QUOTES OF THE WEEK

"If we are to become progressively stronger, if our paths and our policies are to lead toward maximum strength, an ever-increasing national strength for tomorrow and the future, we must cut federal expenditures drastically each year until we have a federal government we can afford."—Ellsworth C. Alvord, noted finance leader.

"We need only to face the facts boldly and then act positively—positively in the pursuit of a person for once where business is out front with a determined program to do good in about all the important ways people want good done right now."—L. R. Boulware, V. P.—Employee Relations, G. E. Co.

"If anyone were to list the reasons why the United States became the world's greatest industrial nation, our railroads certainly would rank high on that list."—Gwilym A. Price, President Westinghouse Electric Corp.

"It is economic illiteracy to disregard the fundamental economic principals of Americanism or decadent Europeanism."—Erle P. Halliburton, Oklahoma Industrialist.

"The small residual amount of corporate product that goes to profits is far more than just so much 'purchasing power.' It is the driving force back of our whole economy."—Edward Collins, Financial Editor.

INDUSTRIAL LOOKING GLASS

By Allan W. Powell

(NIPS)—It is almost one of the greatest tragedies of our times that only a proportionately few Negroes are stockholders in a major industrial corporation of the country. Were this not the case, it is almost certain that some of the present conceptions of the operation of the private enterprise system would undergo some adjustment in the minds of many of us.

For some reason it has never been a practice of Brown America to invest monies in stocks or bonds, despite the fact that this phase of our economy is almost the backbone of the system under which this country enjoys its position as one of the leading nations of the world.

There are but a few leading utility, manufacturing, or commercial units now functioning that do not owe their existence to the thousands of persons who have financed their operations through the purchase of shares from their wages or other income. In one large manufacturing company, about 35 percent of the nearly 250,000 stock holders own from 1 to 10 shares, while 85 percent of the total number are individuals.

Yet, we as a people are pathetically unaware of the financial element that is an integral part of any major corporation's functioning. If this were not the case, the present outlook on the part of many of us, especially as regards labor-management relations, could be materially adjusted in view of our personal and more intelligent awareness.

Our appreciation of the significance of wage levels, operating costs, taxation, dividends, and the other facets of a company's operations could not help but be reflected in our more analytical appraisal that would be undertaken in order to protect our investment. Nor is it too far-fetched to assume that the time may come when our equity in a corporation's business affairs may result in policy changes that would accomplish some of those present inequalities that now effect us.

PALESTINE

By Myrtle M. Goodlow

Great Britain's refusal to recognize Palestine is another awful blunder of our time. Britain couldn't do any better following Hitler's orders to the letter. A people who has suffered so much and their loss so great. To now again share the same fate through a nation which preaches democracy but like our own is just hypocrisy. Be ye not deceived God is not mocked. He counts deeds condemns idle talk. And Britain shall rue the day. She ever armed the Arabs to slay. For God in His appointed time. Shall right the wrongs of Palestine.

The Christian world now weeps with you. For all you have gone through. And it makes us very sad. That Jerusalem is a Stalingrad. But lift up your hearts Oh Israel. For your cause is just and real.

The God of might is on your side. He will lead you through the swelling tide. The day is coming soon. When Palestine shall blossom and bloom. And they who persecute you now. In shame their heads shall bow. Pain and sorrow they too shall know. For God has willed it so.

A flag was never raised on high. Till brave men had to fight and die. Thy flag Oh Israel shall ever wave on high. The Star of David as a Star aflame. Proclaiming to the world they nation's name.

D.J.— I have been going with this fellow 7 months. He made me fall in love with him by being so nice to me and now I do love him so hard. But he tells me now and he isn't ready to settle down even though he did ask me to marry him and said he was looking for a wife when we first started together. I found a girl's picture he dropped out of his pocket. Does that mean anything?

Ans: It does. You are no longer the apple of his eye. Here of late, you have some stiff competition. However, two can play this game—get around and side up to some nice, likeable chap yourself and watch his blood pressure rise.

B. M.— I have five hundred dollars on my own money. My friend has been trying to get me to loan him part of it. I want to keep this money. Please tell me if I need to worry about it?

Ans: Yes—unless you bank it. Open savings account at the bank immediately and deposit this money. Keeping it on your person as you are doing at this time is most unwise as you will lose it or it will get away from you in some way. Your savings will be insured and safe in the bank.

J. M. A.— Should I remain where I am or take a room at another place?

Ans: Take the room you have been trying to get as soon as it is vacant. A change isn't absolutely necessary as your present landlady has nothing against you—but since you feel your present environment offers you little—take the new place. It will be the means of your making new friends.

L.B.— It seems that my husband and I can't get along, I love him and I know that he loves me but we use all of the time. We say things to one another that we are sorry for afterwards. Seems though I have something catty to say every time he comes in.

I want you to tell me if we can ever be happy?

Ans: You can—yes—but now unless you can turn over a new leaf. If you and your mate persist in abusing each other—the ultimate solution will be separation and divorce. By all means send 25 cents for my Happier Living Lesson "How to Hold Your Mate, before your marriage ends in complete failure.

F. C. B.— I am writing to find out if I should accept the offer my son and his bride have made me about coming and living with them. They have a new home. I own my own home. Should I go?

Ans: Your son and new daughter-in-law mean well, but it is best that you keep your independence—and let them share their love alone. Visit them occasionally to prove your love for them—but don't move in bag and baggage.

Ziplock Helps Curb Bicycle Thefts

If you want your bike not only to get you to school but also back again, lock it securely, say the Yale experts. Mary Kay Jones, who plays a fifteen-year-old high school girl in the Broadway hit "Strange Bedfellows" shows how to put that good advice into practice. The bike-wheel can't turn when it is fastened with the new Yale ziplock. The lock case can be zipped up the notched steel shackle to fit any size needed to safely lock bicycles, duffle bags and camping equipment.

NO CEILING ON CAR COMFORT, SAYS NOTED ENGINEER

(NIPS) Despite the fact that the conveniences and ease of riding in the modern automobile has achieved remarkable distinction in recent years, the limit to the improvements possible does not exist, according to Earl H. Smith, famous experimental and major motor car company.

The average car-buyer is evidencing an increasing desire for car-comfort making his choice, says Smith, even to a point of ranking it above such factors as power, economy, appearance, roominess, and dependability during a recent survey. Yet, he pointed out, engineers are still well ahead of the public's wishes, and indicated that his own company conducts 3,000 experiments each year to improve the ride.

For many years, car-riders grew better with the improvements of the highways, Smith said, but now that roads generally are good, the responsibilities for improvements rests entirely with the specialists, and they are making a continuous effort to reduce side-shake back and forth and up and down motion to a minimum.

The two top Capitol Releases for this week are: I Want to Linger Capito Ino. 15095

Pete's Daily's Chicagoans I Want to Linger in an old, old, ballad that goes back a good 25 years at least, and Pete Daily's Chicagoans give it an equally old fashioned performance in both arrangement and instrumentation.

Flipping Pete Daily's I Want to Linger, you will find What's Your Story. This is played in a brighter tempo, but with the same early 1920 style. The taigate trombone and the solo piano are especially reminiscent of those "good old days."

She's A Shady Lady—Capitol No. 40119 Milo Twins She's A Shady Lady is the song story sung by the Milo Twins on this side. The Twins harmonize and they stick by their lady friend at the same time.

The Milo Twins turn over She's A Shady Lady to wax Frail Quail: This song has a plaintive quality about it, and features the Milo Twins doing their usual vocalizing with a not-so-usual boogie beat in the background.

FACTS IN RHYME

By Myrtle M. Goodlow

"By their fruits ye shall know them" Said Christ the Saviour of men. And Father Flanagan is living proof Of this great gospel truth. Working with heart and soul, He reached his long sought goal.

Father Flanagan's work and love for humanity, Has proven him to be A true disciple of Christ. And all that a servant of His should be. Filled with the love and spirit of Christ, He labors for all alike. Faithfully following the Master's plan, In loving and serving his fellowman.

Without the helping hand, Of Father Flanagan, Hundreds of boys of every race, color and creed — Would never have known The comforts and joys of home. Or taught the useful trades which fit them— Nor the religious training given them To take an honored place among men.

The sacred words I recall, "He that is greatest among you— Shall be the servant of all." Still ring true from the heavens blue. And should be a lesson to all. To love and serve mankind alike, Is the true spirit of our blessed Christ.

Father Flanagan never shirked his work,— In God's great vineyard — But has labored long and hard, And today we see his reward, And his efforts crowned, In the beautiful buildings of Boys' Town! That through the years shall stand — As a monument to our beloved Father Flanagan. Servant of God — and servant of man, God bless Father Flanagan!

This poem was written by one of Omaha's own. Father Flanagan had the pleasure of reading it in February, 1945. This poem was published by the Omaha Guide Publishing Co. Also below, is a letter from Father Flanagan to the writer of the poem to express his gratitude for the flowers where he lived.

Mrs. Myrtle M. Goodlow February 3, 1945

Omaha 2, Nebraska.

My Dear Mrs. Goodlow:

Your letter of recent date at hand with the enclosed clipping, "Facts in Rhyme." I appreciate your interest in Boys Town and by all means I am greatly flattered by your writing effort.

We are continuing to strive to do a better job here at Boys Town in our humble way. It is hard work and we are confronted with new problems every day, but for the boys we help we know it is very worthwhile. The confidence that people have in us, such as yourself, as expressed in your "Facts in Rhyme," help us to carry on our work.

Thanking you for your interest in Boys Town, and with every good wish, I am

Sincerely,
(Signed) E. J. Flanagan,
Rt. Rev. Msgr. E. J. Flanagan

PILOTS ARE NEEDED (NIPS)

The future in aviation looks brighter, according to Archie Smith, former C. A. flight examiner and flight instructor at the Tuskegee Army Primary School, who organized the War Hawk Aviation Club in 1946, to promote aviation in and around New York City.

Good paying jobs as instructors and pilots await former Air Force men who can qualify he stated. There are now open Smith, and the men are still ingins aviation, according to terested will do well to begin anew to stick to the grind necessary to become pilots.

Sign Marshall Plan

PARIS, FRANCE — (Soundphoto) — As Protocol Chief Dumaine (left) looks on, British Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson is shown signing a convention for European economic cooperation. Robertson, representing the economically merged British and American zones in Germany, said that he and the American Military Governor Lucius D. Clay have received assurance that they welcome the opportunity given Germany to join the plan. Representatives of 16 nations participating in the Marshall Aid plan signed the cooperation convention.

Army Tests New Survival Rations
LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y.— Survival rations which will maintain strength, prevent tissue breakdown, and require minimum water are being developed in U. S. Army tests on Welfare Island. Eleven enlisted volunteers lived during a March test on a day's ration averaging 28 of the small biscuits shown (about one-third of a pound) plus three glasses of water. Here one volunteer watches closely as the dietitian measures out his day's allotment.

Such tests are the end stage of research. The Army's formula has been changed many times since January, 1945, with production research in the big bakery here of Sunshine Biscuits. Sunshine has cooperated with the Army by baking free of charge more than 250,000 experimental biscuits for the ration studies.

An unexpected result has been a flood of inquiries from diet-conscious persons which has caused the baking firm to announce that the ration is solely for Army research and is not available for civilian consumption.
