Dream Rival

By RAE RESNICK McClure Newspaper Synd.cate.

DISGUSTED with his own cooking, George angrily pushed his chair back with his foot. If only Anna weren't such a strange little foreigner, he thought impatiently, his meals wouldn't be so tasteless, and the burden of keeping house, in addition to many of the farm chores, would fall on her instead of

With the odor of the barn still clinging to his clothes, he walked the short distance to the next farm to see Anna and speak to her cousin. Without knocking, he went into the

The woman looked up from her mending indifferently, as if his visits were too frequent for him to be considered a guest, "Hello, George, You'll find Anna in the kitchen." "Have you spoken to her yet, Mrs. he asked.

"Well," Mrs. Laud said slowly, "I tried to, only she didn't seem to know what I was getting at." She paused thoughtfully, "Seemed more that she pretended not to." "I see," he said wearily.

"I did tell her what a fine, honest man you are. But her only ambition right now is to visit a fortune teller." She laughed indulgently. "A fortune teller?"

"Yes. Can you imagine? She believes in them. You see, in Europe a gypsy once read her palm. And Anna said that everything came true. Of course, I imagine little Anna helped out a lot by twisting everything that happened to her into the shape of that faker's prediction."

They talked a while longer about Anna, who was only twelve when the Germans invaded her country, and how Mrs. Laud managed to get her to Canada. George had often heard the story before. Soon he went into the kitchen. He leaned against the wall, faded blue overalls sagging on his awkward thin frame; his long neck tipped forward, his blond, sundried hair hanging over dull blue

As Anna washed the dishes George could almost see the dreams in her large eyes-dreams of a modern knight riding in the wind with her, the long thick braids of her hair flying behind her. Her eyes sparkled. "I want see fortune teller." "What for?"

"I want find out who my husband be."

Suddenly he had an idea, and he was overwhelmed by his own cleverness. What had Mrs. Laud said a little while ago? "She believes in little Anna helped out a lot . . . she sure does swear by them now." His red face brightened with enthusiasm. After all, he thought, they would probably be married some day, anyway. No harm in hurrying things up a bit. "There's an amusement park fifteen miles from here," he told her.

On the bus Anna sat quietly in anticipation. George saw her lower her wide eyes modestly when she noticed the men staring at her shy loveliness. Failing to escape their glances, she took a white handkerchief out of her pocket and wiped away the lipstick with which her cousin had touched her mouth. "Maybe they don't look now," she whispered to George. Naive. Thank heaven she was, he thought. For his plans were all the likelier to suc-

At the park she walked close to him, asking every few minutes where the fortune teller was located. They came to a row of booths under a huge awning and he bought a ticket. "Wait here a minute," he said. "I'll be back soon."

He told the fortune teller to describe him to Anna when she asked about her future husband. He handed her some money. "Don't forget Tall man, blond hair, blue eyes.' Then he went out. "You can go in now." he told Anna.

While waiting for her, he laugned Anna wouldn't doubt the oracle for a minute, he thought, amused. When she came out, she looked as if she were in a trance. Her large shining eyes were focused straight ahead. He fell into step beside her. "Well. what did she say?"

"Oh, she say wonderful things. She say I marry tall man. He have blue eyes with blond hair. And he be very good to me. I know he be the handsomest man in the world. And I wait for him," she said softly "I wait for him forever"

Youngsters' Party Delight-Ice Cream Clowns (See Recipes Below)

Children's Party

How long since the youngsters had a party of their own? It doesn't have to be birthday time to celebrate, because parties for the younger set are fun to have, and essential for developing social Parties like this are easy on mother because refreshments must necessarily be simple. A little imagination and flair for decoration will do the rest.

Good wholesome food prepared attractively will go a long way toward | dren's parties. This one will be high satisfying the little guests. Add a in favor: few gay tablecloths and napkins, some easy but exciting games and you have all the ingredients for a successful party.

If you are serving sandwiches, cut them into shapes with animal cutters. A cool glass of milk, or hot chocolate with a frothy blob of whipped cream-now returned to the grocery shelves-will bring forth cheers from Jimmy's or Joan's friends The favorite dessert is cake or cookies with ice cream of course! Anything you can do to make this latter partyfied will all be on the credit side of the party. Now that cheese and meat are easier to obtain, you can again have fun with sandwiches. Not too much seasoning, though, because youngsters' stomachs are sensitive. Here are some good suggestions:

Bologna Filling. (Makes 15 to 20 sandwiches)

1 pound bologna

the prices of bottled domestic wine and bulk wine are below ceiling, OPA said.

The lower prices are attributed to a 25 percent increase in production of wine during 1945 and to a reduction of more than 50 percent in the cost of grapes, compared to last year, due to a large grape crop. Discontinuance of the compulsory raisin drying program and the threat of losses from unseasonable rains has resulted in a larger quantity of grapes being diverted to win-eries than usual.

Just exactly how much food your baby should eat will need to be decided by your baby and your doctor. Not that he will eat the same amount every day, but he probably won't vary the size of his meals very much, unless there is some reason why he is especially hungry or why he doesn't want so much as usual.

Most eating difficulties are quite apt to develop when baby refuses to eat as much as you think he should. He will doubtless make up the unwanted food is removed, he will soon learn that eating must be done at mealtimes, or he gets
