ALLEN CHAPEL CHURCH

(Continued from page 2) so invited to attend the Noonday Prayer services everyday at the church. We are praying that souls will be saved in this meeting.

CHRIST TEMPLE Rev. L. M. Relf, Pastor A. Hogan, reporter

Our Sunday School opened at nine thirty a. m. The subject of our lesson was "Paul Preaches the Risen Christ"—Acts 13; 1st Corinthians 15. Easter Sunday morning found the children and adults out in very large numbers.

The morning service opened at 11 o'clock. Rev. L. M. Relf brought us a very stirring message entitled, "The Resurrection," found in Matt. 28. Our visitors during the morning service were nine in number.

HYPY met at six-thirty p. m. and our Easter program began at seven-thirty. It was a very fine and great program and enjoyed by all that attended.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH Clarinda, Iowa Rev. D. Nicholson, pastor

City Union of the Ushers and Usherettes

Jack Hall, reporter

Last Sunday, being Easter one of those beautiful spring like days everybody was on the Avenue viewing that Easter parade of beauties.

All the churches enjoyed record breaking attendances during the day and especially for 11 o'clock services where standing room was hardly obtainable.

The ushers and "ettes" looked right spicky-fied in their new arm bands last Sunday at St. John's afternoon service. Of course you know we have our secretary, Mr. Goosby to thank as wass as pay for rmaking them. Be sure to see your local president for yous and while I am on the subject don't forget your "penny punch card" as we want to send a delegate to the convention this year.

We were very sorry to hear of the sudden death of one of our former co-workers of Mt. Moriah's, local in the person of Mrs. Marshall. At this writing your reporter is unable to say when the funeral will be held.

Oh yes Our next regular meeting will be held at Pilgrim Baptist Church on 25th Hamilton St., April 23 at 3 P. M. Locals are requested to be present as you know that will be the last meeting "ere" the Goodwill Spring Musical will be held at Tech Auditorium Sunday April 30th. Final instruction, you know.

THIS WEEK IN RELIGION & THOUGHT by ROBERT L. MOODY

Genius—"Genius knows no race, color, or nationality."—Secretary Ickes. Those who were fortunate enough to hear the broadcasted part of Marian Andersons recital, were thrilled by the introduction as well as Miss Anderson's singing.

Secretary of Interior, Harold Ickes, gave Miss Anderson a very timely introduction. In it, he briefly told the history of her life and the world's greatest contralto. She has risen from a poor Negro tenant section of Philadelphia, Penn to the world's greatest contralto. She has sung before kings and queens.

Mr. Ickes also pointed out how significant that it was for Miss Anderson to stand at the foot of the Lincoln Memorial and sing, because it was under Lincoln's administration that this possibility was made that she may sing before such an audience as a free woman.

Surely, Marian Anderson must be the present-day representative of Paul Lawrence Dunbar's "Ma-lindy." It was very pleasant to hear her. There is another Negro on top not because of race but because of recognized talent.

particularly well, but because I think in terms of art and in terms of literature.

Do I make picture and write books because I think it's nice to make pictures and write books? No! I think of all the arts as by-products of life. Life has always been, and God help me, always will be, so exciting that I'll want to talk about it. My art, and that means the pictures and books will always be no more than an expression of my interest in living.

As evidence of my not having lived for art or literature is the and have six children. It is also evidence of the fact that I may speak about life through art and through literature with some authenticity.

I think that the finest time in the lives of all people is their youth, that the ideals of youth are fine, clear, and unencumbered; and that the real art of living consists in keeping alive the conscience and the sense of values that we had when we were young. If I amount to anything today it is because to some extent I have done that—

And that's the story of my life." Of his Alaskan trip Mr. Kent wrote "Wilderness," considered here and abroad "the finest thing since Walt Whitman" and in order to finance the trip and to provide for his family during his absence he incorporated himself—sold stock and paid the stockholders in full from the sales of his book. Later appeared several volumes—"Voyaging," "North by East," "Rockwell-kentiana," and "Salamina." His painting, "Winter, A view of Monhegan," is hung in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

At the present time, Mr. Kent is engaged on a $75,000 commission. He is painting the murals for the General Electric Building at the New York Fair. Mr. Kent was also chosen by the Tuberculosis Association to design the 1939 tuberculosis seals.

Mr. Kent's home is near Ausable Forks, New York, where he operates a modern farm. He was early impressed by the strength and potential power of people who have the ability to work with their hands. He has been a laborer carpenter, lobster man, boat builder, well digger, architect and successful business man.
