5,000 Women Invited To Describe Postwar World Ideas

Honor Mother's Special Day With This Magic Failure Proof Pie

MOTHER'S special day should be a challenge to daughter to take over culinary responsibilities. Even if the junior member of the family has a heavy school schedule or a full-time job, she can manage dinner with a glamorous dessert as a festive tribute. No matter how low the sugar ration may be, you can manage a luscious chocolate pie made with sweetened condensed milk and sugar that doesn't require one ounce of your precious sugar supply. It's a good treat, too, for amateur cooks to tackle; because, made with sweetened condensed milk, you can count on your chocolate pie being magically failure-proof, never too thick and never too thin, and there's only five minutes' cooking and just the double boiler to wash. Even teenagers can count on achieving a triumph this easy way. A crumb crust is a simple way to avoid the pitfalls of pie crust making.

As a special decoration, cut out letters of pastry, lightly brown in the oven, and place on your gift pie to form the word "Mother." Use a sharp knife and stiff paper patterns to form the letters.

Magic Chocolate Pie
2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
1 1/2 cups (15 oz.) can sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Baked pie shell (8-inch) or cookie crumb crust

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add water and salt. Stir until thoroughly blended. When cool, add vanilla. Pour into baked pie shell or cookie crumb crust. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

Chocolate Sponge Pie
2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
1 1/2 cups (15 oz.) can sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Baked pie shell (8-inch)

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes until mixture thickens. Add water, salt and slightly-beaten egg yolks. Stir until thoroughly blended. Remove from heat. When cool, add vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into baked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes. Serve warm or cold, with whipped cream, if desired.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE OF AUDIENCE REACTIONS SPONSORS LETTER WRITING CONTEST

A study in the form of a contest to help determine the kind of life American women most hope to achieve with the peace has been announced by the Women's Institute of Audience Reactions, 9 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, 20, N. Y. More than 5,000 members of the W. I. A. R. from all over the country are being given an opportunity to write a letter answering the question, "In what kind of Postwar World Would You Like to Live, and What Are Your Ideas for Getting It?" An exhaustive analysis will be made of the ideas submitted and the study will be presented to the proper governmental officials, in the hope that the postwar aims of the average American woman may thus be voiced at future peace tables.

Awards to the writers of the best letters will be War Bonds—a $100 Bond First Prize, a $50 Bond Second Prize, and a $25 Bond Third Prize. Five Dollars in War Stamps will also be awarded to each of 47 Honorary Mention winners. Since membership was the ability to express women from every walk of life and in every occupation, it is anticipated that contest entries will constitute a reliable picture of the post-war goals of American women in general.

The WIAR was established five years ago as a means for finding out what American women, as a whole, want—for themselves and for their families—in everything affecting their daily lives. So that the group would be truly articulate, the first requirement for membership was the ability to express ideas clearly. Five thousand members were then admitted on the basis of geographical location, occupation, age level, etc., to represent an accurate cross-section of American women's thinking.

To any mother with a baby, National Baby Week is one of, if not the most important of the "weeks" which we celebrate in this country. National Baby Week helps to focus attention on our babies, how very important they are to our happiness and the future of our country and also helps to call attention to the best ways of caring for and feeding these precious bundles—so dependent on us for their well being.

This might be an opportune time to review the principal changes in infant feeding practices which have been made in the last twenty years. Cod liver was started at two months of age; now it is begun in the first month. It was given only during winter when there is little sunshine. Now it is recommended all the year round. Not nearly as many babies received it then as now. Rickets was common, especially in cities; now it is a rare disease.

Babies on breast milk or raw milk were not given orange juice until the seventh or eighth month; now all babies are started any time after the second or third week. As a result there is now only an occasional case of scurvy. Safe milk—pasteurized, certified, evaporated or dried, has largely eliminated "summer complaint."

Twenty years ago beef juice was thought to have high values in the prevention of anemia and was begun at nine or ten months of age. Now special baby cereals fortified with iron are started around three months and we do not have the cases of anemia at five and six months which were common.

At nine or ten months, the following foods could be added: half of an egg, toast or crackers, well-cooked and strained cereals and strained vegetables. Nowadays all of these foods are in baby's menu before he is six months old, just because babies were found to do better as solid foods were introduced earlier and earlier.

FIRE PREVENTION

The American Red Cross is preparing to assist the U. S. Forest Service in a nationwide fire prevention program to combat a 10 year average throughout the United States of 226,000 forest fires annually. Of the past 10 months' 200 disasters to which Red Cross rushed aid, a major portion included serious fires.

Your Home

If you were to replace your present coal-burning furnace with the postwar model of a leading manufacturer you would find that it saved you a great deal of fuel. The principal reason for this saving would be that the special design of the new furnace is sootless in the sense that it burns up all the soot along with the coal so that there is none to deposit within the furnace.

This new furnace is now available for replacing worn out furnaces beyond repair, and the many thousand who have thus qualified report almost unbelievable fuel savings. A nation-wide survey recently conducted shows that, despite experiencing the most severe type of winter, the new furnaces burned far less coal than previously, and kept the homes warmer.

This indicates that the soot which collects in the old-type furnaces is the villain which steals the coal. No matter how good the condition of your furnace, if its radiator becomes insulated through the deposit of flaky carbon black (soot), then it necessarily requires more fuel in order to keep your home warm. An annual desoiling of the furnace is unquestionably the most effective way of conserving on coal. It should be done before the heating season begins.
