

WORKER'S SEXUAL BEHAVIOR

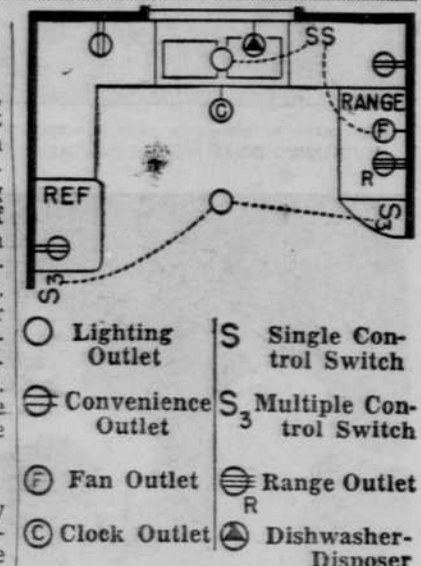

The sexual behavior of the working person is generally healthier than that of people higher up the social ladder. Earlier findings of social psychiatrists to this effect have now been supported statistically in the much-publicized (and much misinterpreted) Kinsey Report, Sexual Behavior in the Human Male.

The total sexual behavior of workers indicates greater warmth and spontaneity. This analysis is not an attempt to idealize the American worker. Often people whose work brings them into contact with workers become disgusted with "backward" attitudes that they sometimes encounter. This article attempts to appraise some basic behavior patterns in the American worker, which may contrast sharply with his expressed attitudes. The worker's fundamental behavior may be in advance of these stated ideas.

Wiring Is Heart of Model Kitchen; How It Can Cut Costs in Any Home

By JANE BAIRD National Adequate Wiring Bureau Pictured is a model kitchen, very pleasing to the eye—but what really makes its perfection possible can't be seen. It has hidden charms—electrical wiring that meets all standards of adequacy, insuring the maximum in efficient and economical operation of lights and appliances. Whether you plan to build or modernize—no matter how modest the scale—your choice of wiring is of utmost importance. Adequate wiring costs little more than ordinary wiring, and in the end yields substantial savings. Costly Changes Averted For instance, certain heavy duty appliances, such as the electric range, dishwasher-foam waste disposer and home freezer, require individual circuits. These circuits should be added at the same time that other kitchen wiring is being done, even though you do not plan to buy all of these appliances immediately. Thus, no costly ripping open of walls, ceilings or flooring when you decide later on to expand your kitchen's electrical equipment. Model Wiring Highlighted The diagram above is a wiring layout that highlights the convenience factors of the model kitchen. For example, its central ceiling light has two switches. One is near the entrance to the dining room, on the right, and the other is near the back door next to the refrigerator, on the left. Of particular interest is the placement of a duplex convenience outlet, at elbow height, near each work surface for plugging in the toaster, coffee-maker, food mixer, roaster, etc. One is located to the left of the sink, the other near the range. The two switches on the plate to the right of the window control a light over the sink and the ventilating fan. Special outlets have been provided for the kitchen clock (recessed receptacle), ventilating fan, electric range and dishwasher-disposer.

(Continued from Page 1) STATE OF THE NATION Publicians and Democrats alike have long been saying kind words in favor of housing legislation, Federal aid, education, wider coverage for social security and enlarged benefits to meet inflation prices, and at least a beginning toward better guarantees of constitutional civil rights. But the way things now are going in Congress, it will be all talk and no action at this session.

For many months it has been the congressman who were foremost in attacking the Administration for not having a "consistent" foreign policy and sticking to it. Today it is the congressmen who at this stage are doing the most to prove to the rest of the world that the United States cannot pursue a consistent foreign policy—congressmen who in the winter assure Europe that a full bodied Marshall Plan approved and then in the spring hack that assurance to pieces.

Today, it is the Congressmen who at this stage are advising the world that they are getting ready to see that the United States pursues an isolationist economic policy with one hand and an internationalist political policy with the other. Both parties of course, are momentarily in the grip of preoccupation politics and political maneuvering. On two paramount matters—cutting ERP and crippling the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act—the Republican house has acted, in the judgement of many, against its own best interest of the country. Under the leadership of Senator Vandenberg, the Senate has a fair chance to repair the damage. It needs to.

DR. EMBREE HEADS LIBERIAN FOUNDATION Dr. Edwin R. Embree, President of the Julius Rosenwald Fund until its termination June 30, has been elected President of the The Liberia Foundation, it was announced last night in New York City by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Chairman of the Board of The Liberia Company. The Foundation, whose leadership Dr. Embree has already assumed, will assist in the advancement of health, welfare and education programs in the West African Republic of Liberia. The Liberia Foundation was set up last fall in conjunction with The Liberia Company, a joint American-Liberian organization which is developing both the human and natural resources of Liberia. Ten percent of the stock of The Liberia Company has been given to the Foundation as its initial grant. In accepting this new post, Dr. Embree stated: "The most important problem in the world today is to work out mutually beneficial relationships among the various peoples of the earth, America needs the iron and diamonds, and agricultural products of Africa, and the African people need medicine, education, and modern technology. Starting in Liberia, the only free republic in the African continent, we hope to demonstrate a new pattern of mutual helpfulness. The efforts of the Liberia Foundation will be centered on public health, cooperation with the government in building a system of schools throughout the country, and the development of a higher standard of living through native crafts and modern agriculture in collaboration with The Liberia Company."

Dr. Embree visited Liberia this spring with Mr. Stettinius and talked with President William V. S. Tubman and other Liberian officials, who gave him assurances of full cooperation. Dr. Embree will be assisted by a staff of experienced Americans and Liberians, and expects to visit Liberia again soon. As President of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Dr. Embree directed programs to better race relations and to ensure equal rights and opportunities for all Americans. He was for ten years a Director and Vice-President of the Rockefeller Foundation, working in the fields of education and public health in China, Japan, the Pacific Islands, and eastern Europe.

Dr. Embree is Chairman of the Commission on Human Relations of the City of Chicago, one of the organizers and Chairmen of the Board of Trustees of Roosevelt College of Chicago, and an organizer of the American Council on Race Relations and the Bureau for Intercultural Education.

HARRIMAN SEES EMPHASIS SHIFTING TOWARD PEACE

By Volney D. Hurd Staff Correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor Paris—The present political atmosphere of the world is one of "cold peace", in the personal estimate of Averill Harriman, roving ambassador for the Marshall Plan. With this term Mr. Harriman describes the current Soviet withdrawal of pressure at key points in Europe and the shift of world thinking to a somewhat more positive emphasis on peace. In this period, in which both "peace" and propaganda offensives mark the general pattern, Paris is disturbed by conflicting views and today finds a common denominator in the uneasy attitude of "wait and see."

Disturbing Factors The following factors, in informed French opinion, contribute to the seeming confusion of what Mr. Harriman terms an atmosphere of "cold peace." 1. New concern about the position of the United States resulting from efforts by the House of Representatives to cut ERP funds by 25 percent. Europe is committed to a four-year agreement, yet only a one-year commitment has been taken by the United States, and now, almost before goods actually start rolling, the House shows a tendency to make heavy cuts.

2. The statement by Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, United States Chief of Naval Operations, given before a House Naval Appropriations Subcommittee. This statement was received here as stating that the United States Mediterranean Fleet is there primarily to evaluate United States troops in Germany and Trieste and American missions in Turkey and Greece "in case of emergency." (French diplomatic circles apparently have underplayed the part of Admiral Denfeld's statement which lists as one of the United States Mediterranean Fleet's missions "a show of force" to deter any nation from possible hostile action.)

3. The campaign by Quai d'Orsay to have the London conference proposals on western Germany accepted. The chief theme is that the British and Americans yielded as much as the French in arriving at the current agreement. This is an effort to show that the French Government has not been outflanked, since the agreement reaches Paris at a time when Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, if not Premier Robert Schuman's Government might fall if the proposals proved unacceptable. 4. The Russian decision to scale down Finnish reparations. The more clamor observers see a clean-cut Moscow victory in the House of Representatives' fund slashing. As Mr. Harriman told reporters, upon arriving for his new work here: "I can only interpret the recent moves by Moscow, such as the Kremlin's 'peace offensive' a couple of weeks ago, as indicating they believe the ECA (Economic Cooperation Administration), is proving effective and strengthening the position of the western European nations."

TWO LEGION JUNIOR BASEBALL GRADS GET $62,000 CONTRACTS

Indianapolis, Ind.—Contracts totaling $62,000 have been signed with major league clubs by two American Legion Junior Baseball star pitchers, graduates respectively of the 1946 and 1947 seasons. Top prize winner is Hugh Frank Radcliffe, 18 year old strikeout artist of the 1946 crack American Legion Junior Baseball team of the Pete Thurston Post 81 of Thomaston, Ga. He received a $40,000 bonus for signing with the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club. It was believed to have been the largest bonus ever paid to an American Legion Junior Baseball graduate. Bob Andres, sensational 18 year old pitcher of the 1947 national American Legion Junior baseball championship team of the Bentley Post 50 of Cincinnati, Ohio received a bonus of $22,000 for signing with the Detroit International League, a Detroit Tiger farm club.

Others Win Berths.

Other recent graduates of American Legion Junior Baseball who have been signed by the major leagues include Ernie Funk, now 18, star pitcher of the national 1947 runner-up team of the Melchior M. Elberts Post 1 of Little Rock, Ark., under contract with the Detroit Tigers; Vern Law, now 18, pitcher of the John Regan Post 2 team at Boise, Idaho, who struck out 59 batters in three games in the 1947 state finals in Idaho, and his brother Evan, catcher, signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates; George Moeller, or Cincinnati, slugging teammate of Andres, who collected 20 hits in 40 trips in the 1947 national play off, signed by the Detroit Tigers; and Hal Grote, who played left field for the 1947 championship Bentley team, given a tryout with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Radcliffe's Record

Young Radcliffe played with the Thomaston Junior Baseball team from 1943 until 1946. He first won fame when he pitched a no-hitter against an Atlanta team in 1945. In the 1946 season he won 25 and lost one game for his team, dropping that one to the New Orleans La., nine that won the national title that year. His most spectacular feat was the striking out of 28 batters in a regulation nine-inning high school game recently. He was able to strike out 28 batters one more than the theoretical maximum for a regulation game, when his catcher dropped a third strike on one batter and the player reached first. He won the game 10 to 0. Young Andres focused attention on himself by allowing and average of three hits in 18 games with the Bentley Post team in 1947. In the entire interstate competition that led to the national championship, Andres allowed only 55 hits and struck out 228 batters.

AMERICAN DISCONTINUES STEAM LOCOMOTIVE BUILDING

The first builder to abandon the manufacture of steam engines in favor of Diesel-electric is the American Locomotive Company which recently announced that their plant in the future will be devoted exclusively to building of the Diesel locomotives. According to P. T. Egbert, vice-president in charge of the locomotive division, "American Locomotive is not intentionally going out of the steam locomotive business. It is simply a matter of demand. All orders and inquiries for new motive power from domestic railroads are for Diesel-Electrics. We have been preparing for this day for a long number of years and have invested more than $20,000,000 to convert our facilities," he said. American railroads had 1,596 locomotives on order on June 1st—111 steam and 485 Diesels—67 of the latter being for the Missouri Pacific System. This is the greatest number of locomotives on order since August 15th, 1923, when the number was 1674. During the first five months of 1948 the railroads placed in service 11 new steam locomotives, 4 electric and 512 Diesels—26 of the latter being placed in service by the Missouri Pacific System.

School Bus Proves It Can Take It

CARO, MICH.—A passenger car traveling at high speed rammed into a 48-passenger school bus from the rear while it was parked here for the night. The terrific impact forced the automobile under the bus, but fortunately the driver was thrown clear. Photos above show the car completely demolished, the bus safety school bus only slightly damaged, not even a windowpane cracked.
