E. S. A.—I need your help badly. My husband died and left me with three boys ages 10, 7, and 4. My mother has them with her in the country so I could come to town and get a job to help her all I could. Here is my worry: I met a man here and he seems to love me. I have just found out that he has a wife and I am very much in love with him. I have tried to break away from him but it isn't as easy as that. Everytime I ask him to help me out when I am badly in need, he gets angry and stops coming to see me. Now he heard my boy friend from overseas was coming home and he wants to know what I am going to do? I told him I was going to marry the boy and he said I would not live a happy life with him. Now that has me worried and I want to know what to do because I love this man, more than the soldier who is coming home.

Ans: You are aware of the fact that the married man has no serious intentions and you are wasting your time going with him. If he loved you it would still be wrong to encourage him at all. Get him out of your mind and out of your life entirely before your friend from overseas returns. Pay no attention to the married man's prediction that you wouldn't find happiness... you can. However, if you allowed him to continue seeing you interfering in your life after your friend returns, it would certainly ruin your chances for happiness. But if you break away from him permanently right now, you need have no fears of the future.

M. D. H.—I am a girl of 20 and in the 11th grade of high school. I want to stop school and take up a beauty course. I know that I will get married in a few more months and I wish to know if school is more important than the course?

Ans: Finish your high school education regardless of what your future plans may be. If you do so, any course you may pursue will come easier to you and be more readily mastered. Upon finishing high school it would be perfectly all right for you to enroll in a course of this kind.

E. J.—I am married to a smart, industrious man and have been married a little over a year. My problem is that he is jealous and my life is miserable. I don't want to separate. Tell me if I am to change my natural pleasant and friendly ways as he is jealous of everyone I speak to. I pray and ask the Lord to guide me and help us both. We have a little house started and he's doing all the building and I work right with him. Yet he accuses me of different things of which I am innocent.

Ans: Many women would give their eye teeth to have their husbands show jealousy as your husband does. It's not too serious. He wants all of your attention and you should see that he gets plenty of it in the presence of others. Shower him with affection and have eyes for no one but him and watch him become reassured of your love.

A. M. M.—Give me your solution to my problems. I have been corresponding with a fellow overseas and in his letters he seems to care for me a great deal. He thinks that I love him but in my letters I haven't shown any signs of affection for him. The fellow that I love is here at home. He doesn't mind my corresponding with the soldier but he feels that when he returns I may forget him for this other fellow. I don't want to discourage my boy friend in any way by making him think this other fellow can come between us. Help me.

Ans: Honesty has been your policy in both cases. The soldier has not been led to believe that you were in love with or waiting for him. Your friend has been constantly aware of your friendly letters to the soldier. The friend at home hasn't talked to you of marriage and there fore you are not under obligation to him, it may prove to your advantage... he will have to commit himself or else withdraw from the game. You have been very fair with both men.

TEN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TEAMS MOBILIZE FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE—OCTOBER 23-26

E. F. AGEE

Ten generals and an army of nearly 500 workers are readying a campaign for a substantial increase in membership to assure the success of the Chamber's 10-point action program for 1945-46. Under the veteran leadership of E. F. Agee, three time chairman of Chamber membership drives, the prospects for a successful campaign are viewed with enthusiasm by officers and directors.

Originally scheduled for September, the Chamber's drive was postponed to October 23-26 to make way for the United War and Community Fund Campaign, now drawing to conclusion.

"The broadening of the membership base is important because it is vitality essential that more Omaha businessmen be personally identified with this program of civic advancement," Charles D. Saunders, Chamber president said today. "Omaha has great opportunities for progress and prosperity, but they cannot be realized unless we have united support of the forward looking businessmen of our city. The war's end erases all restrictions on progress, and failure to bring a united front to the accomplishment of our city plans will be an acknowledgement of lack of concern for Omaha's future. Omaha cannot stand still. We must go forward, which means that we must marshal all our civic and human resources behind a sustained program of community advancement."

Membership teams this year are the most complete and best organized ever to compete in a Chamber campaign, according to Chairman Agee, who is now putting final touches on the schedule of prizes and the point scoring system. The slogan for 1945, "A Passport to Progress—Your Membership Card in the Omaha Chamber of Commerce," is indicative of the underlying purpose of the campaign as well as of the Chamber's determination to reach new levels of civic service during the year ahead. The ten team leaders, who will head the membership-selling activities this year are: Carl W. Jensen, Lyle Remde, A. R. Roy, Fred L. Miller, Thomas Ashton, Fred G. Heimrod, Rudy Mueller, Ben H. Cowdery, Paul Echele, and H. W. Ahmanson.

GREAT NEWS FOR WOMEN WHO DOUCHE

Many Doctors today recommend the use of douches for women troubled with discharge ("the whites"), offending odor, and minor irritation—for women who want to be and feel refreshingly clean. And here's a product for the douche—Hospital tested, too, with splendid results—Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, made by the same great company that makes Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is gaining great favor today with women. It's mighty effective to cleanse, relieve offending odor, discharge and discomfort of minor irritation, yet it positively won't harm even the most delicate membranes or tissues. Inexpensive, too. Any drug store.
