Good Business Cannot Thrive on Bad News

In Nebraska there are many hundreds of good citizens who are engaged in the business of selling beer at retail. They are citizens who appreciate, and have accepted, the responsibility as well as the privilege which their beer license conveys.

These beer retailers are striving to conduct places of which your community can be proud. They know that even one tavern where law and social decency are not respected, can cast a shadow on every beer retailer throughout the state.

That is why good beer retailers appreciate the work of the Nebraska Committee whose efforts are directed at helping eliminate those few who are making "bad news" for the many.

MERCURY UNITES FATHER AND SON JAZZ TEAM

CHICAGO.—Mercury Records this week untied boogie pianist Al Ammons, jazz immortal, and his son, Gene ex Billy Eckstine tenor star who has been fronting his own combo recently, on wax last week when the twosome, supported by a cast of top Windy City swing stars, cut a series of releases. Their first Mercury platter, "St. Louis Boogie and Shufflin'" The Boogie will be ready for counters September 15.

Personnel on the date included; Israel Crosby, bass; Al (Mouse) Burrows, drums; Ike Perkins and Barry Gailbraith, guitars, plus Ammons, dad and son. The elder Ammons has been an exclusive Mercury recording artist for the past two years, turning out such top hits as Swannee Boogie, and "Deep in the Heart of Texas Boogie" while his son has just joined the Mercury talent roster.

The youthful tenor-tooting Gene joined Mercury after creating a furore in Chicago with his original swing specialty, Rep Top, which during the past six weeks, has started taking hold nationally.

PROBLEMS OF HUMANITY

Editor's Note:— Submit your problems for publication to ABBE WALLACE, in care of this newspaper. Give your full name, address and birthdate. For a "private reply" send Abbe a stamped envelope and twenty-five cents for one of his new and inspiring "LESSONS FOR HAPPIER LIVING." Your letter will be treated confidentially. Send 25 cents in coin, stamps or money order. Address your letter to: The "ABB" WALLACE Service, in care of,

W. P. B.—My boy friend's wife has him fixed so bad until it's pitiful. She takes all his money and when he gets drunk she beats him like he was a dog with sticks. He has no one to say a kind word to him when he drinks and he stays drunk every Saturday and Sunday. He wants to get rid of her but don't know how.

Ans: He needs to stay sober and he will be treated with more respect. Living with a drunk is a miserable existence and his wife's patience is about exhausted. If it takes a little rough treatment to keep him in line, he may as well expect it as long as he stops up the rum. Since she has shown she is handy with the stick, you had better not crowd her too much. Leave her man alone.

Wishful—I love music so well and guess I always will. I try not to but it seems to stay in my soul. Would it be well to join a club or forget about it if possible?

Ans: Join a music club and your church choir too and continue experiencing the satisfaction you derive from music. I should think a girl your age would like to take music lessons as it will net you a lot of personal happiness all of your life.

L. C.—I met a guy that's really nice to go out with and doesn't mind spending his money. He has another friend whom I know that he goes with pretty regularly. I am not a jealous person but I do not intend to be the table cloth and surely won't be the dish cloth. Fact is, I don't want him taking me and her out and the next thing I know he'll be married to her.

Ans: That's a chance all single people must take. Surely, you don't expect the fellow to give up all his girl friends and court you only when you have known each other for such a short time. Competition works both ways — encourage a couple of other nice boy friends yourself and do not let him take you for granted. You'll never win a man unless you stay in the battle and fight.

A. M.—I have been going with a man for nearly a year but now that the problem of marriage has come up, I don't think it would work. He is 37 years old but that doesn't matter as I prefer that age. But he never kisses me, never tells me he loves me, never seems to have any desire for me. I do all the kissing. He is nice about giving me presents but doesn't satisfy me, I want love. We are fussing regularly now. Am I wrong in thinking a man should show a woman he loves her with hugs, kisses and kind words?

Ans: Not at all—every girl expects a lover as well as a husband when she marries. He cares for you—but he has been through this phase in life with his first wife and would feel embarrassed to "bill and coo" before his half grown children. He's too old for you as you could never fall into his serious routine. Pick husband nearer your own age.

D. M. P.—I am nearly 20. I didn't quite finish high school. I wonder if I should go back and finish up. A boy asked me to marry him but he isn't here now. Do you think I have a better chance in married life or going back to school life?

Ans: Re-enter school immediately. It will be at least a year before the young man in question is in a position to marry as he is still over seas. Meanwhile, finish high school and take a course of study in some specific field or go to college. Don't just sit around waiting to get married.

J. S. N.—There is a man of 25 whom I like quite a lot and he seems the same way about me. Here is my problem. His wife has put in for a divorce and is telling the people I am the cause when her husband hadn't even spoken to me until after she asked for a divorce. Do you think I should disregard what people say and go on with him as he is nice. I want to keep my reputation.

Ans: Well—Knock him off your list as you will lose your reputation by continuing this friendship. He is not divorced and even though you did not know him until he and his wife were having domestic troubles, your presence has added to her grief and she hold nothing but bitterness in her heart for you. There are too many attractive single fellows who want to date you for you to be wasting your time with a man who is married.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain
Cardul is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1.—Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
2.—Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.
Try Cardul. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

GET ON BOARD!

There's a streamlined train whizzing around the country with a priceless load on board. To 300 cities during the next twelve months, the Freedom Train will carry the record of America's heritage—all the documents that mark the growth of liberty in the United States.

Three carloads of America's birthright make up the Freedom Train—the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, Jefferson's Bill of Religious Freedom, the Gettysburg Address, the Emancipation Proclamation—the written guarantees of the American way of life. Here is your right to say what you please; to worship as you see fit; to talk over your common problems with your neighbors. Here is your right to trial by jury; to equal protection under the law, whether you are rich or poor, white or black, Catholic, Protestant or Jewish. Here, too, is the foundation for labor's rights—the safeguards that make it possible for workers to unite in strong unions and fight for decent working conditions.

Here are all the rights and freedoms of democracy—but documents alone can't keep democracy in action. To do that takes citizenship. It takes men and women who know their heritage and will work to keep it; who join in community activities, who vote in elections, who fight to keep their rights and the rights of their neighbors from being attacked.

American workers have learned that eternal vigilance is the price of their freedom. They will be more vigilant than ever before. The Freedom Train highlights a year of re-dedication to American ideals and labor will lead the way. Together, in strong unions, workers of every race and creed will prove that alert and active Americans know how to protect their heritage—in the shops, in the communities, in Congress. The Freedom Train is on its way. Freedom is everybody's job.
