STEPIN FETCHIT RETURNS TO MOVIES FOR PARAMOUNT

Los Angeles, California—It was just about ten years ago, that Stepin Fetchit came to film. The vehicle at that time that brought him to a screen audience was "In Old Kentucky."

It was the droll comic and Carolee Snowden who "stole" the show. A few years later, shortly after the completion of the all-colored cast film "Hearts in Dixie" made at the old Fox studio that Fetchit suffered his first ouster. ABSENT TWO YEARS

Wini Sheehan, then vice president in charge of production at the 20th Century-Fox company brought him back after two years absence from the films.

Fetchit, noted as the world's laziest comedian and outstanding screen artist, then had a profitable, several yrs. working with the late Will Rogers at Warner Oland at that studio.

The second ouster of the famous Fetchit, was of his own choosing, and made during the filming of "The Little Rebel" when he refused to work in the picture with Bill Robinson.

This voluntary exile from the screen by the famous star also lasted for two years. However during the last absence Fetchit fared better than he did during the first ouster. Personal appearances throughout the country turned in lucrative sums.

Fetchit was slated to go East this week to finish out a contractual date for stage appearances, before returning here to play a role in a film production to be made at the Paramount studio.

The actor is scheduled to start work on the 23rd of the month. Sepia Hollywoodia is wondering what Fetchit will do on his third trip to the films.

FOOTLIGHT FLICKERS

By AL MOSES For ANP

New York, Nov. 3—The "headline stealer" is what they are calling Count Basie these days. Three daily papers carried pieces about this sepia wizard of the piano last week (Telegram—Post—Mirror.)

"Chesterfield Cigarette" advertise and like the nationally famous ment: "Such popularity must be deserved." Nick Kenny, Daily Mirror columnist in last Thursday paper said the following (quote): Count Basie is one band leader whose musicians rates a sponsor. His work at the Famous Door has the jitterbugs talking to themselves."

"Fats" Waller, looking for all the world like a "stand in" for the guy who used to play the role of the "Thin Man," has the milky way patrons of Ye Olde Stork Club, falling out of their chairs, literally speaking. After dropping 40 lbs. of lard that he'll never miss, the whale of the ivories went out and contacted a London tailor who knew his stuff with the result—he just isn't the Fats Waller you used to see sprawled over a piano stool that seemed lost from view. He's been collaborating with songwriter Andy Razaf on some numbers that should go a long way towards making the winter indoor season, a thing of pure joy.

Edith Wilson, beautiful seal skinned singer of the blue numbers and risqué sonnets that bring out "baldpate row" in droves, was one of the featured numbers Jimmy Marshall brought to Harlem over the week-end. Sister of Lovable Lena Wilson (God rest her ashes), Edith for years has been a headliner over the Vaudeville Circuits of the country.

Time has been swell to this sweet faced doll. Considerably heavier than the years when Al Brown was bantam king and a worshipper at her shrine. She nevertheless possesses a figure that makes you turn a second time, (and in our case) three or four times, she's that DELOVELY. The evening audience last Friday called her back three times to repeat a suggestive ditty entitled "I want a Rough'n Ready Man." We wondered if most of the oldish, baldish, looking gentry who applauded the loudest for Edith's re-appearance, still considered themselves, "rough'n ready enough"—OYEZ, OYEAH!

Noble Sissle, the Aristocrat of Jazz with one of America's finest bands, headed the great bill of some forty odd. In the supporting cast at the Apollo theatre were: Cook and Brown, "Big Time Crip," a truly wonderful dancer despite the absence of one of his legs, and that ever pleasing character artist and monologist, Billy Banks.

KELSO MORGAN

Kelso Morgan was born on a farm near Lewis, Iowa. He received his academic training at the university of Nebraska. While there he was a member of an athletic team and won his "N". In 1919, he was graduated from the University of Michigan law school. After that he began the practice of law in Omaha, Nebraska, and has continued to practice law in Omaha for thirty years.

He is not a politician but since his graduation from law school has devoted himself to the practice and study of law. He became a candidate for County Attorney, prompted solely by a desire to serve this community in the office of County Attorney and to help correct the deplorable situation which has existed for almost four years. This condition has bankrupted this county and has put it in debt over a million dollars. He promises that he will not
