THOMAS E. DEWEY AND FAMILY

If Thomas E. Dewey is elected to the Presidency in 1940, the White House will have small children living in it for the first time since Teddy Roosevelt's famous family romped through its famous halls and rooms in 1912.

The Michigan-born district attorney, who is the Republican party's outstanding candidate for nomination for president, and his Texas-born wife, Frances Hutt Dewey, are bringing up their two small sons, Thomas Edmund, Jr., 7, and John Martin, 4, in sturdy, commonsense fashion.

For one thing, the children spend late spring, summer and early fall months on a farm, doing small chores around the place. Both parents believe so firmly in the necessity of country life for the health of their children's minds and bodies, that they recently purchased a farm at Pawling, N. Y.

Dewey, born and reared in a small town, and used to farm work as a youth, put all his savings into the acres in Dutchess County, New York, so that his boys could grow up in the same healthy, normal way he did in Michigan.

The Dewey place is no show place, nor country estate. It is a practical, working dairy farm with pure bred cows. Dewey expects to raise many products there when the recently acquired land is ready for intensive cultivation.

D. R. C.—I wrote a boy who played in an orchestra in our city last Christmas. Tell me if he received my letter and why didn't he answer it as he promised?

Ans: This fellow did not get your letter—HIS WIFE has it. Discontinue writing to him for sometimes letters written to married men can cause trouble as well as embarrassment for the writer.

P. C.—All of my life I have had plenty and have given away too much I realize now. Well, as the old story goes, I am down and out and have no place to go and none of the people I have helped want to help me, so advise me what to do?

Ans: Sell out some of your property back home and get your hands

COCHRAN RAPS BURKE RECORD AND PROMISES

DECLARES PLATFORM OF OPPONENT REPUDIATES WASHINGTON VOTING

By Lawrence Youngman (World-Herald Staff Member.)

Columbus, Neb., March 30—Maintaining the aggressive tone that has characterized his campaign to date, Governor R. L. Cochran in a speech here tonight charged the campaign platform of his opponent, Senator E. R. Burke, repudiates the record Burke made in the senate.

"Why isn't the junior senator willing to stand firm and run on his record?" as the governor. "In the senate hall that record was written in bold letters. Frequently it was studied with the word 'no'—in letters a foot high. But when he was voting he was Senator Burke. Now that he is Candidate Burke and asking for your vote, the important word in his vocabulary is 'yes.' Is he in favor of the administration's farm program? Yes. Is he in favor of low interest rates for farm loans? Yes.

"Yes" Repudiates "No"

"The 'yes' he voices today repudiates the 'no' that brought such loud cheers from republicans a few years ago."

Commenting on the local situation, the governor said he was impelled to express "mild surprise" at the fact Edgar Howard, Columbus editor and former congressman, had said of Burke that no man in the house or senate had denied. "This statement," said Cochran, "comes from a man who, when he was in congress, generally took the diametrical opposite of the views held by Mr. Burke."

Lauds Farm Aid
Devoting a principal part of his talk to agricultural matters, the governor said that in the Columbus area, where the drought has extended over a six-year period, many farmers have been enabled to stay on their farms through federal assistance.

Cochran said he had been informed there was not sufficient money available to take care of farm security loans. "The money is not available," he said, "because congress defeated an attempt to restore an appropriation of from 750 million dollars to 875 million dollars and Burke assisted in killing it."

After the meeting a delegation of WPA workers called on Cochran to tell him that 125 men had been laid off here and to ask his help in securing additional funds to put them back to work. Cochran told them Burke also had voted against a motion to make more money available. The governor promised to investigate the situation.

Cochran, left for Lincoln after the meeting, which practically wound up his outstate campaign. He expects to be in Omaha Sunday for the South Side housing project dedication and to spend most of the coming week there.

Cochran devoted most of Saturday to a tour of Saunders, Butler and Polk counties, making calls at Wahoo, David City, Shelby and Osceola.

Mrs. X.—Be kind enough to tell me if I will handle more money this year than I did during '39?

Ans: Yes. Some member of your immediate family will get a RAISE IN SALARY and it will benefit you too. I must warn you, that if you let money slip thru your fingers during this year as it did in '39, you won't even realize anything from the extra money coming in. Budget your income.

D. D. T.—Would it be a splendid idea for me to get married? I have always wanted to see my initials in print in your column and anxiously await your reply.

Ans: Why not get married. If you two don't get married, then break up and change life a bit. You two have been exceedingly fond of each other for five years, and it is time to marry. I wish you much happiness.

C. A. D.—My brother has apparently lost his mind and we of the family wish to know if he will ever be normal again?

Ans: His condition is not beyond the curable stage—but it will take many many months of excellent medical treatment in order for him to get better. Let him stay in the institution where he has been put recently, and do not interfere with the doctors at all. They will do all in their power to help him.

N. B. R.—Will I end up by being an Old Maid, or will I ever get married?

Ans: I fail to see that your fears are well founded—a girl of SEVENTEEN has hardly begun to live and you surely have ample time in which to choose, or to be chosen. A marriage will take place in your life around your 21st year.

G. H.—Did my husband take his check and pay the rent as he told me some two weeks ago?

Ans: He did yes. Had he not paid the rent the landlord would have called by this time. He isn't
