In memory of my Mother, Lueta Gardner Macklin, who departed this life October 17, 1927.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHER

There are tributes of love that we owe to each other, But the greatest of these should be paid to our mother. All the days of our lives she shelters us with her love, May she ever be rewarded with blessings from above.

The presence of mother makes glad many homes, But it's gloomy to those where she never comes. However it be, let us cherish those hours

With our deeds of rare kindness—the sweetest of flowers.

When but a mere infant, her watch over us kept, When we sought lone to wander, she advised our step.

Through we left our fond homestead, for us she still waits. Bidding us to go with her to Heaven's golden gate.

When sickness and trouble have become your lot, And hours of darkness she's forsake you, O not. Then grieve her not, children, but trust and obey,

And each day you will walk in the straight, narrow way.

When her footsteps are wending their path to the grave, Breathe, on, gentle spirit, thy soul, O be brave.

God's spirit will guide you in those lonely hours, And bear thee up in His world of never fading flowers.

Your daughter Clone Macklin Harmon.

Just as other organs of the body become diseased, so do tiny oil glands of the skin. These diseases in most cases are not serious. Oily skin is first disorder, and if this condition is not properly cared for, blackheads result. Blackheads are pores filled with the oil. The top collects dirt and this accounts for the black head on top. There are very few persons that do not have some blackheads.

Blackheads are not beyond the care of home treatment, but a cosmetologist is recommended.

Blackheads should never be squeezed as the skin is delicate and bruises easily. They should be massaged until they can be pushed out.

After blackheads have been extracted the face should be washed with care daily. Camphor and soda properly used are used in treatment of blackheads. Next week acne or the second stakes of black heads will be discussed.

Visit your cosmetologist and watch "Hollywood Charm" for helpful Beauty hints.
