HELP KEEP NEBRASKA POWER AS IT IS . . .

1. It does NOT have to be sold.
2. It furnishes you fine service at rates among the lowest in the nation.
3. It is a good citizen, contributing to Omaha's civic, business and community welfare.
4. It pays $2,500,000 a year in taxes, to help support your city's schools, fire and police departments, and other functions of government, including helping to provide our soldiers with the equipment they must have for victory.
5. It earns less than 6% on the value of its property. (Unlike the World-Herald which earns around 20%.)
6. It has served you well, through Experienced Business Management, for over 26 years. Why take a chance on a part-time board, inexperienced in the electric business?

PACIFIC'S TOUGH

Brooklyn, New York. According to George T. Hopkins, Jr., who is a native of the city, the Pacific is a tough hole and our boys are doing their share in fighting. Pvt. Hopkins enlisted in 1941 with the 77th Coast Artillery and received his honorable discharge last August 19th at Temple, Texas for disability. He said that he saw service all over the Pacific and found any number of the darker races unrecorded and unnoticed on small islands. He also said he was glad to be back and urges all relatives to write to the boys in service who are in the Pacific area and send photographs and other novelties at once. Pvt. Hopkins stopped off in Chicago with relatives and is contemplating on teaching school in the future. (Press Photo Service.)

RELAX-ENJOY READ The GUIDE

While You were Fighting
"OVER THERE"

Some of the well-meaning folks back home decided to take away beer. That this shouldn't have happened was proved later by the repeal of unpopular prohibition.

but in today's war

the Army, the Navy, and all of the armed forces, as well as the Red Cross recognize the value of beer as a moral builder. They recognize the fighting men's right to enjoy a refreshing glass of beer. Yes, in today's war, things are different! The boys "over there," and those stationed here in America are enjoying beer as a beverage and as a food.

The government requires that breweries set aside a large portion of their production for the boys in the service. There are times when you can't get your favorite beer. This may inconvenience you, but when you realize that beer has gone to war, that's a different story! You wouldn't have it any other way!

When you return to your home, and you hear your friends complain—tell them why they may have to pass up that second glass of beer. They wouldn't have it any other way, either.
