PROBLEMS OF HUMANITY

A HUMAN RELATION COLUMN WHEREIN THE TROUBLED IN MIND AND HEART CAN SEEK COUNSEL AND GUIDANCE

Don't worry needlessly... when your mind is weighted down with worry...

E. M. M.—My boyfriend has another girl too. I'm wondering if he cares very deeply for me as he claims? Am I making a mistake in phoning him?
Ans: You would profit more by flaunting a new boy friend in his face than worrying him to death with your phone calls. Men still like to consider themselves the pursuers. It flatters their ego temporarily for a gal to phone them, but it soon grows tiresome. Don't keep it up.

C. B.—Shall I be his girl friend in the manner he frequently asks?
Ans: No, not on his terms. He's interested in you for one thing... a purely selfish reason. There is no deep devotion on his part he would have you believe.

C. R.—Tell me if the man I'm with loves me? I try hard to please him and it may be my fault. He promised to marry me but each time he puts it off. Sometimes I feel as if he hates me. What's wrong?
Ans: You put the cart before the horse.

M. M. C.—I would appreciate your advice very much. I have a child 2 years old, I'm married 20 and live at home. My mother will not keep my child while I work and doesn't want his grandparents to keep him, but still she tells me that I have to pay board. The father of the baby supports him. We do not agree or get along. I feel it would be a big mistake to marry him. I wish to know if I should continue staying at home and being unhappy or take my baby to his grandparents and get me a room and go to work?

M. M. C.—You need to go to work but you must make some satisfactory arrangement for the care of the child before you can do so. If your mother cannot assume this responsibility, you must employ someone to look after your child. It would be best for you to continue living at home if possible so your mother could supervise the

W. R. C.—I got so disillusioned here lately. Tell me it is worth the sacrifice I am making to send my son to school and to the music classes he is attending? My new friend says it is a waste of time.
Ans: The welfare of your son should be your first consideration. It is certainly not a waste of time and money as long as he absorbs what he is taught. Prepare him to the best of your ability to meet the future and do not think of what you are doing in terms of sacrifice. It's to your interest as well as his that he make good and succeeds in life.

B. N. J.—I have been married 6 years. Two years ago Christmas a young man came to our neighborhood on a visit and I met him one time. I believe I fell in love with him as I dream of the man all of the time and he is constantly on my mind. My husband is a good man but he drinks a little but what I want to know is does this man love me as much as I love him?
Ans: To be painfully frank, he hasn't given you a second thought. You are making yourself perfectly miserable by harboring dreams of this young man. Turn a little of this emotion into excess your husband's way and the results will be most gratifying. You'll forget the guy too.

NEW YORK—Sentimental sucker that I am, nothing quite so symbolizes the city's tragedy to me as a lost, homeless dog.
Saw one the other day, a thin and dazed little brown mutt, dodging through the thundering traffic—seeking among all the millions just the one person he loved.
Hundreds of unfamiliar legs churned past him; lucky dogs on their leashes snarled at his timid approach—tail dragging, the wanderer darted on in his hopeless quest. His end? Likely the pound.
The city's homeless cats fare better—cats always do, they'll scurry up to anyone who'll feed and shelter them. But where in this stony city is there a friendly back door where a lost dog can stop for a bone or a drink of water to sustain him in his search, a back yard where he can rest? ...
And nothing quite so like the 600 newspaper correspondents now quartered here from all corners of the globe to report the United Nations General Assembly meetings better symbolizes this town as the Capital of the World.

Get Together
By Ruth Taylor
"Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it." Wasn't that Mark Twain who wrote that? Well, I think we are getting just as bad about the future. I've listened to more depressing conversation lately about what is going to happen. I've heard more people who have more to say about how soon bad times are coming. But so far I haven't heard many constructive, cooperative plans to counteract it, other than government ones.
Oh, I know there are lots of people working to be sure that what hits won't hit them! But they do not seem to realize that individualism means individual effort, not individual indifference to one another.
We can either revert to a jungle existence and fight each other for what remains, or we can work together, pooling our resources, to expand production for all of us.
Collective prosperity is not divisible. Without cooperation or collaboration (I like that latter word best because it is co-labor) we cannot get anywhere. The best plans in the world won't work unless labor and management, small business and great corporations, farmer and worker, consumer and producer, government and private enterprise—whether that private enterprise be a business or a labor union—get together on the points they have in common, shelving their differences of method and developing a way of action that will bring prosperity to all.

"When Crew and Captain understand each other to the core, it takes a gale and more than a gale to put their ship ashore," so Kipling wrote.
We are faced with a storm. A storm in which false ideas, windstorms of terrific intensity will be let loose. Only if we have complete collaboration between all groups in this country can we weather the storm. We must recognize our common ideals, our common basis of moral and spiritual values, and from that basis work out our common destiny together.
PORTERS OF BROTHERHOOD WIN 1ST ROUND IN FIGHT WITH A. F. WHITNEY'S MEN
In a memorable decision handed down by Judge Albert L. Reeves in the District Court of the United States for the Western Division of the Western District at Kansas City, in a case of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, motion by the Brotherhood of Railway trainmen to dismiss a temporary restraining order which operates to hold train porters on their jobs, and motion of the Railroad to increase injunctive bond, were dismissed said A. Philip Randolph, International president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

In handing down the decision, Judge Reeves made the following statement:
"A valid and subsisting contract held by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, is admittedly threatened and it is not denied that they would suffer irreparable damage. In view of the admitted facts, the plaintiffs are not wrongfully enjoining the corporate defendant and the individual defendant. At this early stage of the proceedings, and upon the admitted facts, the plaintiffs have the undeniable rights to restrain the abrogation or breach of their contract and to restrain the individual defendants from endeavor to induce its abrogation or breach. Under such circumstances the plaintiffs ought not to be required to pledge additional security for damages that might and doubtless will accrue to the corporate defendant, but for which the plaintiffs would in no wise be responsible or at fault."

"In view of the above, the several motions to dismiss and dissolve the restraining order at this stage of the proceeding will be denied. Furthermore, the motion to increase the injunctive bond will be overruled."
RANDOLPH WARNS AFL AND CIO OF MINORITY UNITY
The recent victory, in the recent election, of many anti-labor Senators and Congressmen, Democratic and Republican, committed to the program of revising and emasculating the National Labor Relations Act, and other social and labor legislation for the progress and prosperity of workers and the people of the U. S. should be a lesson to the workers of this country to urge the unity of the AFL and the CIO in order to mobilize their full power to combat anti-labor and anti-progressive forces.

SQUIRE EDGEATE—Figure It Out Yourself—The Squire Is Right

MR. BORMAN—I NOTICE THAT YOU QUOTE A LOT OF SHAKESPEARE IN YOUR COURT ARGUMENTS.

HES MY FAVORITE AUTHOR SQUIRE

BUT DON'T YOU THINK IT IS A LITTLE FAR FETCHED TO KEEP TELLING US WHAT SHAKESPEARE SAID?

AND IF HE WERE HERE TODAY WOULD YOU FIND HIM TO BE A MOST REMARKABLE MAN?

YEP—HE'D BE REMARKABLE ALL RIGHT BECAUSE HE'D BE ABOUT 300 YEARS OLD NOW
