POLITICS

1. "There is danger that public indifference will be bred of the familiarity with the rabble-rousing ring of Robert R. Reynolds' call to his new so-called 'Nationalist' party. Reynolds, North Carolina's junior Senator in the last session of Congress, has not displayed the degree of sinister genius that makes a 'Kingfish'." Neither has Gerald L. K. Smith or some other agitators distinguished by their sound and fury. But there is a menace in the sinister kind of people attracted by the savage prejudices given play in the dogmas that the rabble-rousers offer. It was on such foundations that Huey Long was building his autocracy when he died, and on which the fascist dictatorships were established in Europe. Reynolds does not appear to have the talent to disrupt, but he is active to provide what may be a tool ready for a master hand."

(San Francisco Chronicle, January 15, 1945)

2. "Will the current war be followed by the establishment of new political parties in America, or perhaps by the transformation of all but the names of the old ones. Our present parties are the outcome of the Civil War and of the controversies which preceded and followed it. Now we have a Democratic party whose core is the Solid South, still voting immovably on the race question on which Mr. Roosevelt is now the chief leader, in precept and in enforcement action, on the other side. In addition, this Southern oligarchy is the center of hold-over Klu Kluxism, anti-foreign and anti-Catholic, while the second major strength of the party is foreign minded groups in the great Northern cities, with the bosses who deliver them, and the radical city labor parties, whose unionism this same oligarchy is resolved, at all costs, to keep out of the South. None of this, of course, makes sense in terms of today. But the South still votes Nor is voted—that way, for reasons which its rulers thought good in their grand fathers' time. The position of a still dominant element in the Republican official organization makes as little sense, in its repudiation of Republican Presidents, presidential nominees and platforms, and in its oblivion to the present state of the Nation and the world."

3. "So far as we are informed the Reverend Powell, prominent and directing Democrat and Roosevelt New Dealer of New York, who has taken a seat in congress to which he was elected by the New York Democrats, retains his reverend. Some ministers who became political officeholders prefer not to be known as reverend and their wishes should be complied with. The Reverend Powell is pastor of the Abyssinian church. He is of the race of Democrat Dawson, representative in congress of a Chicago district. The national Democratic party of Reverend Powell and his 'race' comrade from Chicago are the Democratic comrades of the 'Regulars' who carry the election in South Carolina."

(Charleston News and Courier, January 15, 1945)

4. "From Look-out to St. Mary's the shadow of Ole Gene hangs over Georgia's politics now. It's about time for him to be coming back, political soothsayers think. He seems to be thinking it, too. Ole Gene... has come out against the poll tax, to the awful embarrassment of some of his grass root friends but with a political wisdom that is going to pay dividends. It won't be hard for him to make his followers see that the poll tax has nothing to do with Negro voting. What Gene has done with his startling stand against the poll tax is to take much wind out of Gov. Ellis Arnall's sails. The governor has just asked for repeal of the tax, and the picture of brave and liberal leadership is dimmed by this Talmadge support. It is dimmed, too, by the fact that Gov. Arnall waited too long to take the step. As Ellis Arnall comes out against the poll tax now, things are different. The year has brought many changes. He has come to be known as a great and good friend of Henry Wallace, as a 100 percent New Dealer, as a White House disciple who sometimes gets White House signals mixed. His stand against the poll tax has the slightly mildewed aspect now of all things invertebrate New Deal."

Draft Boards Move Into Unified Office

In an effort to cut red-tape in the handling of problems for returning veterans, the 10 selective service local boards of Douglas county will be moved to a unified office at 1440 First National Bank Building, Omaha, by February 28. Lt. Col. H. R. Turner of Lincoln, assistant state selective service director, announced.

Colonel Turner said the move is being made for the principal purpose of avoiding the necessity of shuttling returning veterans from one office location to another when they report to local boards following discharge. Lancaster county's four local boards have been successfully operating from a central office location for several months.

He said the move of the Douglas county local boards will not materially affect the present number of employees the boards have.

The Douglas county selective service local boards their present addresses and the dates each will move to the 14th floor of the First National Bank Building are as follows:

- Board Present Address Moving date
- No. 1 530 Insur. Bldg. Feb. 26
- No. 2 503 Omaha Loan & Bldg. Feb. 26
- No. 3 Fontenelle Hotel Feb. 27
- No. 4 Southside City hall Feb. 24
- No. 5 705 Omaha National Bank Feb. 27
- No. 6 1217 First National bank

- Feb. 24 Mrs. Adam Marshall, of Port Gibson, died in a Jackson hospital from gunshot wounds inflicted by the white man on December 26. He was shot in Port Gibson Christmas day while visiting parents on an overseas tour.
- Feb. 27 No. 7 719 Insurance building
- Feb. 27 No. 8 Benson Medical Center Feb. 26
- Feb. 27 No. 9 1140 First National bank

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardul is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1. Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
2. Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardul. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Like an eager dog on a leash, the train waits at the station—impatient to start its long transcontinental run. The carman swings his lantern from side to side above his head. There's a swish of air as the engineer sees the signal to "set 'em up." That's railroad language meaning "test air brakes"... one of the many Union Pacific safety operations.

Over its "strategic middle route," uniting the East with the Pacific Coast, Union Pacific transports thousands of service men and women.
