B. S. C.—I am seriously in love with a young man from out of town who came down to see me Sunday. He says he's awful lonesome and wants me to leave my husband for him. I married young and really didn't love my husband and I want to know if I should leave him and go to this boy as I seem to love him. My husband really doesn't make enough to support me properly.

Ans: Young lady you haven't grown up yet, else you wouldn't be out cheating on your husband. This fellow from out of town was lonesome . . . but he's home now and that's a different story. Do not depend on leaving your husband for him, for he isn't that interested. If your husband is unable to properly support, get a job and help bring in the meat yourself.

Aged Missionaries Start Long Voyage Home

Mrs. Charles Bishop comforts her bedridden husband on the eve of their departure from Japan for the United States, after more than sixty years of missionary and educational work. Mr. Bishop, who is 91, served with the Methodist mission in Japan since 1879, while Mrs. Bishop taught at Aoyama Gakuin for nearly half a century.

B. A. K.—Tell me what I should do about the little sore that came on me and the knot in my head? Ans: Go to the doctor. It is most unwise to let the sore stay on your body indefinitely and the doctor can tell you the proper thing to do about the knot on your head.

E. S.—I wish to know if this man I am going with means me any good? Why does he dodge me or stay hid from me when his pay days come and when it is over with, he will come seeking back. Please tell me? Ans: Your case is as plain to see thru as daylight. He just does not want to spend any of his money on you. Although after he has spent it all he seems to know where to get a decent meal. As long as you take him back broke . . . he will continue to pull the wool over your eyes.

WAITERS' COLUMN

(By H. W. SMITH)

The Omaha Club with the quick step crew is always on the up and go, and continues out in front and as Mr. Blackwell's on his vacation the top man will be Mr. Jones and we are quite sure he'll get the very best cooperation. Mr. Frank Buford is always on the job as we all know he is up to the minute on being on the job and Mr. Dave Morrison can always give first hand information on prize fights.

Mr. Underwood of the Fontenelle Hotel was out in front at the Waiter's party and our good friend Mr. Reed was so popular and his time was taken up in so many places it was impossible for this writer to say hello to him and we were well pleased to see him so well thought of. Alright, Mr. Reed, continue to press forward as we all like to see you go up.

We talked with Mr. Hill, and Mr. George Lipton of the room service and both of them had the usual business look on their faces as we all know actions of that kind bring good results.

Mr. Jones of the Bombay, and Black Mirror Room is on his vacation visiting his mother in Oklahoma. We wonder if his thoughts go back to the old motto, "What is home without a mother." Sweet dreams to you, Mr. Jones.

Mr. John Evans looked as though he doesn't pay any attention to the hot weather. Alright, Brother John, we shall try to adopt your ways of action and pleasant ways.

We had a slight look at Colonel Corbert the world's renowned head waiter of the Paxton hotel last Sunday afternoon and as we were late on our schedule we could not stop and we are asking Capt. Booth or Mr. Pierson, or Mr. Owens or Mr. Theodore Thomas or Mr. Fisher of the room service to say to Mr. Corbert, we would be pleased to talk with him at some future time.

Mr. Branch was the key man at the waiter's party and we all shall think kindly of him for his very pleasant way of serving the very busy crowd those delicious sandwiches and seeing that everyone was taken care of and we take pleasure in saying "hats off to you" at all times.

L. Professor Campbell was top man on the Service Bar at the Highland Club on Monday, July

Want Red Cross Nurses

FACED WITH SHORTAGE OF NURSES IN OMAHA

Anticipating an enlarged enrollment for the Red Cross home nursing classes as a result of the city wide survey being made in the preparadness coordination drive in Omaha, Mrs. H. Malcolm Baldrige, chairman, has made an urgent appeal to registered nurses who have married or for other reasons have given up nursing, to enlist as instructors. She points out that the new requirements for instructors demand that they be registered nurses from an accredited school with four years of high school education or its equivalent. They do not have to be previously enrolled as Red Cross nurses, she said.

Mrs. J. A. McKamy, chairman of enrolling nurses for instructor's refresher courses urges that women who have been nurses apply to her for details concerning time and place.

"We are already faced with an emergency in Omaha," she asserts, "with a shortage of nurses acutely felt in hospitals here as a result of the great numbers that have been drafted into army and navy hospitals. In the event of even a mild epidemic Omaha would be ill-equipped to meet the needs."

She went on to show that the training of housewives, mothers and business women would equip them to care for patients in the home with first aid, home sanitation, making of bandages and other phases that would make it possible for them to assist the nurse in the home or more efficiently follow the instructions of doctor during the time of stress.

It is training that any woman may find herself in need of on many occasions, whether there be a community or national emergency or not," she pointed out, "and women all over the country are awakening to their responsibilities in this as well as other phases of emergency defense. Consequently we find ourselves with hundreds of women clamoring for such training and an alarming shortage of registered nurses who are the only ones adequately trained for such instruction."

28th at the Variety Club's all-day golf party, and Mr. Gabby Watson was going many places and doing many things and we are asking him what school did he get his knowledge from Mr. Berry can mix highballs, get cigarettes, tell the many kinds of pop, and open up six cans of Budweiser beer at the same time, and what we would like to know was where he was educated to do so many acts at the same time and keep a clear head and we shall continue to pay very close attention when we are around him.

Mr. James Richardson of the Field Club will be in the Hall of Fame or be more famous after the golf tournament in August as what he will have to contend with will be a very small affair with him. Mr. Johnnie Malloy is up from Arkansas State College, and is a major leaguer when it is a large crowd, and Mr. Harry Frazier never gets excited and is tops at arranging large parties and acts as though 4-5 or 600 is a small affair. Mr. Johnnie Flemings used very good judgement in selecting such a good crew for the Country Club; Mr. Donoway, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Perry, and Mr. James Griffin. Mr. Lambert is in a class by himself in mixing drinks.

Mr. Simon Harrold the noted drummer head waiter and all-around good fellow is making good at the Happy Hollow Club with such men as Jack White, who is up from the Sunflower State and Mr. Chester Hodges, from the last state admitted into the United States, can shoot a 70 on the golf course, and can serve any article of food from a ham sandwich to a flank steak and baked Alaska ice cream for dessert. They are always very good spokes in the wheel.

We would be very much pleased to see the streamlined head-waiter, Mr. Edgar Lee of the Athletic Club who is up from St. Joe, and Kansas City, also Lincoln University at Jefferson City, Mo., Now, what else wouldn't it take to be a topnotcher.

Now have you noticed that the Omaha Guide is pressing on the upward way, and gaining new heights every day. Now, are you going to help them by taking it for one year. Give it a good break.
