Fundamentals Needed In Postwar Education

Courses Must Be Centered Around Core of Subjects Stressing Human Relations; Physical Build-up Also Important.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

(This is the second of two articles on the "new reconversion," this one in education.)

In a previous column I laid before you the vital need of reconverting our educational system if America is going to meet the challenge of other ideologies to the faith in our democratic institutions. I pointed out how poorly many of our occupation forces are testifying to their democratic convictions in the face of the mentality of our former enemies.

I took you into the office of Commissioner of Education John Studebaker who pointed out to me how reconverting educationally is as important as reconverting industrially if we are going to meet the problems of the day. Dr. Studebaker said that this could be achieved by making a solid core of education available to all. Such a core would be composed of certain basic studies which educators believe are essential to a solidarity of democratic thought. The commissioner of education sees this core as a reinforcement of mental in the moral structure of the nation.

When you talk about making this core available to all, that is not the complete picture. Men like Doctor Studebaker would have this group of basic studies required of all students, not just made available to them. And thereby, say the traditionalists, hangs a threat to the elective system under which many institutions of learning have been comfortably educating students. Under the system of free choice, College Joe and College Jane could pick the courses their hearts desired. If their hearts desired a little extra sleep in the morning, they could pick classes that would not require early rising. If extra-curricular activities were particularly heavy one semester, they did not have to take economics which was hard when Turkish architecture was a snap.

Too many students have been coming out of our institutions of learning without a basic concept of what our democracy is all about, say the educators who are crying for reconversion. If they don't select the courses that will give them that concept, they must be required to take them, these same men say—the future of our way of life is at stake.

Education Vital Force in State

It is a well-known fact that before the Nazis ever dreamed of world conquest they first restrained by force, those who were too old or too wise to accept Nazi indoctrination. The more malleable minds of the young were filled with the false doctrines of subordination to the state, race hatred and exaltation of might. Their other anti-democratic and anti-Christian principles were poured into the youth until there was produced a state in which the controlling element of the population was fanatically loyal to Nazism.

Democracy and Christian principles once instilled can produce just as strong a loyalty, just as enduring a faith, but there is a minimum of instruction in their true meaning that must be made available to everyone—more than that, that should be required study of everyone who would be a good citizen. This is the first way in which the destructive forces which are working against democracy can be arrested.

And so Doctor Studebaker presents the idea of a "core" around which can be built an understanding of the whole democratic system; how its parts can be fitted into one another and into a world which must either be closely integrated or explosively antagonistic.

There is not space here to consider the details of the composition of this core. Two examples of the type of studies which Doctor Studebaker feels are essential, and which must be taught much more comprehensively and for a longer period than they are now, was given in the first article. They are economics and geography. There are basic understandings and skills in the field of language. By that the commissioner means the channels by which we communicate and are communicated with—reading, writing, listening, speaking. Since radio broadcasts are heard daily by multiplied millions, critical listening should be a vital part of the basic educational program.

Since freedom of expression is an essential attribute of a democracy, citizens need to develop critical thinking in order to evaluate the powerful influence of communication and propaganda constantly brought to bear on them.

War Exposes Academic Weaknesses

During the war, certain major weaknesses in our educational system were bluntly exposed. Total rejections in the war for physical, psychiatric and educational reasons have been almost as numerous as the number of men who served in the army overseas. We may or may not need our young men to fight another war, but regardless of this, we need to improve school programs of health and physical education, including the early discovery of remediable defects to be corrected by family physicians and public health agencies. A nation that would be strong, must be strong physically.

Military authorities have also found a major weakness in the work of the schools in the failure to require older students to carry mathematics to the point of practical mastery. The natural sciences gained a larger place in the field of education during the war, and they should continue to do so, according to Commissioner Studebaker. No adequate understanding of our civilization is possible without considerable knowledge of them. Moreover, many careers in trade, technical, professional and scientific pursuits, whether of industry, business or agriculture, are handicapped without a thorough scientific groundwork, laid in the elementary and secondary schools and for many, continued in the colleges and universities.

But one of the most basic segments of the core, in the opinion of Dr. Studebaker, should be made up of the social studies. It is upon this group that we have leaned most heavily in training for responsible citizenship—and this must continue. History and the other social studies are essential to the grounding of our citizens in the American tradition of political liberty, a knowledge of the structure of our republican form of government, and a firm attachment to the democratic faith, Doctor Studebaker says.

I said that it is the belief of important educators that a core of this type must become a "must" in the curricula of the nation, thereby casting overboard the traditional elective system whereby a student is given pretty much free choice in what he will study. This new approach is emphasized in one of the most widely quoted documents of recent publication, the Harvard study entitled, "General Education in a Free Society." This work has started a number of people coming as it does from the institution that saw the elective system reach its most extreme form, for it recommends the abandonment of that system. In this document, the chief priest of the elective system points out the weaknesses of that long-cherished method.

Of course, it is one thing to set up curricula that will insure that fact that those attending school will get the basic studies. It is another to see that these required subjects are made available to all. Is it possible to produce and democratically distribute this basic core to all America?

Not yet. That is another must in the new reconversion. The expenditures now made on this price-less commodity are inadequate. But I am not dealing here with the finances of education. That is a subject in itself. Suffice it to say that even with greater funds this product, as blue-printed by the experts, cannot be produced in the existing plants any more than the peacetime models and types of industrial commodities can be produced by machines equipped for war production. Nor is the personnel and the training of that personnel adequate.

Pops Miller takes Gene Burton to the Top!

New York, New York (Special by Lou Swarz). Gene Burton, very promising young crack lightweight fighter, is fast going to the Top of the ladder in the Flat world under the careful guidance of Pops Miller. Pops is well known in the Sports Whirl, having been tutor of Ray Robinson, and having handled the late Tickers Flowers, middle-weight champ of the world; and also having assisted Beau Jack who at one time was light weight champ of the world.

Gene won a decision over Doll Rafferty recently at the Garden in Pittsburgh; boxed a Draw with Sammy Angott, former NBA, lightweight Champ also in Pittsburgh; and although lost a close decision to Ike Williams present NBA lightweight Champ title holder, was praised by the critics who witnessed the bout. Several critics stated that the fight should have been Burton's, and that he had made the look like a chump instead of a champ.

Pops Miller, manager and trainer of Gene says, "Gene is ready to compete with any crack lightweight here in Madison Square Garden and we are waiting patiently because he has plenty of time." In a conversation with Wanda Macy, young actress and dancer, both Pops Miller and his fighter, Gene Burton, made it very clear that nothing will stand in the way of this young (21 year old) promising fighter's going to the top. His next fight is scheduled for Pittsburgh where fight fans anxiously await his return, and show him that he is their favorite.

November 17, from 8 am, to 3 pm, for public inspection at the CB&Q railroad station.

A second train is scheduled for three later Nebraska showings, at North Platte on December 8, Grand Island, December 9; and Omaha, December 10, for all-day exhibit. All will be free to public inspection. All military personnel on the trains are returned combat veterans who have volunteered for this service. The crew consists of 25 officers and petty officers representing Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard.

The Navy's "Gold Train" will be on exhibit in Lincoln; its "Blue Train" will make the later Nebraska showings. While the trains are similar in most respects, the "Gold Train" features a five-inch naval gun from the USS Tirante, a submarine, that had an outstanding record in two fighting tours in the Pacific war; the "Blue Train" carries the four-inch gun from the USS WARD. Both carry an exact replica of the bronze plaque placed aboard the USS MISSOURI's deck, commemorating Japan's surrender. Flat cars, joined together so that their outline presents the appearance of a submarine will carry the exhibits. The exact model of the gun that soht down 32 Jap planes in 30 minutes, will provide special interest to visitors to the Navy Victory Loan Specials. Other highlights of the exhibit include the Grumman Hellcat, carrier-based Navy fighter plane, and a line up of naval ammunition from the full-size submarine torpedo and huge sixteen-inch shells down to the smallest caliber ammunition.

The complete show is a rolling demonstration of the might of the United States Navy, conveying to visitors of the two trains an understanding of how their purchase of Victory Bonds make possible the life and equipment of this branch of the military services.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardul is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

- 1-Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
- 2-Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardul. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.
