berlin, keeping a prolific pace with the times, turned a ready hand to the sophisticated songs which came into vogue about 1931, but that little jazz melody, "Alexander," was still frequently played.

BIRTH OF A SONG

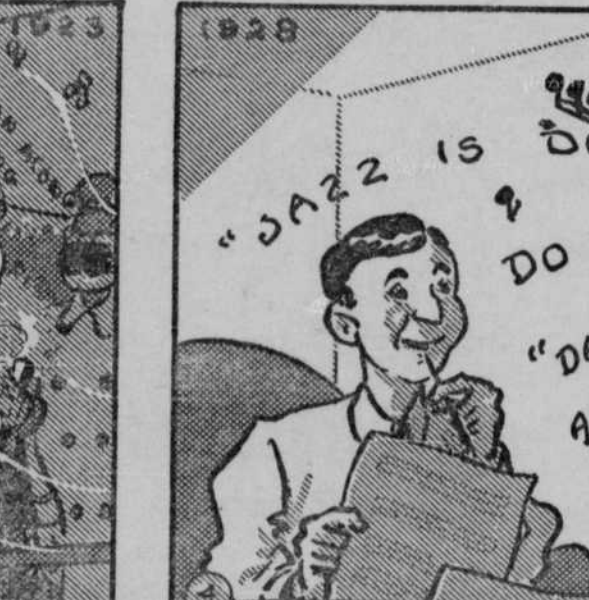

From ASCAP Files
By Joseph R. Fliesler and Paul Carruth

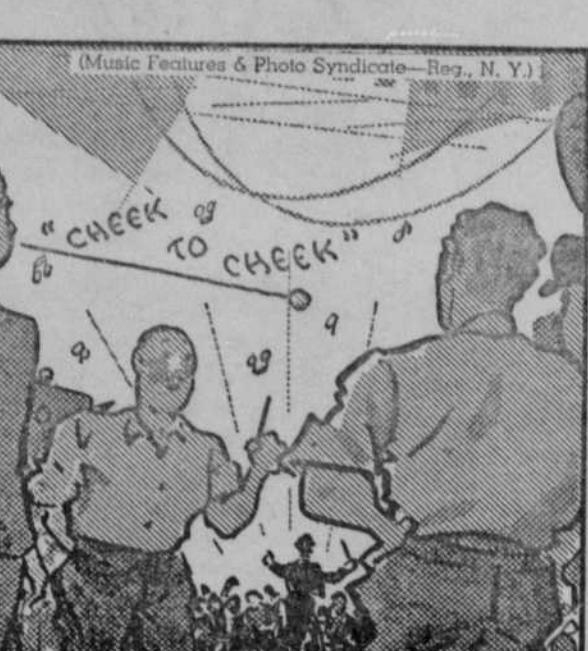

The young singing waiter, turned composer, created success after success, until in 1917 he established his own publishing firm. Then came the war.

Fashions in music change with the years—Berlin was now writing production music, but the strains of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" recurred constantly. So Berlin bought back the song from its original publisher.

Jazz gave way to ballads in the cycle of songs, and radio began to demand more and more new music. The sale of pianos and phonographs decreased and with them the sales of sheet music and records decreased.

Hollywood beckoned and the greatest popular songwriter of them all was among the first to be called. But he resisted until he could write the sort of musical picture he wanted for the movies.

At a moment when the producers ran out of ideas, Berlin put forth the suggestion that resulted in the production of the record breaking film which, beginning with "Alexander's Ragtime Band," becomes a cavalcade of Berlin melodies.

Irving Berlin's membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers dates from its beginning in 1914. Ascapi, which licenses the use to commercial establishments of the works of its members, values highly Berlin's contributions to its repertoire.
