DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY BUT FAILED It seems as though Death failed to take a holiday Wednesday, June the 18th, for right after the winner of the fight was announced a man dropped dead right in Duffy's drug store.

WHAT'S THIS? A Boom! A Crash! and the breaking of glass is all you could hear for one moment: an ambulance siren and bystanders is all you could hear the next few hours.

At last the noise quieted down a bit, when the "Blue Heaven" was spotted on one side of the street, and another car, upside down on the other side. Both cars were smashed, smoking and goin' on—wasting gasoline. They didn't seem to be feeling well, however, The victims were pretty well on the level.

Luther Taylor and his better half comin' on with their fine jitterbugging was quite amusing. Next on scene was that fugitive from Justice Marcus, darting here and there, jiving whoever was weak enough to fall for his line.

Well that wasn't all, Louise thinking about that romantic soldier that danced a number or two with her... and later he pinned off scene. Tall, dark and handsome Pete Doss and Gables' second, Mose Ransom were just plain ol' on lookers, didn't look like they were in the mood for shuffling.

Well, for the next item, we spotted Essie with a soldier who wasn't at all bad to cast an eye upon. course you needn't mention this to Joe... Soup Lawson wasn't doing so bad, spent 1-3rd of the night with Delores Williams. Gracie and Nora seemed as though they'd rather be looked around at, than up to, and I'm knowing they had a gay time. Mary Harris pinned on scene rather late, but she was seen at the turning out. I must not forget to mention Johnnet who stayed with her soldier like paper on the wall... and if you ask me the sack house really did know their stuff when they played that music. Before I forget, I mustn't forget to mention that slick, but clever Willard Morgan that always makes up with his lover by dancing with her on the last round so he can escort her home.

The Dolomites had a party last Friday night at the Franklin's home to celebrate the marriage of those newly weds Mr. and Mrs. Milton Madison. Well, Altha Robinson seem to have topped it at the party when her ex-boy friend, Jackie Williams asked her to join him; and since Altha has a jaw that have never taken on for an answer from Jack she couldn't refuse accepting his invitation.

THE INSEPARABLE COUPLE Jack H. and Glacey T. are what one might say on Jack hasn't proposed to Glacey yet, but his voice seems to have an engagement ring in it. Don't be too concerned about this statement, you tongue wagger.

OVERHEARD CONVERSATION One girl related "being an old maid is like death by drowning—really a delightful sensation after one ceases struggling."

IT'S A FACT that taxicabs continue to get more and more streamlined and the drivers remain pretty much the same but you have to admit that they are as inconsiderate as an alarm clock!

WHAT WE HEARD Had a chat with that most confusin' but amusin' Jessie Franklin, and through our conversation we learned that her LIFE and JOY who is in some camp at the present, has cashed on his hands a rare dead, coupe, you know it isn't exactly a "41 but it is a car and a car is a car."

SPECIAL BULLETIN: "Listen my children and you shall catch, Of the midnight ride in the Black Dispatch." The hostess was no where in sight, For they were preparing the party all-right. The party was fine as I was told, Because it was enjoyed by both young and old."

STOMPIN' AT THE FONTENELLE RECREATION ROOM was the younger set of hip cats and chicks last Monday night. It being a free dance, it was quite a sensation for all those who jitterbugged, mooched, sweated and went on.

OLD FRIENDS Katie Beasley and Doris Ware are back on the scene again. Katie did look very lonesome or some thin' of the sort while Doris was out of town, never the less the pals are seen often together lately.

Evelyn Stewart seemed quite upset during the intermission at that dance Monday night—a little later, she was all smiles, because enabling you to Make Purchases More Accurately, Conveniently and Economically!

SAFEWAY Now!

ALL FRESH FRUITS & VEGETABLES SOLD BY "WEIGHT"

From experience in selling Citrus Fruits by the "pound", SAFEWAY is convinced this method of measurement is more fair to homemakers and that it should be used in selling all fresh fruits and vegetables.

Merely because of custom have many of these foods been priced by the "piece", "dozen" or "bunch". Variations of size, weight, and quality make value comparisons only approximate by this method of measurement. Only when the measure is by "weight", and not by "count", can accurate values be ascertained by homemakers, and enable them to get the most for their money.

Therefore, SAFEWAY is now pricing by the "pound" all the following:—Cantaloupes, Beets, Carrots, Green Onions, Celery, Head Lettuce, Radishes, and Turnips as well as Citrus Fruits and other fresh fruits and vegetables. Tops have already been removed from the Carrots, Turnips, and Beets, and of course are not weighed.

We feel sure you will heartily and readily agree this is a forward step in better merchandising and that it will enable you to make purchases more accurately, conveniently and economically.
