These dealers have come to know it is good business to avoid practices or conditions that could be objectionable to the public, and to guard against law infractions such as sales to minors or intoxicated persons, and to refuse to tolerate noisy or boisterous conduct.

By constantly improving their standards, these dealers have earned high rating with leaders in the beer industry-and with the public. It is their wellmerited reward.

These improved conditions are partly the result of the Nebraska Committee's program of Self-Regulation, now in its 9th year. This program is aimed at still further improvement. The Nebraska Committee solicits public cooperation to that end.
