A GLOBE TROTTER'S SKETCH BOOK

By HI WATTS
DAVID STREET, JERUSALEM, PALESTINE

Called by many travelers "one of the seven most interesting streets in the world," David Street, in the heart of Jerusalem, presents a most fascinating study of contrasts. One is immediately struck by the din of a thousand foreign jargons and a greater variety of odors, smells and aromas.

In the open-front shops, some centuries old, the visitor sees none of the familiar trade-marked, neat packages of our regimented civilization. Rather, the merchants offer a kind of peculiar specialization in which each one offers a different product—dried cereals and grain in open sacks, sweetmeats, bread in all varieties of shapes and sizes. Limited cuts of meat may be purchased right out in the open if one doesn't mind the light covering of dust from the countless passing feet, or the swarm of insects that hover over the stalls!

David Street is the dividing line which separates the four quarters of the city. On the right, the Christian and Moslem sections, on the left, the Armenian and Jewish. The cosmopolitan merchants mingle and haggle before ancient money-changers... usually gray-haired "Sharafs," clothed in rags, and greedily fingering their piles of strange coins from many lands. The scene makes the casual American wonder if life here might be improved with modern talk of "dollar devaluation" and the like!

NEGRO CIO LEADERS IN TALK WITH PERKINS; ARMOUR STRIKE PLANNED

Washington, Sept. 7 (CNA)—Fifteen Armour local delegates from all over the country, including four Negroes, told the Federal government here that either Armour management would negotiate with the union for a national contract, or "we will shut down every Armour plant in the country, and keep them shut down until we get an agreement." The delegation was headed by Packinghouse Workers Organizing Committee Chairman Van A. Bittner.

Negro members of the delegation were Henry Johnson, assistant national director of the PWOC; Clifton McKinney, a leading member of Local 8, Omaha, Neb.; Oscar Wilson, from Local 347 in Armour's main Chicago plant; and Burdette King, President of the PWOC's newly chartered Local 100 of the Armour's by-products plant at 31st Street, Chicago. This local recently received 660 of the 848 ballots cast in a Labor board election, and has been certified by the board as the sole bargaining agent for employes at that plant.

The delegation urged the government, through Secretary of Labor Perkins to use all possible influence to bring Armour & Co. to the conference table, both through her office and, if that failed, through President Roosevelt.

"There is only one way to prevent a strike," Chairman Bittner told the Secretary "and that is, by Armour and Co., consenting to negotiate. And if a strike is not prevented by this means, it will come before this Labor day, September 4."

A large number of Negro workers are employed in the Armour plants, particularly in Chicago. They are almost unanimously for the CIO union.
