V. C.—I have been going with this friend for nearly a year. Last week he gave me a beautiful radio-phonograph console that cost three hundred dollars. I know that he cares for me but what I want to know is why won't he do things that I want him to do always?
 Ans: You expect too much of your friend. He loves you and proves it. But—he's not the type to let any woman "hen-peck" him to the extent of dancing to their tune about every little thing. He's going to exercise his own judgement at times and you may as well appreciate this fact. You will admire him much more for doing so.

S. M.—I received a letter from a man in the north selling lots as low as $75. I want to know if I should go ahead and buy one of these lots?
 Ans: Don't invest any money in property which you have not seen. You are not familiar with this part of the country and its doubtful if you would ever care to live there. Before buying a lot anywhere—look it over and investigate the title and avoid costly complications. I shall be glad to go into your second problem if you write me privately.

C. B.—I have been sick for the past year and the doctors here do not seem to know my trouble. My husband is urging me to make the trip to Baltimore and go to John Hopkins for a diagnosis. Do you think it would be a waste of money?
 Ans: Absolutely not. It is precisely what you should do since you have not been able to get relief from the treatment you have received. Your husband considers your health far more important than the money he has saved and is ready and willing to spend every cent of it if necessary in order for you to enjoy better health.

G. H. C.—Last November I met Joe for the first time. He was in college and therefore did not have much money. I felt sorry for him and helped him out financially and did without to give him nice things for school. He never seemed to appreciate it one bit. In fact, he was always wanting more. When he went home this summer he said he would be too busy to write and asked me not to bother about it either. Now he returns this month and I want to know how to treat him.
 Ans: As a stranger. He does not hold the same affection for you as you think you have for him. Also—he's much too young for you to lose your head about. You won't gain his favor by doling out your hard earned dollars. Search for companionship with men around your own age.

R. T.—I bought a grocery store business the first of April. I can't see where I am making any money at all. In fact, my finances are not as good as they were before I started with this store. A friend of mine has offered to buy me out at a good margin of profit. Should I sell or hold on as I am not happy about it at all?
 Ans: Let it go. It's not good business to hold on to an investment that does not net a profit. It would pay you to concentrate all your effort on your cafe as it does net you a nice profit.

Just Between Us

KEYS TO AN ATTRACTIVE HOME
 By Maria Caterine

It was just the other day that I dropped in on Lenore Garland at her home. It was my honest intent to obtain from her a story, which we thought might interest you, in connection with her activities on the MBS "Adventures of the Falcon" program. Even had our favorite photographer with us. We got some pictures all right, but not the story. Reason? Lenore was in the midst of doing some pre-fall refurbishing of her apartment and our aid was immediately enlisted. Later, over a gracious cup of tea placed on a stepladder alongside a plate of sandwiches, we discussed little things which make brightening the home easier. From our scribbled notes, therefore, here are some items which might be helpful to you too.

It's Easy As Pie

Mrs. Turner Re-Denver Wedding

Mrs. Elise Turner of 2512 North 24th St. who is one of the cities most popular beauticians has just returned from Denver, Colo., having gone to attend a wedding of the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Holmes of Denver.

The marriage vows were read in the Episcopal Church. After the marriage ceremony, the 1000 guest assembled in the spacious lawn of the bride's parents to offer the newly-weds congratulations. The lawn was beautifully decorated with seasonal flowers and was a perfect setting for the occasion.

After the lawn reception, the guest were escorted upon an arranged site seeing tour.

Mrs. Turner also reports that there were several dinner parties given in honor of the bride, and afterwards, the 18 out-of-town hostesses were taken to the Holms' Cabin in the mountains some 40 miles out from Denver, where they were served a delicious dinner. The tour continued on to Lincoln Hills, where there is a fine resort and hotel, and numerous cabins owned by individual Denverites.

Barbeque Feasts Are Fun, Whether You Picnic At Home Or In The Woods

NOW'S the time to enjoy a barbeque feast, whether you plan to picnic in the woods or the backyard or simply serve supper on a tray and move the porch or roof. When the mercury goes soaring, the spicy tang of barbeque sauce on spareribs or hamburgers, co-starred with a green salad and cold beer or lemonade have top appetite appeal.

It's pleasant, of course, to own the latest luxurious equipment for outdoor cooking; but the flavor of your barbeque masterpiece can be just as appetizing when you improvise over a campfire or do the main job of cooking over the kitchen stove. An easy way to achieve a new flare for spareribs is to add beer or ale to the sauce. As always when cooking with beer, open the container and allow to stand about 15 minutes before adding to the other ingredients. Cold potato salad or cole slaw or sliced tomatoes and cucumbers with a savory dressing will provide a popular accompaniment to the barbequed spareribs.

Stuffed, Barbequed Spareribs
 1 large onion, minced
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 4 cups soft bread crumbs
 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Few grains pepper
 1 1/2 cups (12 oz.) beer
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 3 lbs. spareribs (2 pieces)
 Prepared mustard
 2 tablespoons vinegar
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
 1/2 cup chili sauce

Brown onion lightly in butter or margarine; add crumbs, poultry seasoning, salt, pepper and 1/2 cup beer; mix well; spread between 2 pieces of spareribs; fasten together with short metal skewers; brush with mustard. Combine remaining beer, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, brown sugar and chili sauce in saucepan; heat, stirring, until sugar dissolves.

Roll spareribs over chili, basting frequently with sauce until thoroughly cooked, brown and crisp (45 minutes to 1 hour).

Barbecue Dressing
 2 tablespoons lime juice
 1/2 cup salad oil
 1/2 cup beer
 1 tablespoon sugar
 1 tablespoon cut chives
 1 tablespoon minced parsley

Combine all ingredients. Shake thoroughly before serving. Serve on sliced tomatoes and cucumbers.

GIRLS! Watch That Figure SHAPELESS GIRLS ARE OUTDATED

New York (CNS)—There's just no excuse for anybody going around these days out of shape! We're putting it boldly but we mean it just that way. If you have an ounce of intelligence and what female should be lacking that?—and a little getup in the old fashioned way, there just is no earthly reason why you shouldn't curve in the right places.

For this Leap Year is one in which fashion designers seem to have conspired against the unattached males. They're put everything that is humanly possible in clothes to hide what a young miss hasn't got and to make it seem that she has. And they have thought up every angle to tone down the flaws and make them follow the line.

Let's be more explicit. If you have bad legs, too fat, too thin, too crooked—this year the boys need never know. And if yours are a la Diethrich—do keep them guessing is the new motto. If you've no hips and have always been straight as a stick—too 'em. If you've too hippy or too much on the derriere, leave out the pads, but still wear the flowing skirts. Either way you can't go wrong and will still hear the whistles. If you have too little waistline or none at all, wear high waistline dresses, with full skirt and only you will know the difference. Others will say "gosh, you've wasp waisted", when you used to cry over your straight-as-a-rod appearance heretofore. If you've chested chested like a young boy, pad of course and stay in the high waistline dresses. They come fully draped and were meant for you.

So you see you can't go wrong with the new fashions. They were meant to deceive, and add what God forgot. You don't even have to starve day in and day out to look well in them. All you have to do is take brutal stock of yourself. Pull yourself apart as another woman would—scientifically and coldly. Tell yourself the things you know no one else would. Then buy accordingly.

There's the right costume waiting for you that hides just the flaw and will make you more curvaceous, more stunning than ever! "What a figure", your audience will say and of course you will smile demurely.
