S.—I am in love with the thing between us that keeps us from being as happy as we wish to be. I am a true wife and he is a true husband.

Ans: There's not enough color in your lives. You're sitting around doing nothing during your leisure hours and it's wearing on your nerves. You need more entertainment. Invite friends in at least once a week—join a club—take an active part in church work. These outlets will break the monotony and make life more pleasant for both of you.

C. H. W.—Tell me what to do. Must I take the trip my husband is planning or stay at home and keep working?
Ans: Go along with your husband on the trip. A little pleasure is just as necessary to life as the few dollars you would earn if you stayed behind.

M. C.—I am in a little distress. Knowing that you are a man of sound judgment, I bring my problem to you. I am a girl of 35 and ever I was a young girl I have been very lucky getting nice respectable married men to o with. They have all been much older than I. Last year I married one of these men after his wife died. He is 5. Now, I find that I love a single man of 45 whom I cannot understand. Kindly help me to understand him as I do not want to lose him.

Ans: He's lost to you already and rightly so. It's folly for a married woman to fall for another man and fool herself into thinking she can satisfy his desire for companionship and keep peace in her home too. Bid the boy friend farewell. Your apparent good luck in attracting the opposite sex hasn't netted you any happiness to speak of—had you your charm on the single fellows and left the old married guys alone, there would have been a different ending to your story. Stop playing the role of glamour gal and concentrate on making your husband happy.

S. M. C.—Last Sunday night my daughter came in from a date with her eyes swollen and I know she had been crying. I asked her what was wrong and she passed it off by saying she fell down. Now have I reason to worry?
Ans: No, there isn't any reason for alarm. Your daughter is grown up now and is in love for the first time. She had a little tiff with her boy friends which caused her to become upset emotionally. It is best to let the incident pass unseen.

M. H. B.—My husband and I have been married for 15 months. Before we were married, we both felt like we were married, we both felt like we could not go on without the other, but since we massed, seems like there is some-

Bell Telephone Company Reprices Phone Service

"Rising costs of furnishing service have forced a revision in our application to the Nebraska State Railway Commission for repricing of service," according to C. D. Gietzen, District Manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Commenting on the amended application filed with the Commission today, Mr. Gietzen said: "In order to provide good telephone service to our customers in Nebraska and make needed improvements as we go along, prices for the service must reflect the prevailing costs of furnishing it."

"The original application filed February 13, 1947," Mr. Gietzen pointed out, "was our first request for statewide repricing of local telephone service in 21 years and was based on going costs at the time of filing. We are now forced to amend the pending application to take into account still higher costs, principally the recent increase in wages. Our payroll, the biggest single item of telephone service expense, has more than doubled since 1939 due primarily to higher wage levels and to more people needed to meet service demands."

"In recent years the outgo has increased so much faster than the intake that the Company's level of earnings in Nebraska is at an all-time low. Repricing is the only solution but we are keeping it as small as possible. There were no margins in the original application to meet the amount of wage adjustments with which we are faced and we now find it necessary to ask the Commission for additional revenues."

Mr. Gietzen said that the revised prices proposed for some of the principal classes of local service (not including Federal taxes) here in Omaha are as follows:

Business 1-Party Flat	Rate	$11.00
Business 1-Party Message	Rate	6.00
Message Allowance	80 Calls	Excess Messages	4c

Residence 1-Party Flat Rate	$4.50
Residence 2-Party Flat Rate	$3.75
Residence 2-Party Message	Rate	$2.75
Message Allowance	45 Calls	Excess Messages	5c
Rural Residence	$3.00

An adjustment in the prices of supplemental local service and the discontinuance of the prompt payment discount were included in the original application. Price changes proposed for long distance calls within Nebraska are principally as follows:

Establishment of a three-minute initial period for all calls from 10 cents up.

An increase of 5c or 10c in the initial period station-to-station day rates for most calls under 175 miles; similar increases for person-to-person calls except that a few rates will be increased 15c. Reductions up to 30c on day station-to-station rates and reductions up to 40c on day person-to-person rates beyond approximately 175 miles.

An increase in most night and Sunday rates of 5c up to not more than 20c for the greater distances.

"We regret that this action is necessary," Mr. Gietzen said, "but in the interest of good service there is no alternative."

This picture shows the top sergeants of the change-over. The men who bear the responsibility for the mechanical efficiency of the crews. From left to right: Wm. Wunderlich, foreman over 20 groups; Clyde Lemon, foreman over 20 groups; Louis Bobell, foreman over special crew; Ershell Rowe, assistant to Wm. Bell, supervisor of Industrial Heating.

All these men have had years of experience in the Utilities Service Department. They were chosen for their mechanical knowledge, organizing ability and leadership.

Wm. Wunderlich and Clyde Lemon are leaders over 20 groups each. They stand ready to find the answers to any problem in their outfit which might puzzle the workman or his supervisor.

Louis Bobell is foreman of a special group of 40 highly trained experts some selected from our service department others brought in from outside. Mn who have worked for the past 10 years on change over jobs all over the country. This crew will spend most of their time on industrial and house heating problems. They will always be available as trouble shooters for any problem which stumps a group leader.

Ershell Rowe is assistant to Wm. Bell, theirs are all the gas appliances used for industrial and commercial change-over heating.

Now a few words about the change-over crews. They are composed of men from 19 different colleges and universities. They are for the most part veterans who are finishing their engineering courses, which were interrupted by the war. The wives and parents of these engineering students live in Omaha. The employment by the Utilities of these college men not only helps a lot to take the financial burden of a college course from the shoulders of their parents but also brings no housing problem to our over crowded city. 180 students from the University of Omaha and Creighton University started work June 9. One hundred and twenty more from Universities scattered all over the country are now taking a week of intensive training and will join the other crews June 16.

Here is a way you can help a lot in the change-over. Should you be on a vacation or out of town when the change-over workman calls. Phone the Utilities and request the change-over operator. Tell her where you will have your key. With your neighbor, with a member of the family or with our meter reading department. The change-over man will get the key and return it the same day after the change-over is completed. In case you do not wish your home entered. We will shut off all the gas from your home. We will on news of your return make the change over at our earliest convenience. The Utilities would like one of your family or a neighbor to be present when they make the change-over to be sure everything is left in perfect condition.
