I charge any economist of the old or new schools to show that we can meet this staggering debt in any other way, on the one hand, than by continuing borrowing, repudiation, cancellation, further devaluation of the do lar, crushing taxation, nationalization of business and industry, all of which ultimately lead to national bankruptcy,-or, on the other hand, by self-denial, self sacrifice, hard work, long labor, and gradual repayment by the strictest economy.

If this country is to retain its promise of blessing the churches must lead in the return to God. It has been estimated that within the next ten years almost a billion dollars will be spent in our country for new churches. But will the clergy and the congregations in these new buildings be ready to pay the price of remaining loyal to Christ? Are they willing to face the opposition of so-cailed liberal leaders who deny the divine word and reject the Redeemer? Are they strong enough to face the ridicule which the world heaps on those who have no message but sin and grace, no guide except the Gospel, no hope but Christ?"

Will the American people? Not unless God is abundantly merciful to us, and we humble ourselves in deep soul contribution. Indeed, masses in the nation are so utterly indifferent to Christ, so totally opposed to His Cross, so compleetly consumed by their own selfishness, lust, love of luxury, mania for money that they will not pay the price of humility, repentence, full surrender to God. It may be necessary for the Almighty to cut off the steady flow of blessings this nation has enjoyed."
