FIRST MISSION OF THE GOD SENT LIGHT

Prophet Hess, Divine Healer.
Pastor—Sig Woodie, Reporter.

We wish to announce the departure of Prophet Hess. He went to join his family after laboring with us since Sept. We think lonesome for him, feeling very much as the disciple at the going away of the Master, but we were thankful that he could return to his loved ones he had left behind when he came to labor with us. The Lord raised up many true friends of both races. Our Thursday evening sermon shall long be remembered. The decoration of the Sacred Heart seance was lovely. It was so spiritual that you had to see it to even guess what it was like. We were honored with a lovely crowd. Blessed candles, Sacred Hearts, novenas and blessed napkins were passed out for healing and prosperity. Watch for announcement of his return.

GOOD SHEPHERD CHARITY CLUB

Notice. Mr. Coleman Dangerfield President and Founder of the Good Shepherd Charity Club gave a free Thanksgiving dinner for 13 old folks and the ones that were not able to come, he sent a car for them and also carried out a few dinners. Mr. Dangerfield gave this wonderful dinner in honor of the club. May the Lord bless him for remembering someone that might have been forgotten.

WHITE BAPTISTS DENOUNCE JIM CROWISM AT S. C. CONCLAVE

Greenville, S. S. Dec. 7 (ANP)—Negro baiters and Southern advocates of "white supremacy" were given a decided jolt here last week when the Social Service commission of the 119th annual Baptist Convention, white submitted a report recommending the granting to Negroes of almost every social, economic and political right they have been fighting for since reconstruction days.

The commission urged the Baptist leaders to "seek to accord the Negro his just and legal rights as fast as he is able to assume them," and this recommendation coupled with others equally strong and revolutionary, precipitated a controversy that waged on the floor of the convention and in committee rooms during the entire three-day session.

But when the fireworks had cleared, and the "conservative element" again held sway, the delegates voted to strike out the "controversial section" as being "more political than religious." The section of the Social Service commission report which frankly advocated justice and fair play for Negroes was read by the Rev. W. W. Leathers of Conway, S. C.

The immediate cause of the controversy was the section saying, "Every one agrees that wholesome restrictions should be placed about the ballot but every citizen who is qualified to vote should be permitted to do so. There is good reason to anticipate eventual social upheaval in any commonwealth in which a minority group composing 45 per cent of its population is denied the ballot simply because of its color." This introduction to the report on the Negro covering over six pages threw the convention into a turmoil. One champion for the adoption of the report said, "To tax the Negro without letting him vote if he is qualified amounts to taxation without representation." Another said: "The South treats the Negro just about as badly as Germany treats the Jews."

Other excerpts: "The Negro has unjustly discriminated against in our system of public school education. Negroes have not received justice in the provision for their health. It is openly admitted that the Negro cannot obtain justice in our courts." After deciding that the report was a "political issue" the convention voted to eliminate. Negroes here declared that for a white Baptist convention to even

HIGHLIGHTS OF CIRCLE TOUR OF UNITED STATES OCEAN TO OCEAN

By Mrs. Hiram R. Greenfield
West Virginia, Jim-Crow Train Coach, Kentucky

Arriving at Newport, News Va. on the C & O Ferry which made immediate connections with the George Washington C & O daily railroad train, red cap takes my luggage to the "Jim Crow" car finds me a seat in a 14 seat coach section of the coach. This coach was divided into three parts; first part toward the engine was a baggage car, which was half of the coach, middle section with two seats on each side was the smoking section; the rear end was the travellers coach which had seven seats on each side of the aisle. Making fourteen seats in all for the colored passengers. Small lavatories at one end opposite each other. After an hour spent in Richmond, Virginia the capitol of the Confederacy, our train was speeding on thru the historic state of Virginia of two hundred years ago. I was wondering about what hour would I eat my dinner, finally I asked the porter, he brought me a menu card from the diner. After making my choice of the dinner I wanted, he told me the dining car waiter would bring my dinner to me on a tray. Very soon my meal was brought to me and a coach seat turned over, tray placed on this not too clean seat from which I ate. Amidst uninviting surroundings. Paying first class fare getting third class accommodations. I wanted to find out if traveling conditions had made any material changes for the general public of the colored passengers. I found all railroad conditions about the same as twenty years ago, when I toured the Southland to the Gulf. Charlottesville, Va., home of Thomas Jefferson and Staunton, Va. birthplace of Woodrow Wilson which we passed through and really there is no wonder the state of Virginia is called the state that has given the nation more presidents than any other state in the union. We were soon in Charleston West Virginia which is part of what is called "The Coal Bin" of America. Our people are doing well in labor, professional, business and religious circles. They appear to be very stable and of a fine caliber for the most part, in these states. Cincinnati Ohio was our next stop, after a short lay over I boarded the L & N railroad train for Richmond, Kentucky to visit relatives. Same Jim-Crow train conditions existed. The scenery through Kentucky with its rolling hills of blue grass was beautiful, its fields, forests and rippling streams with cattle upon many hills was picturesque. Tobacco barns crammed full of long tobacco leaves, drying out for the market, ventilation was circulating through by many boards left off.

After a delightful visit in Richmond, Kentucky, I returned to Cincinnati for a half day visit with relatives. Cincinnati, Ohio is a gem of beauty and the Union depot or terminal as it is called is not excelled by any other railroad station from coast to coast. All colored red caps as I saw at every union station after leaving this middle west.

I left Cincinnati, Ohio on the Big Four R. R. Steamline for Chicago with privilege of every modern accommodations as every American citizen under our democracy is (supposed) guaranteed. The outstanding interest on this train was a buffet diner with colored waiter in charge and a white chef. I was informed there were several others in the dining car service. All trains were over crowded with passengers and a friendly attitude was assumed by everyone. Nowhere, was there any unpleasantness by passengers.

Arrived in Chicago on Sunday evening and was greeted by a number of friends. There I ended my 60 day Ocean to Ocean Circle Tour of the United States. Tired and bubbling over with zest and a perfect enjoyable trip across the Continent. After spending a month in Chicago, visiting Elder Lucy Smith and my friends, I arrived home Sept. 21st after an unsurpassed vacation, with ability to soar new heights of thought, of interest and experience. New realms of enjoyment are in store for all who travel. God gave every thing for us to richly enjoy. Thus ends a 90 day trip long to be remembered trip.
