With the holidays a thing of the | minutes to give it time to ferret out past, most of us are left with a gen- all the particles of dust or stale eral run-down feeling. Too many good times, too little sleep, and per-haps a bad cold thrown in, will do considerable damage to the best of us. Sleep Important To Beauty

Sleep Important To Beauty The skin reacts most unfavorably to lack of sleep, becoming rough and dry, with a tendency to wrinkle more easily. Sleep is, of course, the first prescription for reconditioning the skin but it is always well to give nature a hand. By all means get to bed at least an hour ahead of your scheduled bed-time for a week or more to make up for the many hours rest you have missed during the holiday season. But, while you are preparing for bed, give a little extra attention to beauty.

Proper Cleansing and Lubrication Necessary

Necessary The chances are that during the holiday rush you have neglected the proper cleansing of your skin, giv-ing it just a heaty going over (if any) before falling seleep after a gay evening. Make a resolution to repair the damage this carelessness may have caused. Give a few extra minutes to cleansing your skin for the next few weeks. Select the cleansing cream, whether the liquicleansing cream, whether the liqui-fying or the cold cream type, which s best suited to your skin. Smooth the cream gently over your entire face and allow it to remain on a few

pearance of the pores, and they de-serve any added help we can give

Follow with a good night cream, rubbed well into the skin, and allow it to remain on over night. It is comforting to think that, while we are resting, a good cream is soften-ing, smoothing and lubricating the skin and helping to prevent the formation of fine lines and wrinkles.

These precautions and corrective These precautions and corrective measures will take only a few min-utes each evening but they are well worth your while. A week or two of sufficient rest, simple diet and proper care of your skin will enable you to start off again in as good er perhaps even better condition than before the holiday whirl,
