

The STREET and thereabouts - by LAWRENCE P. LEWIS

Swearing is bad for the little children who look up to us, as to what they would like to be like, when they grow up...

CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR FIRST ANNIVERSARY. I stopped by the Modernistic Beauty Salon, 2422 Grant to interview a young and surely outstanding woman...

Miss Hawkins didn't hesitate when I asked, "It is something that I have always dreamed about. It has been possible only by the many women who bring their business to the Modernistic Beauty Salon."

"How many operators, besides yourself, are employed here?" I asked. "I have two now," she answered as she introduced me to Mrs. Marie Robinson and Mrs. Cristel Jackson...

I overheard a conversation of two men talking about the Blue Room on 24th and Lake, and both of them were wondering why it hadn't opened. To tell the truth I was wondering myself.

The other night, Mr. McGill, took Sherman Higgins and I into the newly decorated Blue Room, and unless you have had the opportunity to see it, you can hardly believe it. The Blue Room has been completely redecorated, and other time has it looked so inviting for a night of dancing and pleasure.

"A vote for Galloway is a vote for what?" I asked. "Come on, you look well over 21, and I'll give you one of his cards, an attractive young lady answered. "That you look well over 21," didn't take so good, but I knew she was mostly right, so I ventured into the "Galloway for Senator Headquarters."

SOLOMON HUGHES WINS DES MOINES GOLF TOURNAMENT. Won Joe Louis Tournament in '45.

On a rainy Memorial Day and the tricky Woodside Golf Course at Des Moines, Iowa, was the scene of the first post war Des Moines Open Golf Tournament, a tournament put on by the Valley Golf Club of Des Moines since 1932. In the top spot with 109 strokes for the 27 hole tourney was Solomon Hughes, winner of the 1945 Joe Louis Open, who hails from Minneapolis, Minnesota. Hughes who won the third high ranking Negro Golf Tournament in the nation, led all the way in spite of the fact that he had a 5 over par 41 for the first nine; however, on the closing nine, he scored a blazing 3 under par 32. His nearest competitor with 117 strokes was John Estes from Des Moines, followed by Jack Howard of Los Angeles, Calif., the defending champion. Competing among the 35 entries was Leroy Doty, 1942 Des Moines Open Winner of Kansas City, Mo., Charles P. Howard, three times winner of the Central States Golf Tournament, 1932, 1933, 1934; and Des Moines Open Champion of 1938 and 1939. Lonnie Thomas, Omaha, Central States Champion of 1943.

ON PERFECTION

By Ruth Taylor

I don't know how you feel about it, but I'm fed up with this talk about "You can't have perfection." "You must compromise."

When you went to school were you supposed to be satisfied with getting just a passing grade? You were not! At least if your family were like mine you weren't.

OUR GUEST Column

Edited by Verna P. Harris. IT HAPPENED TO YOU. By Brig. Gen. H. C. Holdridge, U. S. A. Retired.

Note to Readers: Brig. General H. C. Holdridge, USA Retired, a West Point graduate, has recently retired after thirty years of active Army service. As Legislative Representative of the Veterans League of America and a member of the National Advisory Committee of the Workers Defense League, he has been a leader in the fight against injustice in and out of the Army.

A friends of mine recently wrote an Army chaplain in France inquiring for the address of the family of a man believed to have been unjustly court-martialed. The chaplain replied "Frankly, I find somewhat incomprehensible your interest in the case without any knowledge of the whereabouts of the man's family."

Frankly, I find the chaplain's reply incomprehensible. Our range of interest will be indeed small if we are only concerned for the welfare of those who we know or with those families we are acquainted. Our interest will be even smaller, in fact, that they will not even comprehend our own self-interest.

In a democracy, an injustice done to anyone is an injustice done to all. Injustice cannot be segregated. If it happens to a Jewish soldier in the country of France, it affects a Negro sharecropper in Arkansas. And if it happens to a sharecropper, it affects a white worker in Detroit. That is the way injustice works. Like a public cast into the water, a single injustice sends out waves in ever-widening circles until the whole country feels the impact.

That is why Tee Davis, the Arkansas sharecropper, is important. That is why we cannot let Governor Ben Laney of Arkansas rest until he has corrected this wrong his State has done. Here is how Lillian Smith, author of the best seller, 'Strange Fruit,' tells the story.

"One night, Tee Davis, a black man, refused to open the door of his little shack when a white man kicked the door and yelled at him to open up. Instead Davis, afraid of thieves, picked up his shotgun, aimed it at the bottom of the door and fired. No one was hurt. But the voice ordering him to open the door belonged to a white sheriff and though he had no warrant and had not said that he was the sheriff, he arrested Tee Davis. The white plantation owners saw to it that the black man was sentenced to ten years in prison."

And Tee Davis will have to spend the full ten years in that Prison Camp unless YOU and I, and other freedom loving Americans write to Governor Ben Laney at Little Rock, Arkansas, insisting that Tee Davis gets the same kind of justice he would have gotten

If he were white, if Tee Davis is freed it will not be as easy next time to put a man in jail and keep him there just because he doesn't do what a white man wants.

Often we scarcely feel the almost imperceptible ripple sent out by an injustice thousands of miles away, because our personal small daily injustices numb us to a distant blow. But if we let attacks on human liberty go unheeded, they will come more frequently and more viciously.

During the long centuries of the Negro's struggle against injustice in the forms of constitutions and laws, behind which he can find personal security. Once those defenses are breached, all security for everyone is jeopardized. We dare not acquiesce in a single violation of the safeguards established by the framers of our Constitution, for all our security, when an injustice is done, it happened to YOU.

Logan Wins McMillan Writers' Award

"If the recent war is not to have been fought in vain," says Spencer Logan, author of the prize winning book A NEGRO'S FAITH IN AMERICA, "then America must assume world leadership in the cause of democracy. And democracy, if it is to be real must be more than an ideal or a theory. It must become a way of life for all its citizens... I am a Negro American... All my life I have wanted to be an American."

A NEGRO'S FAITH IN AMERICA, winner of the $2,500 MacMillan Centenary Award for non-fiction, is published today by the MacMillan Company, New York. The awards, which marked the publishing firm's centenary, were open to American citizens serving in any branch of the Armed Forces of the United Nations, and manuscripts in competition were received from all over the world.

Sergeant Spencer Logan was born in Elizabeth, New Jersey in 1911. He was president of his sophomore class in high school, a member of the track team, and editor of the school paper. After graduation, he worked for an ice cream company to finance a year at Rutgers University. Much of his leisure he spent in group work with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

MAYS IS FEATURED IN "LOOK" MAGAZINE FORUM. In the May 28 issue of 'Look' Magazine, President Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College is one of the participants in the 'Look' Forum, conducted by William Kosta for the Editors of this publication.

The weeks Forum discussion is "What is the Greatest Lack in our American School Systems?" President Mays' statement follows: "The greatest lack in the school systems of America is the lack of a deliberate plan to create a situation that furthers rather than retards the realization of the democratic ideal. Germany developed Nazism and Russia, socialism through force, but in each case, the development was according to plan."

During the long centuries of the Negro's struggle against injustice in the forms of constitutions and laws, behind which he can find personal security. Once those defenses are breached, all security for everyone is jeopardized. We dare not acquiesce in a single violation of the safeguards established by the framers of our Constitution, for all our security, when an injustice is done, it happened to YOU.

Fight to Save Porters' Jobs on Denver-Rio Grand R.R.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The management of the Denver, Colo and Rio Grande Western Railroad, whose headquarters is in Denver during the early part of May fired all of its chair car porters alleging as a reason the necessity for making economies. This arbitrary action was taken while the negotiation of the agreement for this class of employees was in process by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, following certification as the duly authorized bargaining agent by the National Mediation Board, stated A. Philip Randolph International President. Mr. Randolph contends that the case is an outrageous act of discrimination against the chair car porters for them to be the chief victims of the company's so-called policy of economy, and he has demanded the reinstatement of the employees. The Fight for Fepec. NEW YORK CITY—It was pointed out by Mr. A. Philip Randolph, Co-Chairman of the National Council for a Permanent FEPEC that the fight for the pending bills in Congress for a permanent FEPEC is going on whether any favorable action is taken in this Congress or not. The forces of public opinion are being mobilized throughout the nation back of this fight, with a view to securing the enactment of legislation for a permanent Fair

Employment Practice Committee in the 80th Congress when it convenes in January, observed Randolph. In fact, he indicated that the fight had just begun. All of the minorities, as well as the members of the majority in the nation, will be marshalled in a crusade to eliminate discrimination in employment relations against Jews, Catholics, Negroes, Mexicans and Japanese-Americans concluded Mr. Randolph.
