Your Home

By Frances Ainsworth

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Recently a group of women were asked: "What do you consider the most important table in your home?" The replies, tabulated as a part of an extensive survey by the Imperial Furniture Company, showed that 49% selected the coffee table. I have been trying to analyze the reason for this popularity. I feel it is because of many ways in which the coffee table fits in to hospitable home living. Its use as a coffee table—for fashionably serving after dinner coffee in the living room—is such an easy, simple way to make a glamorous event out of a simple dinner party. It is just as appropriately used, too, for serving of cocktails before dinner. Because the coffee table is generally placed in front of the sofa, it is the logical table to use every day for your favorite magazines, and for ashtrays, etc., to add to your comfort and relaxation. And don't overlook the important decorative importance of the coffee table. When you have an especially impressive bouquet or plant, a lovely vase, or prized collection pieces, show them off to best advantage on your coffee table.

This popularity of the coffee table is entirely a modern, American idea. The first coffee table—its low, convenient height, and spacious top size, were originated less than twenty years ago by Imperial, of Grand Rapids. And now, as this survey indicates, it has become the most popular of all tables.

WOMEN YOUR '40'S

Are You Embarrassed By HOT FLASHES?

If you, like so many women, between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, nervous tension, irritability, are a bit blue at times—all due to the functional middle age period peculiar to women—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

For almost a century thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported remarkable benefits. Many wise women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against such annoying distress.
