Famous Gas Engineer Recommends FULL NATURAL GAS Service for Omaha

The necessity for increasing Omaha's gas supply is urgent. In its search for the most economical and practical method of increasing gas service, the Metropolitan Utilities District retained one of the foremost Gas Engineers of the country, Mr. Charles R. Bellamy of New York, to make a study of local conditions and advise the District and the people of Omaha. His recommendations and views can be depended upon to be impartial, and to represent the best technical knowledge available in the gas industry today. As a matter of public information, the Utilities District publishes here extracts from his official report made to the Board of Directors of the District on Sept. 4.

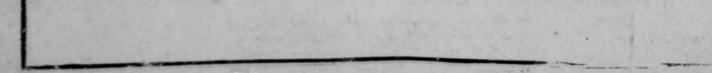

Which Is Better . . . Mixed Or Straight Natural Gas?

It is my recommendation that the Metropolitan Utilities District convert their gas operation to 100 per cent natural gas service this coming summer or as soon as the conversion can be properly made.

The only advantage that I can find for 800 B.t.u. gas over straight natural gas in Omaha is its lower conversion cost. This, however, would probably be only a temporary advantage for sooner or later I believe you will want 100 per cent natural gas and the combined cost of changing now to 800 B.t.u. gas and later from 800 B.t.u. to straight natural would be considerable more than the cost of converting directly from 800 B.t.u. to straight natural gas service. Under Omaha's conditions I find that straight natural gas service would be superior to 800 B.t.u. gas in both of the above respects, and therefore believe that this type of service is in the very best interests of both the Utility and the general public.

Complete Conversion Next Summer If Possible

Every effort should be made, I believe, to convert your system to natural gas next summer. Due, however, to the rather unsatisfactory general conditions that exist today, it may not be possible to do the complete job in one summer. There are a number of uncertainties which everyone

ALPHA OMEGA CLUB

Time now space does not permit an accurate or complete survey of the activities and fun sponsored by the Alpha Omega club during the summer months. To name only a few: a dude ranch tacky party with all the members in their most tack attire; a fine wicker roast at Mandin ranch including singing, games and plenty of good food; all get-togethers; Fourth of July picnic; Labor Day picnic; and oh yes a kiddie party where all the gals turned the clock back a couple (couple that is) of years to the time when pig tails were the limit and dresses were only so long (short).

At this point, don't feel that Alpha Omega went out completely for fun and frolic, for such is not the case. As an educational project a special program was given including talent from the club and a wonderful travlogue by Dr. Aaron McMillan. Refreshments were served following the program. Further, do not forget the spiritual side, the club attended Salem Baptist church in a body Sunday Sept. 15.

The club ended their summer follies with a dance at the Near Northside YMCA Tuesday, Sept. 10. The ballroom was decorated very attractively in pink and black with a large sack suspended from the ceiling containing balloons of assorted colors. The highlight of the evening was about 11:00 pm. when the balloons were released by someone in the crowd of people who were ulling unmercifully at the cord on the balloon bag.

Thus, the end of a perfect summer with plenty of fun; so back to school and books until next summer when we hope to have still more fun.

Miss Florentine Goodlett is the president of this fine group of more than thirty college boys and girls. In her usual coy manner she states that leadership with such a swell following is simply WONDERFUL.

TO DES MOINES

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Russell of 2801 Ohio, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson of 2719 Maple St., to Des Moines, last week end.

Miss A. Dotson, laboratory dietitian at the Douglas hospital, Kansas City, Kansas, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dotson 2213 Miami St. until Sept. 26.

Mr. S. L. Patton of Oakland, California was a very pleasant caller at the Omaha Guide office on Tuesday afternoon Sept. 17. Mr. Patton has visited in Michigan, Indianapolis, Chicago and his old home in Topeka, Kansas. He lived in Omaha at one time.

"The Whole Town's Talking"

By Lawrence P. Lewis

COMMAND PERFORMANCE

The Omaha Sepia Players have begun rehearsal on their hit play "The Whole Town's Talking". So many have asked the Omaha Sepia Players to replay this play, and in order to satisfy the many who desire to attend it will be replayed at the Urban League on the 8th and 9th of October.

All of the same cast who performed in this extreme comedy will be back and will play their respective characters. All of them are eager and ready to begin serious rehearsal.

Only a limited number will be able to attend because of the small seating capacity. Tickets will go on sale this week and may be purchased from any member of the cast.

If you wish to see one of the finest performances of the Omaha Sepia Players, don't miss this play. It will keep you laughing and in suspense all through the play. So plan to attend now and buy your tickets early.

MRS. LULA BRYANT GIVES GOSPEL PROGRAM

Mrs. Lula Bryant of 2702 Erskine St., national gospel singer, gave a gospel program at the Burns Methodist church Sunday night September 15 at Des Moines, Iowa. Mrs. Bryant was assisted with the program by her children, a piano solo by Arthur Bryant and directed by Dorothy and Nancy Bryant.

Accompanying Mrs. Bryant and her children was Mrs. Lucille Donaldson of 2616 Corby St. While in Des Moines they were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. James New given for the guests by Mrs. M. Carson, 964 West 23 St.

All the guests reported having a wonderful time.

In Art Competition Negro Refused Scholarship

NEW YORK—When young Jas. W. Anderson, of Cleveland, O., was informed that he had won second prize in the 11th Annual National high school Competition of drawings and paintings conducted by the Kansas City art institute and school of design he had to pinch himself. It seemed almost too good to be true.

The prize he had won was a half year scholarship to the Art Institute. Jim's dreams of truly becoming an artist seemed about to be realized. Subsequent letters from the Institute stated that all arrangements were being made for his admission and James was congratulated and feted by his friends and family.

That his rejoicing was premature was painfully obvious when, a month later, Jim received a letter from the Manager of the Institute telling him that the school had just learned he was a Negro and would therefore be unable to accept him as a student in view of the fact that Missouri was a border state with strong southern tendencies.

Jim was disconsolate. He had been so set on going on with his studies. He decided to write the school and ask them for the cash equivalent of the half-year scholarship so that he could try to get the training he so desired at a less pretentious school. He was somewhat taken aback when he was informed that this impossible, as scholarships were never given in cash in view of the fact that all scholarship awards made through the Competition were donated by Kansas City business firms, which carefully watched the procedure.

Anderson worthily received a letter from the school, informing him that the authorities had agreed to make a special dispensation in his case and awarding him the money equivalent of the half year scholarship on the condition that it be used to enter some other school of art. A check for $112.50 was enclosed.

James Anderson wrote to the NAACP with a warm letter of his appreciation. Mr. Anderson's letter was received by the NAACP on Sept. 19. Mr. Anderson's letter was received by the NAACP on Sept. 19. Mr. Anderson's letter was received by the NAACP on Sept. 19.

At that point, Anderson wrote to the NAACP, requesting that it intervene in his behalf. On August 27th, Assistant Special Counsel, Robert L. Carter, wrote to the Art Institute's director, reviewing the sequence of events which had taken place between Anderson and the school and concluding "it is our impression that by June 21st it was too late a date for you to refuse Mr. Anderson his scholarship which you had already awarded continuing upon his acceptance". Mr. Carter requested that the NAACP be informed of the school's plans with reference to James Anderson so that he could be advised as to how to proceed.

Althouse Beauty School News

We are very glad to have one of our former students back in school. Miss Betty Bryant who recently returned from Lincoln.

The girls of Althouse Beauty School have to be on their "Ps and Qs" since there are two new girls now enrolled. Not only that they are stiff competition. They are Mr. Eddy Smith and Mr. Herbert Mason.

Quite a riot was made in the school last week preparing one of our students, Mrs. Jewell Palmer, in Chicago. For the week-end facial, arlo, hair style, manicure, and even a pedicure. We really had to put our best foot forward. Mrs. Palmer went to Chicago to take part in her club's annual skating ball held at the Savoy ballroom in Chicago. Mrs. Palmer is an excellent skater.

NAACP CHARTERS 35 NEW BRANCHES

NEW YORK—As the Negro people throughout the country become increasingly alert to the importance of a strong drive against mob violence, civil rights violations and heedless discrimination, the ranks of the NAACP have swelled to over 500,000 members. At the September 9th meeting of the NAACP National Board of Directors, Gloster E. Current reports, charters were granted to 35 new branches. This brings up the total of NAACP branches in active operation to 1,149.

The operations of the committee will henceforth be carried on by the USO Program Committee. USO will continue to serve cadet nurses in hospitals, service wives and several thousand Wacs and Waves who will remain on a war status until June 30, 1947. USO will remain in operation until the end of December of that year to which

A SOUND INVESTMENT IN OMAHA, YOUR MEMBERSHIP IN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—OMAHA

The Chamber of Commerce membership drive is ready to swing under way. Starting on September 24th and running through the 27th the drive's goal is 2500 new members.

Ten teams composed of more than 400 Omaha businessmen will be at work selling prospective members on the Chamber of Commerce and through the Chamber, on Omaha.

"Omaha businessmen have every thing to gain when they belong to their Chamber of Commerce," drive chairman Al Adams stated. "It is an organization composed of businessmen who have the purpose and goals of making Omaha a better city in every way."

"A membership in the Omaha Chamber of Commerce is truly a sound investment. Daily activities of the Chamber help Omaha pay-rolls, business, and employment to continue to increase."
