Primitive Origin
The universality of man's love of color was demonstrated early in antiquity. Each region and sub-region of the globe developed its own eye sources. It is estimated that nearly 1,000 different plants, vines, shrubs and trees were at one time or another, employed for extracting dyes. However, only a few of the primitive dyes survived to ancient and medieval times.

More in Industry
In more and more industries milk is being used to improve employees' health and counteract fatigue. Reductions in accidents with an improvement in safety, less absenteeism due to illness, increased production during hours of fatigue low-points, are reported where milk is being served between meals or added to diets.

Hotbeds, Coldframes Help Gardeners

Hotbeds are frames or boxes with a transparent glass covering and some type of heat source. A bottom bed of manure is a favorite heating element.

Electrically Heated Hotbed
A simple artificial heating element is an electric cable and thermostat control box. Some hotbeds are built against a basement window and use heat from the cellar. (See sketches.) Delicate seeds and plants can be grown as much as two months before planting is possible outdoors.

Coldframes Helpful
In the North, a coldframe is usually employed for hardening off plants that have been started in hotbeds or in the house. In the South, coldframes are used for growing early plants.

Hotbed Built Into Window
The coldframe is just like the hotbed, except that it contains no artificial heat. Use of the right type of glass is important in making either a hotbed or coldframe. One of the best types is Pennvernon Glass. This transmits sunlight evenly, abundantly and directly thus making the hotbed or coldframe more efficient.

Hotbeds and coldframes should face the South, and should be located on the South side of the building, a tight board fence, or protecting wall. They are best near the house where they can be given proper attention easily.

Pennvernon Used on Coldframe
Watering and ventilation are important to the success of frame-grown plants.

Double-Glazed Top
Increased efficiency from the hotbed or coldframe can be had by using a double-glazed top. This can be made in the same manner as storm windows, and is really two tops in one with double insulation value.

Crops that can be started with fine results in frames include: lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, tomatoes, peppers, egg plants, muskmelons, summer squashes, celery and cucumbers.

Ideal Hog Site
Moderately fat hogs, weighing between 180 and 240 pounds alive, produce hams, shoulders and sides of the most desirable size for curing.

Shows Sense
Without eyes and living underground, the earthworm senses the fall of night and wriggles to the surface of the earth.
