DONT SIMMER THIS SUMMER

Keeping cool in summer has long been a matter that baffles the best of us. While there is probably no really satisfactory solution to the problem other than air-conditioning, there are a number of ways of being less uncomfortable and looking at least reasonably cool.

One of the first rules, of course, is to wear light weight clothes. Personally, I have always found cottons cooler in summer than silks, perhaps because of the knowledge that they can be washed. Tight-fitting dresses and wide, snug belts should be avoided in extremely hot weather. You can look trim and chic without having your summer dresses as closely fitted as your winter ones.

Use Make-Up Lightly

Summer make-up is important too.

Use it sparingly during the summer and choose it carefully.

Your skin tone is likely to change after a few weeks of summer, so keep that in mind when applying your powder.

Select the cosmetics that blend best with your coloring and then apply them lightly.

Too much lipstick will melt and run below your lip-line.

Too much powder will become caked and a heavy dose of rouge will probably streak as the perspiration makes your cheeks damp.
