ELSTON HOWARD CONTINUES TO SHINE AS YANKEE
The trade deadline came and went for the Yankees and any reference to trading star Elston Howard for a much needed pitcher may have been considered but certainly nixed by the front office. For Howard—the Yanks' first Negro—is continuing to shine as a Yankee.
Mgr. Casey Stengel calls him a "four-way guy"—a catcher, right fielder, left fielder and a solid gold pinch hitter. He's terrific under pressure. Just this week with the Yanks behind until the 9th inning, Howard came up with the game winning run against the Detroit Tigers.

This marked the third time already, Elston has delivered the game winning blow. His triple in ninth beat the Tigers 7-6 on May 9th; 1-6 on May 14th and his single in the ninth fixed the Orioles on May 29th 1-0. Howard's batting at .353. Remarkable Casey (in no double talk) "Howard has been doing all right for us. . . . I'm glad I've got him and not somebody else. You can bet on that."

Newcombe Labeled Showoff In St. Louis

St. Louis' newspapers had a field day criticizing Big Don Newcombe's mannerism of going to the resin bag between every pitch. They tried to label him a showoff for the mannerism which has delighted the fans who root for the big fellow each time at bat.

Newcombe will tell you it's no mannerism --this calling for the resin bag so much, for his reason is to keep him out of court. Six years ago, in a game against Philly at Ebbets Field, the bat slipped out of Newk's hand and hit a spectator. The woman claimed injury to her arm and sued for $3,500. The case has just been settled out of court for $250.

Says Newk: "My hands perspire more than most guys! I have to go to the bag a lot; sometimes two and three times a pitch."

When asked why others didn't do it, he said: "Other guys use pine-tar on their bat handles. But I can't use it because it makes my hands too sticky and I wouldn't be able to pitch."

Thus the mannerism will stand. And it plus Newcombe's .405 hitting and his pitching (11-1) make him one of the biggest drawing cards in baseball.

Nebraska big game hunters have only 6 days left in which to return applications for 1955 permits. A Game Commission spokesman said today, "big game hunters absolutely must have their applications in the mail before mid-night July 9 for consideration for a permit."

A total of 6,250 deer-rifle permits are being allowed. There will be a drawing to determine permittees if more applications than the allotted permits are received.
Application forms can be obtained from County Clerks, local Conservation Officers and by mail from the Game Commission offices in Lincoln, Bassett, Alliance, North Platte and Norfolk.

$258,000 Memorial Turned Down By Rep. Diggs

Congressman Charles C. Diggs, Jr. (Michigan Democrat) is vigorously protesting a bill approved by the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee appropriating $258,000.00 for the creation of a memorial honoring the legendary American Indian Chief, Crazy Horse.

Mr. Diggs, a member of the committee, is opposed to the idea of government funds being used to construct memorials for any particular racial or nationality group. He feels that any of this type should be one which "encompasses the representation of each group and indicates that all Americans of various races have made some major contribution to our culture."

Representative Diggs made it plain that he has the same opinion of a similar measure suggesting a memorial to Booker T. Washington. He noted, however, that the Washington Bill has been ignored by the committee for the past ten years.

The young Michigan lawmaker insists that group commemorations should have "A theme based on the cultural pluralism that has made America great."

"To spend $258,000.00 of federal money which comes from taxpayers of all groups to memorialize one particular group at the exclusion of all others," Diggs told the committee, "Does not conform to our democratic philosophy."

Congressman Diggs promised to carry his fight against the Crazy Horse Memorial to the House floor.

While stating his intent to fight the bill, Diggs declared that there is no member of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee who is more sympathetic than he to the problems of Indians. His general sympathy and concern with regard to problems facing all minority groups, he said, has been well established. Diggs pointed out that if the Congress really wishes to memorialize the contributions made by Indians to American progress and culture, there are many other ways in which the objective could be accomplished with greater benefit to the group.

There are several measures now pending in Committee, he said, such as House Bill No. 5838 to provide that payments be made to certain members of the Pine Ridge Sioux Tribe of Indians as reimbursement for damages suffered as the result of the

TAN Tells Of Negro Show Feuds

Fifteen sizzling feuds that flared up over the past 25 years among Negroes in show business are revealed in a recent issue of TAN. Some of the feuds resulted in gunplay, even murder. Most would like to be forgotten by the participants.

Perhaps the most famous of all were the two involving Cab Calloway, the Hi-De-Do king.

A few years ago, when Cab and his band were bound for Europe, a young trumpet player named John Birks Gillespie, armed with a knife, permitted his temper to flare out of control. He chased Cab on deck, but fortunately the band leader kept out of the way of an angered Mr. Gillespie, better known as Dizzy.

Back in Prohibition days, Cab was also main attraction in another feud with "Red" Roscoe Simmons. Cab challenged Red to a fist duel when he stole Cab's favorite girl friend. Promoters got word of the impending fight and had the pair agree to meet in a 3-rounder during one of the weekly fights held at the 8th Regiment Armory. News of the fight received reams of publicity and for weeks Cab trained diligently, running through the park every morning, boxing with trained sparring partners and getting proper rest. His adversary's training fare consisted of gin, cigarettes and little or no rest.

The night of the fight 8,000 jammed the stadium. Cab, in perfect condition, pranced into the ring, and Red, flabby, and just from a speakeasy, staggered to his corner. Betting odds went up on the band leader. When the bell sounded Cab demonstrated some of the fancy footwork he had recently learned.

Cost of Electricity Down 28% Since 1946

The two graph lines above tell a mighty big story.

Yes, it's a fact. The average cost per kilowatt hour for the electric energy that lights your home . . . washes and dries your clothes . . . cooks your meals . . . cleans your rugs . . . air conditions your home . . . and serves you silently, day and night, has been reduced 28% since 1946.

And because the average cost of electricity is lower today than ever before, our customers are using more and more electricity to do dozens of new jobs. Just think of the many new uses you have made of electricity right in your own home.

Yes, electricity is your biggest bargain in better living. Let it do even more for you!

Electricity does so much—costs so little.
